Assails New Deal's Philosophies.

Salem, Ore., Aug. 27 [Special].—Senator Charles L. McNary accepted the Republican Vice Presidential nomination here today with an indorsement of the party platform, a pledge of loyalty to Wendell Willkie, the Presidential nominee, and criticism for the Roosevelt New Deal.

Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota notified the Oregon senator of his nomination. Stassen was introduced by Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, national Republican chairman.

This campaign, McNary told the crowd assembled in the state fair grounds to honor the man who has represented them in the senate since May 29, 1917, is more than a contest between rival political parties. This campaign, he emphasized, is a conflict between philosophies of government and action.

Two Choices Offered.

We must choose in November, he added, whether America shall advance again along the path of her historic mission or retreat still further into the fields of futility.

Senator McNary said the nation has lingered in a backwater for seven years, denying its destiny, neglecting its defenses, and hindering its energies to the point that some have lost faith in the future and faith in work.

The senator assailed the farm policy of the New Deal and the reciprocal trade treaties which admitted 537 million dollars' worth of farm products into this country yearly to compete with the products of the American farmer. He denounced the New Deal doctrine of statism—ascendancy of the state over the individual, which he said might rob the nation of the will to be free.

Farm Prosperity Stressed.

Senator McNary credited the Roosevelt administration with certain social gains which he said have made the lot of the average man more secure, if not more fruitful and satisfying, and added that he would not choose to relinquish these advances where they are genuine.

The senator told his audience the prosperity of agriculture should be the first charge of any administration because the farms stand somewhere near the center of the nation's economy. The farms, he said, balanced foreign trade for 75 years, and exportable surpluses provided the money to build the nation. He recalled that gross farm income and industrial pay rolls correspond in any given year.

Under New Deal administration for the last seven years, the farmers' share of national income has been the lowest since statistics were kept, Senator McNary charged.

Hits at Rising Debt.

For a solution to the nation's farm problem, Senator McNary advocated a two-price system similar to the McNary-Haugen act, twice passed by congress and twice vetoed by a President. For recovery he proposed removal of laws restricting commerce, burdensome taxation, and the uncertainties arising from pyramiding debt.

Senator McNary advocated development of the nation's water power resources and preservation for the people and a program of reforestation and conservation thru balancing cut with growth.

The senator said he opposed involvement in foreign military ventures because America prefers peace, but, he added, America does not prefer the peace of appeasement, nor the surrender of our national dignity, our independence of action, our political freedom nor the civilized values which we cherish.

TEXT OF SPEECH IN PART

Following is the text, in part, of Senator McNary's address:

"Mr. Chairman, Gov. Stassen, distinguished members of the notification committee, honored visitors and my neighbors and friends: I accept the nomination for Vice President so generously bestowed upon me by the Republican national convention last June. I indorse the platform and renew my loyalty to the candidate

TWO SUBSTITUTE PLANS BEATEN; DEBATE LIMITED

Passage by 2 to 1 Expected Today.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Senate passage of the Roosevelt administration's peace time conscription bill tomorrow was assured tonight with the adoption of a unanimous consent agreement limiting debate. Under its stipulations, no senator may speak more than once nor longer than 30 minutes on the bill or for more than 15 minutes on any amendment or substitute.

Final approval of the bill by a vote of at least 2 to 1 was indicated by two test votes tonight. By a vote of 54 to 29, the senate rejected an amendment by Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, to postpone application of the draft "until congress has declared that a state of war exists or that the United States is threatened with invasion."

By a vote of 55 to 22, the senate rejected a substitute bill offered by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] to increase the regular army from 375,000 to 500,000 by voluntary enlistments and to establish a reserve force of 1,500,000 by a system of voluntary training for one year.

One Substitute Remains.

Remaining to be disposed of is another substitute by Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.] to postpone application of the draft at least until Jan. 1 in order to give voluntary enlistments a fair trial.

The vote on the Walsh amendment was a clear cut test on the principle of peace time conscription and was expected to be very close to the vote on final passage of the bill. Voting for the amendment were 15 Democrats, 10 Republicans, 2 Farmer-Laborites, 1 Progressive, and 1 Independent. Voting against it were 46 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

Senator Walsh insisted that a poorly trained, mass conscript army is the last thing the United States needs for its defenses. With recruiting now running ahead of the army's own quotas, he contended, voluntary enlistments would give the army all the men it needs for specialized training in modern, mechanized warfare.

War Question Raised.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky took the floor to oppose the Walsh amendment. He argued that it would be foolish to wait until congress had declared war or until the country was threatened with invasion to draft man power for military service.

"The whole scheme is one preparing to take us into war, is it not?" asked Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.]. "Is not that the reason why the senator argues as he does?"

"No, it is not only not a system to take us into war but is a system to prepare us so that we will not be compelled to fight a war, because no aggressor will have the nerve to attack the United States," Barkley replied.

Danaher asked Barkley to name a single instance in history, "when any country equipped itself with a large army and did not go to war."

Military Testimony Cited.

Barkley recalled no such instance. He declared however, that many nations "have gotten into war without preparation and because they were not prepared when they got into war many of them were defeated."

Senator Danaher asked Barkley how any country could attack the United States in view of the testimony of military experts that it would require 3,000,000 tons of shipping to transport an army of 1,000,000 men.

"Is our navy expected to fall dead while this is going on?" the Connecticut senator asked. "Is it possible that all these people with all their equipment are going to come across the ocean and devastate us?"

Barkley replied that an attack upon the United States would be much more likely if Senator Danaher's theory of preparation should be carried out.

Affects 12 Million Men.

The form in which the bill is likely to be passed by the senate and later by the house will subject the 12,000,000 men between 21 and 31 years of

Nab First Auto Theft Gang to Beat Title Law

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday that the first organized gang of automobile thieves that Chicago has known in several years has been smashed.

Three ex-convicts, who allegedly plotted to circumvent the certificate of title law while they were prisoners in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., are in custody. Twenty-six 1940 automobiles, some of them stolen several times, have been recovered.

Courtney said the gang kept duplicate keys of the stolen cars they sold, and then stole them back from the purchasers. The gang was in possession of 65 master keys—enough, Courtney said, to unlock most of the 1940 cars in Chicago.

Convicted in Auto Cases.

The prisoners are George Soeder, 40 years old, of 1132 Altgeld street; Paul Hanson, 41, of 932 Belden avenue, and Lysle Hamilton, 35, of 834 Fullerton avenue. All were serving sentences for transporting stolen cars across state lines when they met in prison.

Commercial automobile thievery was practically stopped six years ago by Prosecutor Courtney. Since that time insurance rates have steadily decreased. Until recently the few cars stolen daily, mostly for joy riding, were regularly recovered by the police.

The certificate of title law, which went into effect at about the same time the Courtney drive started, was expected to put an end to commercial thievery of automobiles because thieves would be unable to supply purchasers with the required ownership certificates. The law was designed to force state registration of every automobile sale and to prevent thieves from tampering with or changing the numbers placed on automobiles by the manufacturers. Many considered the law foolproof.

Buy Two Cars as Start.

However, the gang just smashed devised a scheme that beat the law temporarily, according to Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan. The three ex-convicts began operations in February, after all had been freed from prison, he said.

They bought two new cars of different makes, according to Bugan and Sergt. John Kelly of the state's attorney's police, to get legitimate bills of sale to study and to learn numbering systems. Then, the prosecutors said, the gang began stealing 1940 cars of the same makes.

They altered only the last digit of the serial number of each stolen car, so the letters and other characteristics of the numbering system would remain. They forged bills of sale with legitimate dealers' names, and sent the forgeries in with applications for certificates of title for the purchasers to whom they sold automobiles.

Gang Arranged Everything.

The gang arranged everything, delivering the cars with certificates and license plates. But a few weeks later the innocent purchasers found that their cars had been stolen.

Courtney got on the gang's trail by studying the reports of two thefts. One owner had bought his car from an Albert Hall, and another from an Adam Hall. The Halls had given addresses in the same block, but neither could be found. Investigators showed the purchasers a picture of Soeder, because he was a known automobile thief, and both identified him as the man from whom they had bought their cars.

The police began shadowing Soeder. Discovering this, he deliberately drove his car into their automobile, Courtney said. No one was hurt.

BRITISH SUB WHICH TORPEDOED GERMAN WARSHIP FEARED LOST

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Spearfish, adventurous British submarine which torpedoed the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer last April 11, is "overdue and presumed lost," the admiralty announced tonight.

The Spearfish was a 670 ton vessel normally carrying 40 men. Her commander was Lieutenant Commander J. H. Forbes. She carried six 21 inch torpedo tubes and was capable of making a crash dive in 30 seconds.

The Spearfish had one narrow squeak last October on a raid on Heligoland bight [bay]. Sighted there, she made a crash dive to the bottom. German depth charges blew away her periscopes, wrecked her wireless, and disabled her engines. But the submarine survived. When the Germans left she repaired the radio and got aid from a destroyer.

In the Nazi invasion of Norway the Spearfish had her revenge. The admiralty reported that more than one torpedo from this venturesome underwater boat had hit the prized Admiral Scheer on April 11. Whether the German ship was sunk was not stated, but heavy damage was declared certain.

Wife Charged with Lovers' Lane Murder

Elizabethtown, Ill., Aug. 27 [Special].—A charge of murder was filed here tonight against Mrs. Mildred Sewell Turley, 35 years old, in the lovers' lane killing of her young husband, with whom she had lived only two months.

With no outward show of emotion, the attractive widow confessed she shot her mate, Roy E. Turley, who was 12 years younger than she, during a quarrel yesterday over her demands for alimony in a divorce suit she contemplated.

"I shot him in self-defense, I had to do it," the woman, a former beauty operator and the mother of an 11 year old daughter by her deceased first husband, told State's Attorney Clarence Seward.

Brother Signs Complaint.

The murder warrant was issued by Police Magistrate E. R. Creason on a complaint signed by the victim's brother, Paul Turley of Rosiclare, where the young husband was proprietor of a mining company store.

Mrs. Turley has been held in the Hardin county jail here since she surrendered last night, several hours after Turley had been found dying of bullet wounds on a lonely road a mile from Elizabethtown.

The youthful Turley and the mature widow were married last April, but lived together only until June. They had agreed to be divorced but had not settled the details, Mrs. Turley said. They met yesterday in Elizabethtown and drove out on a lovers' lane to talk over the matter.

Quarrel Over Alimony.

They quarreled, the woman related, when they could not come to an agreement on her ground for a divorce, nor upon the terms of alimony. At the height of the argument, she said, Turley took a pistol from the glove compartment of his car.

Sitting in the car, they struggled for possession of the weapon. The widow, who is tall and sinewy and weighs only 15 pounds less than her husband, took the gun from him by force, then turned it on him and fired twice, she admitted. He fell out of the car with a bullet in his head and one in his neck.

REVEAL BRITISH CONTROL OF MAIL ON U. S. VESSELS

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—American carriers of mail between the United States and Lisbon are stopping at Bermuda—and thus subjecting virtually all European mail to British censorship—because of Britain's orders that they must submit to her blockade, it developed tonight.

British consulate officials here said a stop at Bermuda "might be one of the conditions" under which a navicert—in effect a ship's passport thru British contraband control—would be issued to an American vessel. They denied, however, that they demanded that American shippers agree to censorship of mail cargoes as a prerequisite to the issuance of the certificates.

Company Chooses Port.

In Washington, British embassy officials said they had told the American Export Lines, the only United States operator of surface ships plying between this country and Lisbon, Portugal—the only European outlet open to American ships—that they would have to submit to the blockade at some point, and explained the company had picked Bermuda in preference to Gibraltar or other ports.

One official of the line, discussing censorship and his company's action, said:

"It's a control. We've got to recognize it. After all, if the United States government has permitted the mail to be taken off the Clippers for the last year . . . ."

Forced to Drop Mail.

He said he had received information that the British were issuing clearances "under certain conditions," these being that the ship clear for a British port.

This official cited the instance of a Greek steamer which could not obtain a navicert until it had discharged its cargo of mail for Europe.

"Suppose a ship started from Lisbon without a navicert and was overhauled by a British contraband patrol," he said. "What do you suppose would happen to that ship?"

Postal authorities in Washington today declined to disclose how much United States bound mail had been taken aboard at Lisbon by the American Export lines since Aug. 1, the amount taken off at Bermuda by censors, or the amount which finally reached the United States. They declined similar information on the Pan-American Airways Clipper ships.

Thousands of Sacks Examined.

From the Clippers and surface vessels, hundreds of sacks of mail have been removed at Bermuda in the last 18 days—1,366 pouches during the last three weeks from Export line ships alone.

Pan-American some months ago instructed its pilots to avoid Bermuda, but of nine westbound flights since Aug. 1 six halted at Bermuda and the mails have been removed for censorship.

L. H. Leach, British consul in charge of commercial activities, described as "utterly untrue" reports that the two American firms had been told they must agree to censorship at Bermuda.

Explains British Method.

"We simply say to a ship carrying mail or passengers: 'You cannot have a navicert—except under certain conditions,'" Leach explained, "but if, for instance, a ship were to make a British port a stop en route, that might be one of the conditions and the ship would receive a navicert."

Leach agreed that American ships—or vessels of any other neutral nation—would be subject to censorship of mail cargoes if they halted in a British port.

A ship without a navicert—which certifies its cargo has been examined and passed by British authorities—could under British interpretation be halted on the high seas for examination.

ORDERS PARLEY AS RUMANIANS FIGHT RUSSIANS

Fear Soviets Plan Another Grab.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Hungarian and Rumanian foreign ministers, it was learned tonight, have been urgently summoned to a conference with axis spokesmen in Vienna. This is an apparent move by Italy and Germany to make a quick settlement of the Balkan crisis lest Russia have opportunity to move further into that area.

Galeazzo Ciano.

They were called to meet Thursday in Vienna with Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Italian foreign minister. Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister, will attend. Count Stephen Csaky, Hungary's foreign minister, will go, and it is understood the Rumanian foreign minister, Mihail Manoilescu, plans to appear.

Plan Hungarian Settlement.

The Vienna meeting was understood to be designed to force a settlement of Hungary's claims upon Rumania for Transylvania, thus averting a war disturbing to Balkan productivity needed by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini in their war with Britain.

The staff of the soviet legation in Bucharest confirmed the report that Rumanian and Russian troops had clashed. The first reports, from a foreign military attaché, indicated the fighting, which began Sunday and was renewed yesterday, started after the Russians overstepped the Rumanian border. Several hundreds were reported killed with each side suffering heavy casualties. The Rumanians alone were said to have lost more than 300 men.

Russian Grab Feared.

The opinion was expressed in quarters close to the governments in Budapest and Bucharest that the soviet troops crossed the Rumanian frontier to prepare the Red army for the possibility of a real push in the event that Hungarian-Rumanian differences over Transylvania develop into warfare. A Rumanian-Hungarian conference on Transylvania broke down Saturday.

The foreign military attaché's information was that the outbreak occurred north of the town of Dorohoi, in the province of Moldavia, hard by the frontier fixed two months ago when the Russians seized Bessarabia and northern Bukovina from Rumania by ultimatum.

Hungarian Plane Downed.

In a second incident further threatening the uneasy peace of southeastern Europe, the Hungarian foreign office accused a Rumanian pilot of having shot down a Hungarian bomber on Hungarian soil today and protested to Bucharest.

The bomber was said by the foreign office to have been attacked over the Debreczen railroad station, about 18 miles from the Rumanian frontier. One of its crew of three was declared to have been wounded.

RUMANIA PREPARES

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 27 [Passed by censor].—Rumania rushed defense measures today following border clashes with Russian troops and ominous preparedness moves in Hungary.

Reinforced patrols were ordered all along the Rumanian side of the border to guard against surprise. Russia has massed about 20 divisions in northern Bukovina.

Defense measures are being taken along the Hungarian border since many Hungarian troops have been moving toward the frontier.

WHEELER BARES CENSORED STORY ON ENLISTMENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], who revealed in the senate last week that the 27,000 copies of the August issue of "Recruiting News" had been censored, today obtained a photostatic copy of the missing sheet.

Senator Wheeler said he had been informed that Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war, ordered the censorship of the official army publication in order to deceive the public as to the necessity of peace-time conscription.

Senator Wheeler also had been informed, he said, that Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, either sent or authorized a radiogram congratulating the recruiting service and that this was one reason for the suppression of the article on the voluntary enlistment program.

Source of Message Now Told.

The photostatic copy of the missing sheet, containing pages 13 and 14, does not indicate whether Gen. Marshall sent or approved the radiogram but does say that it came from the war department. The article on the recruiting program, marked on each corner for censorship [the whole sheet actually was removed] follows:

"As of July 21, according to latest advices from the war department, preparedness requisition number 1 lacked but a mere 130 of completion. [A "preparedness requisition" is the same as a quota. Under No. 1 the war department was required by congress to recruit the army up from 227,000 to 280,000 men.]

"Results of preparedness requisition number 2 [before the army reached the 280,000 mark congress appropriated funds for 375,000 men, thus creating requisition No. 2] to same date, were reported by the various corps areas to be as follows:

"Fourth corps area, 4,377; 8th corps area, 3,770; 5th corps area, 2,895; 6th corps area, 2,152; 3d corps area, 1,819; 7th corps area, 1,452; 9th corps area, 1,325; 2d corps area, 972; 1st corps area, 662.

Tells of Progress.

"The army recruiting program as a whole, a war department radiogram reveals, is progressing at an excellent rate. 'Combined results to date [July 12, 1940],' reads the radiogram from Washington, 'are ahead of schedule projected. Total enlistments during June was highest number made in one month in army's peacetime history. An appreciable increase in production will help the army to another new high record in July.'"

Figures obtained from the war department today show that the regular army now has 289,000 enlisted men. Volunteers are coming in at a rate of approximately 9,000 a week and the army expects to reach 375,000, the strength for which funds have been appropriated, in December.

'NUISANCE RAIDS' COST LONDONERS —LOTS OF SLEEP

People Seek to Put Beds in Shelters.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28, Wednesday.—London's millions lost a lot of sleep again last night and early this morning as German flyers made two more raids on the British capital.

The new so-called "nuisance raids," altho not as spectacular as the six hour attack on Monday night, are expected to give further impetus to a boom in the sale of bedding. Residents of London are desirous of obtaining greater comfort in air raid shelters where they hope to catch up on lost sleep.

"Customers began calling and phoning for rubber mattresses which can be inflated, stretchers, camp beds and folding stools as soon as we opened up Tuesday morning," a manager of one department store said.

Diners Interrupted.

As on Monday late diners were unable to finish their meals in restaurants last night. They ran to shelters and were forced to satisfy their hunger later on in all night cafés and milk bars.

Street traffic slowed down during the raids. Here and there some taxies continued to operate. So did a few buses altho most of the electrified transport system was reduced to a standstill.

To counteract the nuisance tactics of the German raiders, offices and workshops engaged in essential business are stationing their own lookouts to warn occupants of buildings when danger is apparent. Thereupon a house signal rather than the general warning will sound a tocsin for all to descend to air raid shelters.

May Divide City in Zones.

There is talk of reducing the present London area or of dividing it into zones so that air raid sirens would apply to limited regions when enemy planes appear overhead and not to the city as a whole. But how this can be done is not suggested.

Sir Philip Game, commissioner of metropolitan police, consulted with chiefs of Scotland Yard's traffic branch following Monday night's prolonged raid on the advisability of closing pubs, theaters, movie houses, and other places of entertainment earlier if the air raids become worse.

Game yesterday received reports from special Scotland Yard observers who visited the West End during the raid to investigate public conduct in the theaters, movies, restaurants, and on the streets.

Under an entertainments order the commissioner has the power to shut down all places of entertainment in the London area or to alter the times of opening and closing.

"MYSTERY MAN" SEIZED ON ESTATE OF DUKE OF KENT

LONDON, Aug. 28 [Wednesday], (AP).—Scotland Yard officials are questioning a "mystery man" captured on the country estate of the duke of Kent Sunday night, the Daily Mail reported today.

The paper said the man identified himself as John Patrick Curtin, a former hotel employé, and said he wanted to see the duchess of Kent.

Fears of a possible terrorist plot against the duchess were aroused in June, 1939, when a New Zealander fired a rifle near her.

JOINT BOARD TO INSPECT DEFENSE WORKS IN CANADA

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 27 (AP).—Five naval and air service members of the United States-Canadian joint board of defense tonight arranged to leave tomorrow on a flying trip of inspection of Canadian defense facilities as the board adjourned a two-day meeting to resume sessions in Washington Sept. 9.

It was understood the United States section of the board, headed by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, would return soon to Washington for conference and that the Canadian section would consult with the Canadian cabinet's war committee.

GERMAN BISHOPS POSTPONE THEIR PLEA TO PEOPLE

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—This year's conference of German Catholic bishops, which met at Fulda, did not draft its customary pastoral letter to the German people. It was announced today that publication of the pastoral letter had been postponed until "the German troops have scored the final victory. At that time special solemn ceremonies will be held to express the gratitude of the Catholic hour. They will include proclamations of loyalty to the Fuehrer."

Forty-five of Germany's 48 bishops attended the conference. Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber of Munich, the archbishop of Paderborn, and the apostolic administrator of Aachen [Aix-le-Chapelle] were absent.

HITLER BOMBERS ATTACK LONDON TWICE IN NIGHT

Nazi Incendiary Missiles Start Fires.

LONDON, Aug. 28, Wednesday (AP).—Adolf Hitler's night flying raiders continued "insomnia raids" on the London area last night and early today. They dropped incendiary bomb clusters which started fires— and disturbed the slumbers of millions.

But the British, after their six hour siege in shelters Monday night and Tuesday morning, took the two alarms last night and today much more phlegmatically. There was less antiaircraft cannonading and searchlight activity, and many a yawning householder refused to leave his snug bed.

The first raid, lasting about two and one-half hours, ended just before midnight, and was followed by another of less than an hour's duration shortly after midnight.

Report Damage Is Small.

The British declared damage was small, tho they acknowledged some fires and some casualties occurred. The raiders again operated singly or in small groups.

After a short interlude, new rumbling sounds were heard distantly in the London area, indicating that the Nazis had not yet given up their prowling. There was the faint drone of an engine, and searchlights flickered on and off sporadically.

Similar harassing raids were conducted thru the dark hours over nearly all of England and Wales.

Bombs fell north of one Midland town, and Germans were reported over several other communities in the same area. At one northeast town a German plane swooped down for a bit of ground strafing, with a freight train as the apparent target.

In southeast England, incendiary bombs hit two churches. The British said a large fire in the roof of one was extinguished.

Also in the southeast, a raider dropped high explosive and incendiary bombs just as searchlights picked him up and guns hammered at him.

Raider Shot Down.

One German raider was reported shot down in southwest England.

A Midland town had its longest alarm of the war during the night. Explosions were heard and it was announced that about 100 incendiary bombs fell in open country.

Intermittent raids kept one southeast England area awake most of the night. Fire brigades rushed about, dealing with incendiary bombs. One big fire lit up the surrounding region for several miles, but firemen got it under control in about an hour, they announced.

Early this morning, a northwest town was awakened by bomb blasts and antiaircraft fire.

Attack Axis' Industries.

There were indications, too, that the British air force, which already had reported "greatly extended" retaliatory forays against the military and industrial fortress of both Germany and Italy, had struck again.

This was suggested by the fact that late last night air raid sirens screamed in Geneva, Switzerland, usually an indication that British raiders are bound for Italy.

The punctuality of the first raiding Nazis last night occasioned a good deal of comment: They arrived within two or three minutes of the time of Monday night's raids, which began at 10 o'clock.

One London suburb heard a single plane, flying at about 5,000 feet toward the city proper.

It rose even higher while the beam of a searchlight sought it in the sky.

Daylight Raids "Trivial."

By contrast with Monday night's chain assaults over 500 miles of England and London's six hour air raid alarm, yesterday's daylight raids were trivial.

Only a few planes penetrated inland and the only bombs dropped on land fell "on the foreshore of the Isle of Wight," the air ministry and ministry of home security asserted.

However, a convoy off the Scottish coast fought an hour's battle with a raiding squadron, with the results unannounced.

Three raiders were shot down yesterday, compared with 47 Monday.

A series of air ministry announcements told of the royal air force's blanket assaults on the heart of the axis industrial system, as well as on 27 airports in Germany, the Netherlands, and Belgium.

The communiques did not mention Berlin, where there was a 40 minute air raid alarm Monday night, but they did say that "the main strength" of the British bomber force Monday night was directed at northern Italy and against oil plants near Leipzig and Frankfurt. At Frankfurt the night raiders also attacked a plane plant and, on the outskirts, heavily bombed an explosives factory.

Other long distance bombers pounded the Fiat factory and other targets in industrial north Italy with six tons of bombs in a 40 minute assault.

Pilots' reports of the Italian raids said Turin's Fiat factory, which makes planes, tanks, and motor cars, was set ablaze so brilliantly that the fire guided late arrivals to the scene.

Also blasted was the Magneto Marelli electrical factory near Milan.

GERMAN FLYERS POUR 77 TONS OF BOMBS ON 1 PORT

Drop 66 Tons on British Armament Center.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug 27.—The systematic air bombardment of British ports and armament centers is being continued daily by the German air force. An authoritative source today disclosed that from 50,000 to 70,000 kilograms [about 110,000 to 154,000 pounds] of high explosives are being dropped by the German bombers in each raid.

It was announced that German flyers dropped 60,000 kilograms [about 132,000 pounds] of explosives in the bombing of 17 armament works—mainly airplane factories—at Coventry, south of Birmingham.

Bomb Naval Bases.

The German war communique said the two main naval bases on the British south coast, Portsmouth and Plymouth, again were bombed. At Portsmouth, 70,000 kilograms [about 154,000 pounds] of bombs were said to have been dropped. The communique said fires and explosions occurred in many places at Plymouth. Harbor facilities at Hull and Newcastle were declared to have been bombed with success.

The Germans announced ten planes destroyed a wireless station on the Scilly islands, of Lands End, England. An air field in Cornwall also was raided.

The Germans reported a squadron of low flying Dorniers attacked an airdrome near London, destroying barracks and a hangar. Seven British planes were reported to have been shot down.

Report 2 Civilians Killed.

No details were disclosed by the Nazis regarding British raids on Germany last night. The communique merely said British planes "threw bombs over several places in Germany. The damage was inconsiderable. Two civilians were killed and eight were injured."

Authoritative sources reported only one of four British planes which tried to raid Berlin succeeded in reaching its goal. It caused a 40 minute alarm, but dropped no bombs.

The Germans announced that 61 British planes were shot down in yesterday's air combats, while nine others were said to have been destroyed on the ground. The Nazis admitted 21 of their planes were missing.

Authorized sources said that 1,055 British planes had been destroyed in air battles, by antiaircraft fire or on the ground, from Aug. 1 to Aug. 26, inclusive. German losses in the same period were placed at 271 planes. A total of 98 British barrage balloons were reported shot down.

German military sources denied a Nazi plane had bombed Irish territory—a bombing in which the Irish reported three girls killed yesterday.

It was said that all pilots who had flown over England had been questioned, that all of them declared they had not lost their way, but had headed directly toward goals assigned to them by their officers. None of the objectives included Ireland, the Nazis said.

25 FROM SUNKEN SHIP SAVED AFTER SIX DAYS ADRIFT

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—Rescued at sea after being adrift in a lifeboat for six days in the North Atlantic, 25 survivors of a torpedoed vessel were landed yesterday at Galway, Ireland. The name of the vessel was not given. Seventeen of the crewmen were British. The remainder were Europeans. They were picked up by the Norwegian vessel Varegg.

For 12 of the 25 it was the second escape from death in a torpedoing in the Atlantic. One of them was the second wireless operator aboard the liner Athenia, sunk on Sept. 3, the first day of the war.

The men were at sea in a lifeboat last week from Monday thru Saturday. An officer said the lifeboat had in tow a raft with 30 men but was forced to cut it loose.

FINDS 50 HOMES WRECKED IN CITY BOMBED BY NAZIS

Few People Fear Raids, Many Getting Angry.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Today I went to inspect Ramsgate, southeast coast town which has suffered the fiercest German bombing thus far. I wanted to inspect the damage and to see how the people were reacting, especially to the heavy raids of the last few days.

At first glance this port of some 30,000 inhabitants appeared normal but closer inspection revealed perhaps that parts of 50 houses in various sections had been damaged. There were perhaps a dozen places where upper floor bedrooms were exposed to the street. One bomb blasted out nearly the entire lower floor of a house, leaving only a few uprights to hold the upper story and roof which appeared untouched.

There were surprisingly few casualties among the people who were inside the houses which were hit, probably because the bombs were of the instant contact type, exploding before they could penetrate even a light slate roof. Much shrapnel was thrown into the streets where it found most of its victims.

Most Bombs Hit Houses.

There was no convincing evidence that the Germans were aiming solely at military objectives because virtually all the bombs hit small houses or landed in nearby fields.

The famous Anderson shelters, one of which nearly every Britisher has in his garden, stood up well in the bombing. Many people in them escaped injury when bombs exploded as close as 15 feet.

Movie newsreels showing the bombing areas are popular at Ramsgate.

There were many stories about the places the people go during raids. A butcher on Saturday gave shelter to five women in his refrigerator for more than two hours. About a thousand people used an abandoned train tunnel for their shelter. More than 100 sleep there every night rolled up in blankets on the ground or on portable beds. The tunnel undoubtedly is the safest place in town during a raid.

Great Contempt for Hitler.

Along with a certain respect for what a bomb can do, the average Ramsgate resident has a great contempt for Fuehrer Adolf Hitler as a serious menace to Britain. Only a few people show a fear of bombardment at Ramsgate. Growing anger is the principal emotion. A typical comment was this, "I hear we gave a cigaret and a beer to that Jerry who came down yesterday. I think we are too tame with them."

As THE TRIBUNE correspondent left Ramsgate by train its fields were full of farm animals and peacefulness. In one place a crumpled German warplane lay in a pasture, surrounded by sleeping cows.

CANADIAN WAR FLYER CLASSES SOAR TO 3,000

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—Pilots training in Canada for the British air force have increased from 500 on June 1 to 3,000 and other empire air schools have shown correspondingly rapid growth, it was said today. In Canada, biggest reservoir for air personnel, 22 schools are teaching recruits how to handle war planes.

[In Canada yesterday it was revealed that United States flyers make up 80 per cent of the enlistments in Britain's royal air force handled in Canada. High R. A. F. officials declined to reveal the number of American volunteers, but they were said to be "an important factor."]

With more Canadian trained pilots arriving in England, British sources said there was no chance that instruction periods would be shortened to meet numerically superior German and Italian air forces. Australia has established 10 schools and is taking in 500 students a month.

LONDON STAKES LIFE ON 5 LAYER DEFENSE SETUP

Finds an Offense Is Best Aerial Weapon.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—This stockaded front line city—an empire's nerve center only 20 minutes' flight from the nearest German air bases in France—is staking its life on a five-layer defense pattern. Those defenses are:

Antiaircraft and searchlight crews to harass them when they arrive.

"Our fat friends"—high-flying balloons trailing lengths of steel cable, as well as other snares.

Swift Hurricane and Spitfire fighter planes.

Good Offense Best Defense.

The underlying principle is that a good offense is the best defense.

British authorities frankly admit that despite repeated raids topped off by last night's 6 hour bombing, the system yet has to undergo its first real test—resistance against mass formations approaching in unending waves in a sustained effort to smash completely this empire heart.

But they say they are ready to gamble on its efficacy from what they have witnessed thus far.

The job of the British bomber—its crew a highly trained personnel winging far over Germany and the Alps into Italy—is to freeze or destroy the enemy at his bases, keep him busy at home to sap his offensive strength.

Shun Word "Reprisal."

Britons shun the word "reprisal," and insist their war scheme is not based on "get even" psychology, but on a carefully worked out program.

When observers catch the sound of approaching enemy planes they notify interceptor planes and inner defenses. The former whir aloft, the latter gets ready.

These observer posts and interceptor bases are scattered up and down the channel coast to the east, the west coast and thruout rural England.

Many are camouflaged to look like anything from a hayfield to a village lane—a fact which accounts for some German bombs spilling into supposedly inoffensive places like golf courses and pastures.

Guns, Light Work Together.

Searchlight and antiaircraft batteries ring London so that when both go into action as last night, beams and gun flashes resemble a huge wide-spaced picket fence. Inside this big ring are nests of other guns and searchlights.

These guns and lights work together so that when light beams converge on a raider the guns automatically get his range and let go. Eyewitnesses saw a bit of this last night—the big beams picking out their target and shells screaming aloft up a silvery path to strike a plane whose crew took to parachutes.

Antiaircraft batteries range from the heavier material like the popular 3.7 inchers to rapidfire Bofors guns and various types of machine guns and pom-poms.

Then, too, there are several new "hush-hush" weapons, closely guarded secrets.

Secret Airplane Traps.

The fourth defense layer is the balloon barrage and secret airplane traps—both to protect objectives and catch unwary low fliers.

Hundreds of these "floating elephant" balloons encircle London.

German—and British pilots, too—have struck their steel legs and perished.

This stockade of balloons swing aloft on the end of 10,000 to 25,000 feet of heavy cable, raised or lowered by mobile ground crews.

Then there are finally the fast pursuit planes stationed at scores of concealed air fields.

Londoners also count on weather as a defense, and the "accursed fogs" of yore are now a blessing awaited with high eagerness.

SHORT OF GAS, PARIS TAKES TO A 'BICYCLE TAXI'

'Baby Buggy' Auto Also Makes Its Debut.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 25 [via Berlin, delayed] —The latest Parisian novelty is the bicycle taxi, one of many efforts to fill the gap made in Paris transportation by the complete disappearance of motor taxis and auto buses due to the scarcity of gasoline.

So far I have seen only one of the new vehicles. It has its stand just under THE TRIBUNE office at one of the busiest corners in central Paris, the corner of Rue Tronchet and Rue Auber. It is a bicycle with a cretonne lined trailer capable, its owner says, of carrying three passengers and a total load of about 770 pounds. So far the taxi has no motor. On the trailer appears the ambitious sign, "Rapid Transport Carrier."

Fares will be the subject of discussion and will vary according to the load, and distance. As he is just starting in business, the taxi man said he will have to experiment with fares but at present thinks a fair price from his stand to the Arc de Triomphe would be 30 cents and 40 cents to the Lyon railway station in east Paris.

Baby Buggy-Sized Auto.

On the Champs Elysees I saw another transport novelty called forth by present difficulties. It is a tiny automobile with wheels the size of those on a baby buggy and the whole thing very much in proportion. Its constructor, Pierre Faure, claims it is intended for town use only, where it will haul two adults at about 25 miles an hour.

Its power is supplied by six batteries of 100 amperes. At the end of about 55 miles they will need recharging. Faure thinks the cost of current for the 55 miles can be reduced to 6 cents, which would give the owner a day's transportation for less than the cost of subway tickets.

Car to Cost About $300.

Faure has made only one model of his "invention," but claims can turn them out in industrial quantities after Oct. 1. The price will be something like $300, a sum few Parisians possess today, but Faure says he means to sell his car on credit at about $8 a month.

Even if these pioneers have imitators and the bicycle taxi and "baby buggy" auto become features of Paris, the transportation situation will remain difficult. Of Paris' transportation facilities, only the subway is in efficacious service, but it is being overtaxed with an estimated 1,500,000 passengers daily.

BOY'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Valentine X. Sliwinski Jr., 10 years old, of 732 Warner avenue, Lemont. He was bitten by a stray dog and died July 25. A coroner's physician testified the dog had rabies.

Donates $20,000

Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow.

LONDON, Aug. 27 (AP).—The American ambulance corps of Great Britain received a gift of $20,000 today from Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, dime store heiress, for the addition of 10 ambulances to its fleet of 260. The 10 vehicles will bear her name.

TRIBUNE DESIGNS TO BE VIEWED AT 2 W-G-N SHOWS

Afternoon and Evening Style Events Planned.

Because of the great interest in The Tribune's American Fashions show and the heavy demand for tickets, two complete shows will be held in the W-G-N audience studio Oct. 2.

One show will be in the afternoon and another in the evening. All seats are reserved. An admission of $1 will be charged for afternoon show seats and $2 for those at the evening show. Applications for tickets now being received will be filled in the order of receipt.

40 Garments to Be Modeled.

The 40 most distinctive dress designs submitted in the $7,500 American Fashions contest are to be made into garments and modeled at the two shows. From them judges will select 25 winning garments which will receive prizes.

Mrs. Grace Pickering, chairman of the committee in charge of the show, and her assistants still are going thru the 12,491 sketches submitted by 5,246 contestants and narrowing down these entries to the 40 which will be modeled.

As mannequins parade across the W-G-N stage at the two shows, Travis Banton of Hollywood, a leading American style creator, will act as commentator. He will give a description of each garment to the studio audience and a radio audience listening on a coast to coast broadcast.

Amateurs and Pros Enter Designs.

Some of America's best known professional designers were represented when the deadline for entries was reached at midnight last Thursday. They are on the same footing, however, as the thousands of talented amateurs whose work gets its first recognition thru this contest.

The Tribune Fashions contest was conceived as a stimulus to the development of American fashions for American women. It brought an astonishing response. The judges believe that every state and Canada and Mexico are represented.

The designer of the best garment will receive $3,000, of the second $2,000, and there will be three prizes of $500 each and 20 of $50 each.

FOUND DEAD ON RAIL TRACKS.

The body of a colored man identified as Frank Miller, 40 years old, of Kansas City, was found yesterday on the Rock Island railroad tracks over Western avenue in Blue Island.

END FRENCH LAW BARRING ATTACKS BASED ON FAITH

VICHY, France, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Vichy cabinet tonight annulled a law that forbids newspaper attacks on any person on account of his religious beliefs.

No details were given on this step regarding racial and religious questions in unoccupied France. A communique said the annulment decree had been signed and would be promulgated tomorrow.

Observers viewed the action as the first official step directed against Jews. The law had been in force since April 21, 1939. Despite this statute, newspapers recently have assailed "Jewish capitalistic" influences over France's former governments.

There had been no open official action, however, against Jews or any religious group in unoccupied France.

CHIEF OF LEGION TO TALK MONDAY AT ST. CHARLES

Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, will speak at Pottawattomie park in St. Charles at 8:30 p. m. Monday, as part of the fourth annual fall festival to be staged by the Fox River community starting Friday. The title of Kelly's address will be "The Legion's View of the Nation's Defense Needs."

Sunday will be Republican day and speeches will be made by Wayland Brooks, nominee for United States senator, and Dwight H. Green, nominee for governor. On Saturday afternoon a $10,000 model home will be the scene of a public wedding, with the ceremony performed by Mayor Ival G. Langum. A style show and musical review will be held in the evening.

The Labor Day program also will include the annual fishing contest on the banks of the Fox river.

McNARY'S CALL: GET U. S. OUT OF DEPRESSION BOG!

He Criticizes Philosophies of New Deal.

"This is no ordinary campaign. The impact of the wars raging beyond both our oceans, together with our urgent concern for the peace of this hemisphere, surround the political decision we are about to make with a heightened gravity. Domestic issues, linked as they are with preparedness and foreign relations, take on enlarged significance in our present mood.

"For more than seven years we have lingered in a backwater, denying our destiny, neglecting our defenses, both spiritual and material. The great energies of America have been hindered—where not actually stifled. Some have lost faith in the future; faith in work, the source of well-being. No party is solely responsible. We of the minority have, perhaps, failed in vigilance. But the overwhelming responsibility rests upon the party in power. They have the mandate.

Conflict of Philosophies.

"This campaign is more than a mere contest between rival political parties. This campaign is a conflict between philosophies—philosophies of government and of action. We must choose in November whether America shall advance again along the path of her historic mission, or retreat still further into the fields of futility.

"I should be guilty of a narrow partisanship unsuited to the great west were I, however, to condemn the New Deal in its entirety. Candor requires me to credit this administration with certain social gains, which have made the lot of the average man secure if not more satisfying.

"I, for one, do not choose to relinquish these advances, where they are genuine, nor to detract from the humanitarian impulses actuating the President. In this campaign I shall not seek to indict the New Deal's motives. I shall, with all the force at my command, attack the New Deal's capacity to govern and the political and economic heresies which have deflected us from our course.

"Every administration since Washington has made progress toward fulfilling the American dream. The New Deal is exceptional in that it, alone, has sought to substitute new states of mind for old, to inculcate reliance on the government in place of self-reliance and to supplant hope with fear of what lies ahead.

Assails New Deal Thesis.

"We may forgive the New Deal's incompetence in dealing with economic forces; its inability—or unwillingness—to further the employment of idle capital and idle hands. We might overlook the confusion in theory and practice that has curbed initiative, stalled the engines of production, and multiplied debt. We are still a rich country. What we cannot forgive is that the New Deal, finding itself unable to restore national vitality, fashioned its plan upon the thesis that America is finished, that our economy is inevitably contracting, that opportunity has been extinguished and that, hereafter, we must look increasingly to the government for jobs, for security, and for the oversight of our private lives.

"That concept, old as human pessimism, germinates now from a Europe which has been transformed—by poverty, political immaturity, and war—into a dismal despotism. That concept is statism, the doctrine of the ascendancy of the state over the individual. I deny its validity in terms of a youthful, vital America. I charge, moreover, that the diffusion of that concept has impaired the national spirit, and, if persisted in, might well rob us in time of the will to be free.

Recalls Epic of Oregon.

"The settlement of the Oregon country remains one of our proudest epics. At the time of the Yorktown surrender, our frontier rested on the Alleghanies. Sixty years later, the surging genius of our ancestors had pushed our borders to the Pacific. The beginnings of Oregon lay in the imagination of Thomas Jefferson, the apostle of democracy, who served only two terms in the Presidency, frowning upon contemplation of a third term.

"It was Jefferson who, after purchasing the Louisiana country, sent Lewis and Clark to spy out the land beyond the Rockies. Their journals kindled the interest of colonial America in the far west. The explorer, the fur trapper and trader broke the trail. Next came the missionary; and, close behind, the homeseeker. If we pause today, we may read in the old Oregon trail lessons applicable to the problems besetting us now.

"We can afford to smile at the timidity of the obstructionists who lived a century ago. In their day, they thought America finished. They belonged to the tribe, seemingly numerous in each generation, which holds that the limit has been reached. Little Americans they were; the type that advocated impeaching Jefferson for his purchase and derided Seward for buying Alaska.

Takes View of Optimist.

"In like manner, the little American of 1940 maintains that our race is run. The throb he hears is not the hum of America's dynamos, but the hardening of America's arteries. It is his despondent outlook that deflates the hopes of youth; insists that our industrial plant is overbuilt and that we must look forward only to a slippered senility.

"We of the old Oregon country reject the hypothesis of the little American. We are optimists. We say that America is not yet half built. The little American dates the decline of American enterprise from the time when the last free land was thrown open for settlement. We hold that the theory of the last frontier is only figurative. Land, if you had to work it, never was free. Men paid for it in sweat and blood and loneliness, if not in dollars.

Weighs Farm Problem.

"What are some of the specifications for the reconstruction of America? Among the first is the preservation and fuller employment of the natural resources of soil, forest and water power. Prudence dictates that we, at least, conserve those legacies for this and future generations.

"The prosperity of agriculture should be the first charge on the attention of any administration. Not for sentimental reasons, altho society owes a real debt to those who, year in, year out, supply it with its first essentials, food and raw materials. No, the reason for our preoccupation with the farm problem is social and economic betterment. The farm stands somewhere near the center of our economy. For 75 years the farms of America balanced our foreign trade and, thru exportable surpluses, provided the foreign exchange that assisted in building our factories, mines, and railroads. The first world war disrupted that profitable trade and, for 20 years, we have struggled with recurring, unmarketable surpluses.

"The farm problem is by no means the exclusive worry of the farmer. In a true and realistic sense, the problem is as national as the problem of national defense.

Compares Income Figures.

"Permit me to cite an example; Statisticians find an uncanny correspondence between gross farm income and industrial pay rolls in a given year. When, as in 1929, farm income rose to 12 billion dollars, factory pay rolls also were 12 billions; and when, in 1932, farm income dropped to five billions, industrial pay rolls fell off similarly.

"The New Deal has administered the farm problem for more than seven years. What is the present state of the American farmer, who, with his dependents, makes up a quarter of our population? In the year 1939 his share of the national income was the lowest since statistics have been kept. Moreover, his income during the seven New Deal, or lean, years has averaged only 7 billion dollars; whereas, during the preceding seven years, under Republican administrations, it averaged 9 billions.

"Bear in mind if you will, that the New Deal totals included all the benefit payments from the treasury of the United States—and that the seven prosperous Republican years include the black year 1932, which marked the depth of the depression. Thruout this New Deal cycle, we have been confronted with the related phenomena of depressed farm prices and industrial unemployment. With the farmer producing without profit, the city worker was idle, his consuming power diminished. I have long felt that these phenomena could not be separated; that a sound policy would work toward relieving both of these disorders.

Voices Party Pledges.

"We stand pledged to continue soil conservation payments, commodity surplus loans; to encourage acquisition of farms by tenants and for research aimed at developing industrial uses for products of the soil. We favor continuing the food stamp program, which serves the double purpose of assisting the needy and helping the farmer by reducing surplus crops.

"A substantial solution of the farm problem may be resolved into a question of markets. Any rational plan must assign the American market to the American farmer. Besides being far and away the greatest market, it is the only one we may hope to control. The farmer is, at least, entitled to that and no treasury benefits can compensate him for its loss. Yet the New Deal, which, in seven years has failed to map out a long range plan for reconstituting the agricultural empire, piles confusion upon confusion by following two contradictory policies at once.

With one hand, the New Deal pays farmers not to sow and reap; with the other, it lowers tariff barriers so that foreign crops undersell our own in our market.

Hits Reciprocal System.

"Secretary Wallace, a highminded and sympathetic secretary of agriculture, may not be blamed for this second policy. Any secretary of agriculture would be hampered by the reciprocal trade system, which, in the last two years, has admitted competitive farm products to the value of 537 million dollars a year.

"I have always opposed reciprocal trade treaties, as formulated by the New Deal. When I spoke against their renewal last spring in the senate, I charged that the treaties had failed to 'dissipate, alleviate or liquidate the uneconomic conditions' affecting agriculture. I hold to that opinion still.

"After seven years we need a realistic reappraisal of the whole problem and, whichever party assumes the responsibility next January, we should demand and have the formulation of a long range policy looking to the restoration of our agricultural empire.

Urges Saving Resources.

"I come to a problem that profoundly touches my emotions. We stand today in the heart of the last considerable area of virgin forest left in the United States; the majestic remnants of nearly a billion acres of timber that clothed this country when the first Europeans saw it.

"Every one knows that American timber resources are being swiftly depleted. We take assurance for the future, however, from the knowledge that they may, with care and wise governmental policies, be restored. Happily a substantial portion of our forest lands are being managed and utilized in ways that best safeguard social value to provide maximum employment, guarantee future supplies, stabilize streams and soils and conserve our rich endowments of natural beauty and wild life.

"Yet, much more can be done. The government equitably could assume half the cost of abating loss from fire, insects and disease to the desirable point where forests might become insurable risks. Credit facilities are rudimentary and inadequate. Forest taxation too often tends, by laying too heavy an immediate burden, to compel uneconomic exploitation and forced liquidation.

Favors More Research.

"Unproductive areas increasingly should be acquired for public ownership and the exploration and research arms of the forest service should be expanded. Deserted villages and abandoned cut-over lands are the price society pays for wasteful inundations of our forest areas. The remedy for this ruthless policy is a government encouraged program of perpetuating this natural resource by regulating the volume of the crop that annually can be harvested.

"Power is the prime requisite of modern industrial existence. A measure of America's industrial magnitude may be found in the fact that one-half the installed horse power in the world is developed within our borders. Steam power made England the industrial colossus of the 19th century; steam plus electrical power has made the United States the industrial giant of the 20th. Yet America's water power resources are still largely undeveloped. In the mountainous parts of the Pacific west, where strong rivers run unimpeded to the sea, a major portion of the country's potential hydroelectric power still waits to be harnessed. Fortunately, the principle on which this power may be made available has long been recognized. The federal government accepts the obligation to control floods and assure navigation. Out of these services flows the by-product of power.

Public Has First Rights.

"Unfalteringly, the congress has granted to the public preferential rights to power generated from navigable streams. Such power should be a common heritage. The government, having made this power available, should have an indisputable right to control its utilization and distribution. Maximum benefits for domestic consumers, farmers and small users of power should be the yardstick by which we measure the usefulness and serviceability of every federal development. Moreover, rates should be maintained at the lowest level consistent with sound amortization.

"In common with what I believe to be the overwhelming majority of my countrymen, I oppose involvement in foreign military adventures. America, as always, prefers peace. But America does not prefer the peace of appeasement; nor the surrender of our national dignity, our independence of action, our political freedom or the civilized values that we cherish.

Lifts Standard of Hope.

"In conclusion may I remind you that the Republican party this year lifts the standard of hope, a standard to which all men and women of courage and clearsighted faith in our mighty traditions may repair.

"In another hour of crisis, the Republican party, cradled in a great tradition and seasoned in government, offers to lead America out of doubt, negation and disunity. Problems change, new dangers arise—yet remain the ancient virtues, self-reliance, faith, hope, and courage—which animated and sustained the pioneer in his quest for a greater, ever greater, America.

"With your coöperation, we shall renew that question, setting our country again on the path of high adventure toward her true destiny. With your help, we shall not fail."

Smiles for Silence

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

EXPECT SENATE PASSAGE TODAY FOR DRAFT BILL

2 to 1 Approval Foreseen After Test Votes.

age to registration and some 4,500,000 of these—men without dependents or having other grounds for exemption—to possible military training and service for one year. From this number the war department intends to call up 400,000 by Jan. 1 and another 400,000 by next April 1.

In one of the most comprehensive indictments of the conscription bill yet delivered, Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], a member of the military affairs committee, described it as both a product and a generator of war hysteria.

"Peacetime conscription and the policy of intervention are as inseparable as Siamese twins," said Senator Johnson. "While it is true that there are some supporters in the senate who are not interventionists, I do not know of a single interventionist or a solitary war monger in the entire United States who does not favor peacetime conscription."

Rips Secretary Stimson.

Senator Johnson declared that Henry L. Stimson brought peacetime conscription to the administration as part of his "official luggage" when he succeeded Harry H. Woodring as secretary of war. Stimson, he said, has been advocating conscription for 23 years and still is living "in the military world of yesterday, when quantity and not quality of soldiers governed."

"The billion dollars annually that we will waste on Stimson conscripts," Senator Johnson continued, "would give us 300,000 sergeant mechanics, airplane pilots, skilled antitank gunners, machine gun and tank operators, trained and ready to operate intelligently and effectively the 14 billion dollars' worth of war machines which congress has authorized. With that number of well trained career men experts, the United States would have an army invincible against any foe."

McCarran Attacks Bill.

Senator Pat McCarran [D., Nev.] said he opposed the conscription bill because the country is at peace and intends to remain at peace.

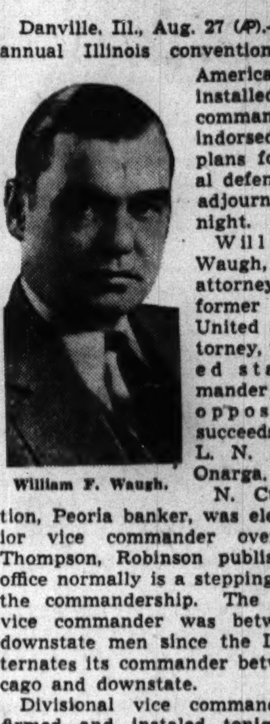
"We do not intend to be 'bulled' into this war even by Mr. Bullitt," Senator McCarran said, referring to the war mongering activities of William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France.

McCarran said he favored conscription in wartime but not conscription in preparation for war in Europe. Patriotic American men, he said, will volunteer in sufficient numbers to man all the ships and planes and tanks and guns that can be produced.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] said it would be foolish for a city to wait until the outbreak of fire to establish a fire department.

"I don't want our American boys to be hurled, untrained and unprepared, into another war," he said.

Legion Elects Chicagoan State Leader; Opposes Conscription



William F. Waugh.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP).—The 22d annual Illinois convention of the American Legion installed a new commander and indorsed existing plans for national defense before adjourning tonight.

William F. Waugh, Chicago attorney and a former assistant United States attorney, was elected state commander without opposition. He succeeds Maj. L. N. Bittinger, Onarga.

N. Curtis Caton, Peoria banker, was elected senior vice commander over H. L. Thompson, Robinson publisher. The office normally is a stepping stone to the commandership. The fight for vice commander was between two downstate men since the Legion alternates its commander between Chicago and downstate.

Divisional vice commanders confirmed and instaled tonight were: First division, Francis Phelan, Winnetka; second division, William Seymour, North Chicago; third division, Fred Lindquist, Galesburg; Fourth division, Dr. R. O. Short, Watseka; fifth division, Clarence A. Stell, Mount Vernon.

Chicagoan Heads Auxiliary.

The women's auxiliary elected Mrs. Joseph Mieczynski, Chicago, as president, without opposition.

Also unopposed was Mrs. Lowell Allen of Belleville, Ill., who was named first vice president. The second vice presidenceny went to Mrs. Norman Sheehe of Rockford.

The Rev. Leland L. Lawrence, Shelbyville, was elected state chaplain.

Rock Island invited the Legionnaires to convene there next year, but the decision was deferred to a special convention committee which meets in October.

Delegates adopted a resolution approving current plans for the nation's defense, including a two ocean navy and an adequate army and air force, but defeated a proposal indorsing the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill.

Approve R. O. T. C. Training.

The program approved recommended development and enlargement of the citizens military training camps, establishment of R. O. T. C. units in all qualified schools and colleges seeking them; basic military training for the CCC, an international road to Alaska and organization of a National Guard there; organization of citizens naval training corps and a naval R. O. T. C.

Other resolutions petitioned congress to enact "speedily" a bill calling for deportation of Harry Bridges, alien C. I. O. leader, and asked the legislature to outlaw the communist party.

PRESIDENT GOES HOME; PLANS TWO LABOR DAY TALKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—After a five-day stop in the capital [of which two days were spent on a fishing cruise] President Roosevelt departed tonight for his summer home in Hyde Park, N. Y. He will spend a few days there, then go to Tennessee to make two Labor day speeches, one at the dedication of the TVA's new Chickamauga dam near Chattanooga, the second at the dedication of the Great Smoky national park near Knoxville.

Both speeches will be "nonpolitical," the White House asserted, but it is believed Mr. Roosevelt will not fail to seize the opportunity to discuss some of the issues of the campaign.

Before boarding his special train, the President said he would name a successor to Postmaster General James A. Farley in a few days. Farley, who is quitting Saturday, to enter private business, attended his last cabinet meeting today. He said he knew who would be named to his post, but refused to identify him.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD QUITS NEW DEAL, BACKS WILLKIE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 [Special].—Senator Henrik Shipstead [F.-L., Minn.], frequent supporter of New Deal legislation, tonight announced his intention of supporting Wendell L. Willkie, Republican candidate for President.

In a telegram sent today to Senator Charles McNary at Salem, Ore., where the Republican Vice Presidential candidate made his acceptance speech, the Minnesota liberal declared:

"I propose to support you and your running mate, Mr. Wendell Willkie, in the present campaign in Minnesota."

U. S. BEGINS QUIZ ON PAISH'S ROLE IN THIS COUNTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—The department of justice announced today that it is investigating the charges that Sir George Paish, British economist and propagandist, is in the United States to involve this nation in the European war.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] in a senate speech yesterday quoted Paish as boasting that he was responsible for getting the United States into the last war and that during a speaking tour across the country at the present time he intended to repeat the feat in connection with the present conflict.

If this charge is proved valid, a justice department official said, the visitor's permit under which he entered the United States may be revoked. In applying for such a permit, the would-be entrant must state all the purposes for which he desires admission to the country. Paish merely stated that he intended to deliver lectures while here. If his mission here is one of propaganda, he should have stated so, it was noted, and his failure to do so will provide sufficient ground for revocation of the permit if Senator Wheeler's assertions are substantiated.

Senator Wheeler told the senate that he had called the state department and ascertained that Paish is not registered as an agent of a foreign government.

AIR CORPS BOARD HERE TO EXAMINE PILOT ASPIRANTS

Unit Will Remain 10 Days to Help Candidates.

A board to examine young men who want to become flying cadets in the army air corps will function for the next 10 days in room 902 of the new postoffice building, Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford of the 6th corps area announced yesterday.

It is the mobile [traveling] board set up by Gen Ford to speed enlistments. Candidates will be assisted in making their initial applications and will be given physical examinations and, where necessary, special tests. Those who survive these preliminary steps will receive appointments as air corps cadets.

The instruction course requires nine months. A candidate must appear before the board with his birth certificate, transcripts of college credits showing completion of at least two years' work, and references from three reputable citizens.

Educational Tests Offered.

If the candidate has not completed two years of college work he may take special examinations to determine his educational qualifications. In the Chicago area these examinations will be given once everf three months at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport.

His physical condition, educational background, and character references being satisfactory, the candidate will be sent to one of the civil flying schools located in various sections of the country for three months of army supervised elementary training. The Chicago School of Aeronautics at Glenview and the Parks air college at East St. Louis are most handy to cadets from Chicago.

Three months' additional instruction will follow at Randolph field, Texas. Training is then completed with a rigid three months' course at the advanced army flying school at Kelly field, Texas. If the cadet has flown 215 hours by this time and has executed all maneuvers necessary in piloting military airplanes, he becomes a second lieutenant in the United States army air corps with the pay of a regular officer.

Paid $75 Monthly in Training.

Cadets are paid $75 a month from the time they enter the civil flying school until they emerge with a commission. Clothing, food, and shelter are provided free.

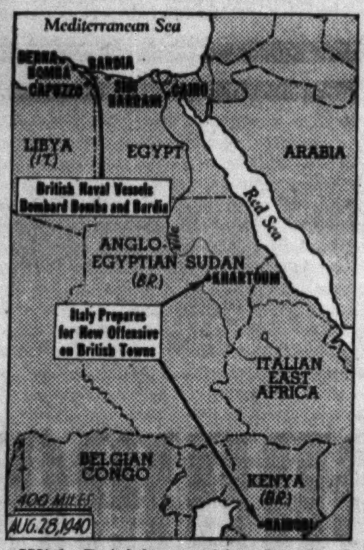
Twenty young men appeared at headquarters of the board yesterday to inquire about enlisting. One feared he would fail to qualify because of color blindness. He was told not to be discouraged, as he might be peculiarly suited for service as a bombardier [one who aims bombs]. Many men who are color blind can detect camouflage more readily than those with normal eyesight, he learned.

The 6th corps area enlistment quota is 125 men a month, but this total most likely will be doubled, it was indicated.

Capt. Richard J. O'Keefe of Wright field, Dayton, O., is president of the mobile board. On Sept. 7 he will lead the traveling examiners to Springfield for a week's stay there.

Press African War

(Story in adjoining column.)



With British warships bombarding Italian bases, and Italy planning attacks on British towns in Africa, an attempt to invade Egypt was believed near.

ITALIAN INVASION OF EGYPT NEAR, BRITISH BELIEVE

Reveal Warship Attack on Libyan Port.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 27 (AP).—A spurt in Italian military activity in North Africa and Fascist press recrimination against Egypt led British observers to the conclusion today that Premier Mussolini soon will send his troops across the desert against this passive ally of Britain.

These informants expressed the conviction, too, that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Italian commander in Africa, would be forced to launch his drive shortly because he could not go on indefinitely withstanding British sea and air bombardments.

Graziani is reported concentrating on re-garrisoning Fort Capuzzo, western desert frontier post battered into virtual ruins by the British. Apparently he wants to make it a front line base for a campaign into Egypt.

Shelling of Bardia Revealed.

British military men say, however, that the shelling of Bardia and Bomba, militarized Libyan ports on the Mediterranean, and the seaplane base of Derna with little opposition indicates Graziani has left his rear guard virtually unprotected.

His latest set-back came Saturday with the shelling of Bardia, 30 miles from the Egyptian border, by British warships which penetrated the harbor itself. The British said they disrupted troop concentrations and leveled supply bases.

This bombardment was reported belatedly in a British communique today.

Egypt, meanwhile, apparently passed a cabinet crises. Premier Hassan Sabry Pasha announced his government was remaining in office—following an announcement that it had resigned because of differences of opinion over undisclosed "questions of internal policy."

Italy Admits Raid Damage.

ROME, Aug. 27 (AP).—Italy today officially acknowledged that British bombers, in a new night assault, had scored hits on the important Fiat motors factory at Turin.

The Fascist press, however, devoted itself to new tidings of a desert offensive to drive the British out of Egypt. Il Telegrafo, organ of Foreign Minister Count Ciano, said it was sure that African Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's "sword will cut the enigma" there.

As for Egypt, the press commentaries today included a second warning from Virginio Gayda, frequently Mussolini's spokesman, that the Egyptians must not oppose Italy's efforts to drive the British from their country—if they wish to keep their independence.

REFUGEE SHIP TO REACH N. Y. AT NOON TODAY

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The army transport American Legion, bearing more than 800 American refugees, neared New York tonight, convoyed by two U. S. destroyers, after a voyage from Petsamo, Finland, thru uncharted mine fields.

Destroyers met the ship 500 miles at sea in midafternoon to provide an honorary escort for Crown Princess Martha of Norway and her three children. Also aboard was Mrs. Florence Jaffray Harriman, United States minister to Norway.

The ship, for whose safety Germany warned she would not be responsible in view of recent mine layings in its total blockade of waters around the British Isles, was scheduled to dock here at noon tomorrow.

The American Legion, which sailed from New York July 25, left Petsamo Aug. 16, carrying Americans who had been stranded in Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Germany, and The Netherlands.

Princess Martha will go to Hyde Park as a guest of Mrs. Roosevelt.

EX-CLERK IN U. S. EMBASSY TO BE TRIED IN LONDON

Tyler Kent.

Kent's arrest was announced June 1 by the home secretary, who said Kent's detention was the result of action by Joseph P. Kennedy, the American ambassador. He had previously been dismissed from his clerkship.

Kent is 29 years old and was born at Newchwang, Manchuria, of American parents. His father, A. H. P. Kent, is dead. His mother lives in the United States.

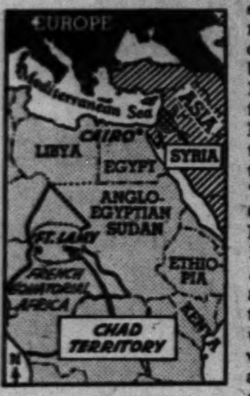
BRITAIN PLEDGES ECONOMIC AID TO FRENCH COLONIES

Chad, in Africa, Decides to Fight On.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Regarded here as the first step toward bringing the entire colonial empire of France behind the British in the war, French troops in the Military Territory of Chad, in French Equatorial Africa, have declared that they will fight on with Britain, it was announced tonight.



Arrows locate Chad and Syria.

The Chad declaration, which was signed by Col. Marchand, in command of the troops at Fort Lamy, was announced by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, chief of the French committee in London which is organizing "French outside power" to continue the war.

The declaration was regarded so important that it evoked a letter to Gen. de Gaulle from Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Economic Aid Pledged.

Churchill's letter stated that "1, until such time as an independent constitutional authority is reëstablished on free French soil we will do everything in our power to maintain the economic stability of all French overseas territories provided they stand by the alliance; and, 2, that so long as our pathway to victory is not impeded, we are ready to foster trade and help the administration of those parts of the great French empire which are now cut off from captive France."

Britain apparently has reckoned with every possible repercussion from this development, Churchill having pointed out last week the possibility that the Petain government "may soon become a foe."

New Move Under Way.

The Chad declaration dovetails with the mission of Col. de Larminat, recently chief of staff of the French army in Syria, who has been organizing French units at Cairo. Col. de Larminat, who made a quick visit to London and received instructions from Gen. de Gaulle, left on another mission, according to the Daily Telegraph.

It was understood he had been in close contact with Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser, deposed commander of the French army in Syria; Gen. Catroux, chief of French armies in Indo-China, and Gen. Rene Jacques Prioux of Dunkirk fame, all of whom were removed from their commands by the Marshal Henri Philippe Petain government. The combined strength that these men might be able to mobilize outside of Britain for the allied cause was estimated to be at least 1,000,000 equipped and trained troops, mostly natives.

Altho buried in central Africa, the Chad territory is represented as of strategic value in Britain's war with Italy.

Jap Navy Seizes Town 100 Miles from Hongkong

TOKIO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Japanese naval forces today occupied the town of Kichich, 100 miles east of Hongkong on the coast of Kwangtung province, in a further tightening of Japan's hold on the Chinese coast, Domei, Japanese news agency, announced in a broadcast today. The agency said the Japanese fleet bombarded and set afire military stores in Kichich.

Design for a monument to a guy named GREEN

Who? You say you never heard of him? A man whose contribution to American happiness is second only to that of Thomas A. Edison, John Ringling and Walt Disney?

Every time you walk into a soda fountain and order a strawberry-with-vanilla or a black-and-white, you do honor to Mr. Green's great brain. For he is the benefactor who, in Philadelphia in 1874, is credited with creating that star-spangled drink, that taste sensation of the universe, the ice cream soda.

When Mr. Green confected the soda, he certainly invented part of America. The same can be said for whoever thought up a ham-on-rye, fresh roasted peanuts and apple pie à la mode. THE CAMPAIGN
Both Sides of it

The Tribune is under no political or financial obligations to any one. It is free therefore to present the claims of both national committees, so that you may draw your own conclusions.

REPUBLICAN

Personalities are Issues!

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.
[Assigned by Republican National Committee.]

We get a lot of letters telling us to keep away from personalities. It would certainly make this work more pleasant if we could do so.

But the fact is that personalities are paramount in this campaign. You are being asked to go in for PERSONAL government.

It is the first time in the history of this country that you have been asked to do this. The Russians are ruled by Stalin and the clique around him. Germany is ruled by Hitler and the clique around him. We are being asked to turn over our government to Mr. Roosevelt and the clique around him.

In this case, personalities are important. It is essential that you know the whims and foibles and the weaknesses of these men. It is essential that you realize that they are just men—some of them with more than ordinary ability, some of them with very average ability, indeed—and none of them SUPERMEN.

You may say that we will have congress to serve as a check in the event Mr. Roosevelt is elected to a third term. You will, indeed, have a congress on the pay roll, just as Germany has a reichstag on the pay roll.

Many Congressmen "Play Ball."

But you will have no appreciable number of congressmen with the hardihood to oppose him in anything he undertakes. These congressmen will have seen a steady concentration of power in the Mr. Roosevelt's hands over a period of seven years. Now they will have seen him returned to office for a third term. They will rightly assume that the way to hold their jobs, and they have to face the voters every two years, is not BUCK Mr. Roosevelt any longer. They will fall over themselves to play ball.

It is a fact that a day seldom passes that there is not an awful fight going on in one of the countless bureaus he has set up. He has little or no control over them. The subordinates do pretty much as they please. They are little governments unto themselves. Perhaps you think these things do not affect you. They cause chaos and stagnation in the world of industry and business and that keeps people from getting jobs or, having jobs, from getting raises.

Thus it is impossible to escape the personalities.

In this campaign men are issues—the men and their motives. To the limit of our ability we intend to tell you about them as we know them from having lived with and associated with them.

Mr. Roosevelt and His Toys.

For example, our opponent the other day printed the picture of a warship and told about how much Mr. Roosevelt had built up our navy.

It is a fact that among the many toys he has had to play with in Washington—next to people, he has liked to play with the navy most.

In the first blank check of more than 3 billions which he was given to relieve distress and prime the pump—back in 1933—he was given specific authority to use some of it to build up the navy. And he did use some, MUCH TO THE GRATIFICATION OF A MAN WHO HAD CONTRIBUTED HEAVILY TO HIS PRECONVENTION AND SUBSEQUENT PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

This gentleman had been a heavy operator in Wall street, where, according to the New Dealers, all the iniquities of the world arise.

The Republicans had considered him a public enemy No. 1 or No. 2, because of his bear trading in 1930 and 1931. They tried to get him down to Washington before an investigating committee. He scooted from these parts like nobody's business. He did not make his reappearance until Mr. Roosevelt was elected.

Figures in the Inner Circle.

Then it was truly amazing how he moved into the Roosevelt inner circle. The late Mr. Woodin was Mr. Roosevelt's first secretary of the treasury. But in those banking holidays when bankers whose banks were perfectly sound were trying to learn when they could reopen and under what terms, they had to deal with this gentleman. He was a big shot.

So, we suppose, men being what they are and patriots being what they are, that when Mr. Roosevelt went to spend some of the blank check on the navy, this gentleman had bought control of the shipbuilding company where most, if not all, of the money was spent.

A couple of years ago Mr. Roosevelt, always liking to play with battleships, went down to the annual winter maneuvers off Guantanamo. At the time, a little feature story was carried in the papers that the vessel he was aboard was "captured" by the "enemy" fleet.

That isn't all. Some months after the maneuvers, two high ranking officers of the navy conferred privately with a group of senators and expressed a willingness to sacrifice their careers in order that what happened off Guantanamo would not happen again. Their story was that Mr. Roosevelt had insisted on taking charge of the maneuvers, with the result that the millions of dollars spent for this annual practice were a total loss. Mr. Roosevelt had bawled up the whole works.

DEMOCRATIC

A Lawyer Becomes a "Business Man"

THE ADOPTED BOY.

The trump card in the Willkie deck is the assertion that he is a hard-headed business man with a lifetime of experience in plant management and industrial production. This creates a pleasing image with the public.

If it were true, then Willkie would rank up with those giants of industry like Henry Ford, William S. Knudsen, and a host of others who have captured the imagination of the world by their mastery of the technique of mass production.

Political puffing is an old device, and the Willkie propaganda battery ranks with the best. With the emphasis now on defense and the need for speed, the idea of replacing the "starry-eyed" idealists of the Roosevelt administration with a business "realist" has a distinct popular appeal.

As Mr. Willkie is the least known of all the men who ever ran for the Presidency, this clever touch of campaign artistry has gone over fairly well. The only flaw in the argument is that it just isn't so.

For, Mr. Willkie is not primarily a business man but an adroit lawyer and special advocate who has spent the adult years of his life pleading the cause of the private power industry. Until he assumed the presidency of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation about seven years ago, he had no business experience at all. He was a corporation lawyer in Ohio, appearing before state regulatory bodies in behalf of his clients. After that his main job was to take care of the financial end of this vast utility holding company. The average executive who has managed the affairs of a department store, of a newspaper, an oil business, or a shoe manufacturing plant has had far more acquaintance with actual business than Mr. Willkie.

Business or Finance.

In the first place, the power industry is not a competitive industry in the customary acceptance of that term, but a private monopoly with its output highly stabilized because of the ever-increasing demand for electric power on the part of new consumers. The work of producing this power rests not on holding companies like Commonwealth & Southern but on the various operating companies which it controls. The holding company is concerned chiefly with financial problems. This explains why Commonwealth & Southern had its offices in Wall street while the operating companies were servicing customers in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, and a number of states in the deep south.

Before he bounced into the limelight as the Republican nominee for President, Mr. Willkie always confined himself to the legal and financial side of the private power business. He never attempted to pose as an expert on production or distribution. When he appeared before a committee of congress in opposition to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, outlawing holding companies, he testified that the real reason for the existence of holding companies was to provide adequate financing for the subsidiary operating companies. He said the only place to do this properly was in Wall street.

A "Business Man" President.

The mere fact that a man had achieved greatness in the important field of industrial mass production would hardly be enough to qualify him for the Presidency in a time of acute national emergency. No one questions the genius of Henry Ford or the efficiency of his motor plant built up thru many years of painstaking care and effort, but Mr. Ford has been something less than successful in his few, brief excursions into the field of public affairs. In fact, a business executive, grown used to absolute authority in the management of his company, is seldom fitted for the necessary give and take of political life. A production genius like William S. Knudsen is far more valuable to national defense when he is left free to do that job alone than he would be if burdened with the policy making responsibilities of the White House.

In any event, the industrial expert tag on Mr. Willkie is out of place. It takes far more than words to transform a debating financier into a production wizard. Whether Mr. Willkie managed his holding company with outstanding success will be discussed in future installments.

ENGLAND CERTAIN TO WIN WAR, SAYS PRINCE OF DUTCH

Future of Netherlands Called Secure.

DOVER, England, Aug. 27 [By telephone to London].—Prince Bernhard of Holland, husband of Crown Princess Juliana, today told THE TRIBUNE in an exclusive interview that he regarded the future of Holland as absolutely secure and added, "No man who is a soldier can possibly doubt that England will win the war."

The prince is visiting Dutch friends at a country estate on the southeast coast. He uses American slang in speaking and carries a submachine gun with which he hopes to shoot down a German bomber during one of the daily air raids. He said he shot a blackbird this morning while practicing.

Plays Tennis, Throws Boomerang.

After playing tennis and trying his hand at boomerang throwing, the prince had tea in his tennis shorts and discussed Holland's part in the war and the final outcome in very optimistic terms.

"The Netherlands government is in England now and there is no likelihood of its moving to the Indies," he said. The prince indicated he did not regard the Japanese threat there seriously at the moment.

Studies Nazi Invasion.

"We have a small army here [in Britain], our navy, and also our air force," he added. "When the war is over we shall return to Holland."

The prince's confidence of ultimate victory was more significant because he has seen and studied the German invasion of his own country in great detail and recently has had unusual opportunities to observe all the latest British preparations.

"I would have given a different answer two months ago," he concluded, "but today I am certain the Germans have not the slightest chance of successfully invading England."

Japs Name Indies Envoy.

TOKIO, Aug. 27 (AP) via radio].—The government today announced the appointment of Ichizo Kobayashi, minister of commerce, as special envoy to the Netherlands East Indies. The announcement, broadcast by Domei, Japanese news agency, said Kobayashi and a staff of 20 would leave on the assignment Aug. 31.

CHICAGO'S ALIENS SIGN UP AMIABLY UNDER NEW LAW

A steady stream of foreign born persons filed thru the new and old postoffice buildings and 40 postal stations yesterday as Chicago began the work of registering and finger printing its 180,000 aliens. An amiable willingness to coöperate with the government was reported.

The same scene was enacted in postoffices thruout the country as the United States started gathering data on the more than 3½ million aliens within its boundaries. The aliens must be registered by Dec. 26. Failure to comply is punishable by a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine, imprisonment for six months, or both.

The law, passed as a safeguard against fifth column activities, compels all aliens 14 years old or over to give all pertinent data regarding themselves, including affiliations with any organizations of a political nature.

It was explained that, while the authorities wish to complete the registration as speedily as possible, it is not necessary for aliens to complete the process during the first few days. Postmaster Kruetgen suggested that aliens call at their neighborhood postal station, obtain form AR-1, and make an appointment for a time for completing the process.

MR. KNUDSEN AT A DOLLAR A YEAR.

Mr. Knudsen of General Motors and Mr. Stettinius of Big Steel are serving on the national defense advisory commission. Mr. Knudsen is in charge of production. He is to see that the national industrial plant gets going on the making of planes and tanks and everything else that the military forces need and haven't. No one has thought of a better man for the job, and there probably isn't a better man.

Mr. Knudsen is on leave of absence from General Motors and is serving his country for a dollar a year and expenses. That would seem to be one of the best bargains the country ever made. It is dirt cheap to get so much ability for so little money, but is that the price the treasury is paying to obtain the services which Mr. Knudsen so willingly and patriotically gives? It seems not to be.

In a good year, when automobiles are selling well, Mr. Knudsen has earned in salary as much as $450,000. The administration which now has him on its pay roll at a dollar a year has rapped these big salaries without mentioning where, in the final distribution, they went. It is expected that this will be a good year for automobiles, and if Mr. Knudsen had remained in private business, earning his salary, his income might again have been as high as $450,000.

Of that amount, under the new tax which would be applied to Mr. Knudsen's and others' earnings, the automobile man would have paid into the federal treasury an estimated $290,000. He won't pay in any part of his one buck, and it would seem that Mr. Morgenthau's books will indicate that Mr. Knudsen's services have cost the federal government the $290,000 which he, not having earned, won't pay over.

General Motors, of course, may reason to itself that this is unfair to Uncle Sam and see that he doesn't have to take such a loss in getting the services of its employé. In a flash of patriotic generosity it may pay Mr. Knudsen his salary, altho he's on leave, and reduce the expensiveness of his services to the administration by the amount Mr. Knudsen will then turn over to the government.

But in Washington Mr. Knudsen is classified as that once familiar figure, a Dollar a Year Man, and as such is costing the government treasury its big slice—more than half—of his normal earnings.

TWO TIMING ON THE THIRD TERM.

A resolution was introduced in the United States senate in 1928 declaring the third Presidential term unwise, unpatriotic, and full of peril to the nation's institutions. The man who introduced it said, on the day it was adopted by a vote of 56 to 25: "I did not offer the resolution with any concern for its possible effect for good or ill on the political fortunes of President Coolidge or for any individual party or faction. My concern was and is for the maintenance of a traditional principle as old as the government itself, that no man should have the Presidential office for more than eight years nor more than once employ the kingly power and prestige of the office to renominate himself and thus destroy that principle."

The author of this resolution was Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, and he was supported by Democratic senators, some of whom are still in office and now supporting the third term for Mr. Roosevelt. The arrow aimed at Coolidge went wide of its mark. The target wasn't there. Mr. Coolidge settled matters with his "I do not choose to run." It was briefer than Mr. Roosevelt's explanations and different in that it meant what it said.

Senator La Follette, now silent on the issue that touched his patriotism and his concern for American institutions before, is again seeking reelection and the third term administration is helping him. No candidate has been put in the field against him and the New Deal is doing nothing for independent Democrats. Senator La Follette bows to the kingly power and prestige and has no voice in defense of "the principle as old as the government."

MAKING COUNTY ZONING WORK.

The Cook county board acted in an expeditious manner in passing the county zoning ordinance at its meeting on Tuesday. The ordinance contains great potentialities for public good in guarding health in unincorporated areas and in enforcing intelligent planning of subdivision property.

So far these are only potentialities. Upon the proper administration of the ordinance depends whether they are to be realized or whether the county ordinance is to be made a racket, as the city council has made a racket of the Chicago zoning code.

The primary administration is to be left in the hands of a zoning department established by Maj. Quinlan, head of the county highway department. This department, by all accounts, acted competently in administering the interim ordinance which the present ordinance replaces, and if left undisturbed should handle the routine under the new ordinance with equal competence.

The real power in zoning administration, however, rests in the zoning board of appeals, which has broad powers in interpreting the zoning ordinance on appeals from the zoning department, and in granting exceptions to the zoning ordinance where such exceptions will not do harm to the fundamental purposes of the ordinance. The board has not appointed this appeals board. Upon its success in naming to the board of appeals men of high caliber will depend the success of the ordinance in a large measure.

The first requisite for each of these members should be a considerable familiarity with zoning practice and objectives. If an attempt is made to apportion appointments among various minority groups for political purposes, the board will not function properly and the ordinance may very well prove a failure.

A second requisite for the success of the ordinance lies with the county commissioners themselves. The failure of the Chicago zoning code to give the city the benefits of intelligent zoning has not lain so much with the zoning board of appeals, but with the city council, which is constantly overriding the appeals body and passing amendments to the zoning code designed to benefit some particular property owner.

If the county commissioners want their zoning ordinance to work they must put Satan behind them and refuse to interfere with the rulings of their board of appeals. This, it is true, would be unprecedented behavior, but there is no reason why the board should not try it. It is the only way to make the ordinance work.

THE ENGLISHMAN IS FOR HIS OWN COUNTRY.

Senator Wheeler enlivened the debate on the conscription bill Monday by relating what Sir George Paish, British economist, had said to him in the course of a talk in the senator's office. Senator Wheeler said that Sir George, calling on him, was very frank and revealed his expectation of success in getting the United States into the war on the side of Britain.

Paish is here as a propagandist. He has been in Washington in consultation with Mr. Roosevelt and with other officials and persons interested in intervention. He is about to cross the country on a speaking tour. He couldn't be truthfully called an undercover agent for the British government because he is too widely known and most of his mission is apparent on the surface.

According to Wheeler, Paish told him that he came to the United States in 1916 and had taken his part in the work which sent America to Europe in 1917. He said that he was now urging that the destroyers be sent to Great Britain and that the Johnson act be repealed to allow loans to be made to his country. He said he would do everything he could to get this country into the war again.

Wheeler replied there was a great deal of sympathy here for Great Britain and a desire that it win out in this struggle, but that the British government should not be misled into believing that the United States would come in. To which Paish is said to have remarked: "Senator, the sentiment in this country is going to roll up and roll up like waves on the ocean. Regardless of what you want, you will be forced to vote for it [the declaration of war]."

There was some sputtering of indignation when Senator Wheeler related parts of the conversation. Inquiry at the state department disclosed that Sir George had not registered as an agent of a foreign government under the law passed two years ago. There were recommendations on the floor of the senate that he be punished or deported. Paish was certainly candid, if he is authentically reported by the noninterventionist senator to whom he talked.

The conversation could hardly be regarded as privileged with secrecy implied in it. The subject was of such importance that Senator Wheeler could be compelled to regard himself as the possessor of information to which the country was entitled, regardless of the circumstances in which it was given him, and in a general way it could not be regarded as the disclosure of a great secret. We all know that the British are seeking every aid they can in the United States and are doing so for their country's sake.

Sir George is a Briton. His country is in peril and he thinks it is his duty—as it is—to serve it in any way he can. A great service would be to produce in the United States a powerful ally to come to England's aid. Paish is not seeking to get Great Britain into a war waged by the United States. He wouldn't regard that as his duty. No one would expect Englishmen to spend their money, raise their voices, and use all their efforts to get Great Britain into an American war. They wouldn't be found in such a conspiracy. They wouldn't be on the air, day after day, with exhortations to their fellow countrymen. They wouldn't be working in the lobbies of parliament, in the newspapers, and on the platform to conscript Britons for a war for the United States in this hemisphere.

It's a good thing to know what Sir George and other propagandists are undertaking to do. But indignation in the senate and elsewhere is not well directed against them, altho the country should protect itself against them. Indignation should be directed against Americans who are trying to do what Sir George is trying to do. Sir George did not say that Americans who are trying to keep out of the war are "outstanding exponents of a traitorous point of view." The American, Robert E. Sherwood, said that, and he named Lindbergh and Henry Ford.

Ambassador Bullitt, Senator Pepper, William Allen White, some American admirals, Americans with money to spend, and Americans of divided loyalties are openly trying to do what Paish is doing. But he is acting for his own country. The Americans also are acting for his country and not their own.

"STAKE MONEY."

[Reno Evening Gazette.]

Discussing the difference between "stake gambling" and "turnover" gambling, Frank G. Menke points out in his informative "Encyclopedia of Sports" that the former means the total sum of money owned by the player originally and which he risks to lose during the progress of play. "Turnover gambling" represents the total money.

Those who wish to adhere strictly to ordinary totals speak in terms of "stake gambling," because that represents the accurate sum for consideration. But those who like to go into lofty numerals, so as to stress the total played call upon "turnover" figures.

When it is stated that "five hundred thousand dollars was wagered yesterday at the Whoopla race track," it does not mean that the public wagered that much of its own "stake" money. That total was "turnover."

But the five hundred million dollars which the Roosevelt administration proposes to risk, by loaning it to the defaulting nations of Latin America, is "stake money." There will be no "turnover."

French Public Opinion.

Etienne Dennery, young French university professor, spoke before the Institute of Pacific Relations Monday afternoon on the French collapse. He was asked, at the close of his talk, what public opinion in France is as to the British. He made a point that had not occurred to us previously and perhaps not to others. There can be no public opinion when there is little communication. The French still do not know where their friends are; they can not move about easily; there are few newspapers. M. Dennery himself felt there was no great anti-British feeling in French hearts. That the blockade, and hunger, might not increase it has was not so sure. M. Dennery, who was introduced to his listeners by Mrs. Quincy Wright, crossed the French border 15 minutes after it was closed by German order and came over on the Clipper in July. An economist and expert on international relations, he came to America at the invitation of Rockefeller Foundation.

A woman of French family, with many relatives in Paris, made a gallant and forthright statement on behalf of her French relatives when M. Dennery's statement was repeated to her.

"I know hunger will not make members of my family resigned to German domination," she said. "They would rather starve and have the British blockade effective than live under a victorious Germany."

Traditional Naval Enmity.

Even tho French civilians may not, on the whole, be inimical to Great Britain as M. Dennery believes, the French navy undoubtedly is, and not just because of the British seizure of the French fleet, in the opinion of Quincy Wright of the University of Chicago, expert on international law. Dr. Wright points to the traditional enmity of the British and French navies, which from the middle ages to the Napoleonic period fought on opposing sides.

"The British and French were allies for the first time in the Crimean war," he went on. "That and the world war were the only ones in which they had fought on the same side in nearly five centuries."

There was the hundred years war, in the first period of which the entire French fleet was destroyed by the British at the battle of Sluys, in 1340; the war of the Spanish Succession, in which England tried to cripple the power of Louis XIV., and in which Marlborough led British forces; the Seven Years war, which laid the foundation for the British empire, and at the close of which the British acquired Canada from the French; and the American revolution, with French help for America against the British. As late as the 19th century, Dr. Wright points out, there were colonial rivalries between the two countries. So there is more than the Oran incident to justify French-British naval enmity.

Tolerance.

A Niles Center resident, Mrs. Edward M. Herman, has returned from a lodge in northern Michigan, where first names are a rule of the camp. A little woman from Cleveland had an awkward moment when she greeted her breakfast companion with: "Good morning, Margaret. You don't mind if I call you Margaret, do you?" and the other answered, "It's quite all right, but it's not my name."

Leisurely Luncheoners.

Note on F. V. and P. desk:

A reader of your column called up to say that it is about time the people started watching the police instead of the police the people. Seems that last Friday a squad car was parked at Wilson and Sheridan road for two solid hours. The reader sat in the hotel across the street and watched the car. The policemen were having lunch.

Editorial of the Day

CO-OPERATION? YES, TO A DEGREE.

[New York Daily News.]

Defense pacts, such as our agreement with Canada, make good sense because they are based on this hemisphere and its safeguarding. The transfer of destroyers, however, immediately mixes us up in Europe.

Prime Minister Churchill, in commons the other day, spoke proudly and defiantly of the manner in which American-British interests were becoming intertwined. He is probably correct. Some joining of interests is essential. We question whether this jointure should go so far as to become well nigh indissoluble. The transfer of destroyers would bring that about. Added to which is the well known fact that such a transfer would be largely a gesture, a token of friendship. The big battle is under way; by the time these destroyers are reconditioned it probably will be over.

The prime mover of this war was the present prime minister of England, Winston Churchill. In his book, "Step by Step," he proves that Britain was far outraced in armaments, woefully unprepared for war. Churchill was not then in the cabinet; he was one of the loudest critics of appeasement. He urged Britain to back Poland on the corridor question, even to the extent of war. So Britain did, knowing she herself was unprepared, and where Russia stood.

With any nation the first million on the government pay roll is always the hardest. After that burocracy, like money, breeds with scarcely any attention at all.—Washington Star.

THE OUTLOOK AFTER APOPLEXY.

THE most common cause of bleeding within the brain is a break in a small artery. The tube has become so brittle that it can no longer withstand the strain of the pumping heart. Like a rubber tire that has aged thru long service, the walls give way and hemorrhage results.

As a rule, the onset is sudden—without warning. Nevertheless, some individuals will experience dizziness or exhibit marked irritability for several days. With others, headache or mumbling or halting speech will be manifest.

The accident—for that is what it is—usually takes place subsequent to exertion—lifting, climbing stairs, or straining at stool. If unconsciousness does not come on quickly, the victim is likely to mention severe head pain. This, in turn, may be followed by vomiting. Insensibility then ensues and deepens gradually.

The episode may arise almost anywhere and at any time of day. The first requirement is to speed the patient to the nearest hospital or—if he is at home—to put him to bed. During the moving process the head should be elevated slightly above the body level, and the clothing about the neck loosened so that breathing is not interfered with. The temperature may be below normal—which means that extra heat must be provided, and hot water bottles properly wrapped may be employed. Burns must be guarded against, inasmuch as the victim is not able to complain. Every hour or two the posture should be changed so that blood will not settle in the lower portions of the lungs.

No attempt should be made to give fluids or food by mouth and—if the blood pressure is high—bleeding is the remedy of choice. This procedure may reduce oozing within the skull and lessen the damage which follows. For the first twenty-four hours the rule is to let the sufferer alone, altho the mouth and nose must be cleared so that air may enter and leave the lungs with ease. Thereafter—if coma persists—dilute solutions of salt or glucose may be introduced beneath the skin. This is of value in maintaining the output of the kidneys. There is no occasion to use a laxative. If anything is called for, recourse may be had to an enema. If there is unusual restlessness—demanding a drug for control—one of the barbiturate preparations may be injected directly into the muscles.

While the symptoms may increase in severity, nevertheless recovery may come with but mild paralysis. Then it is that massage plays an important rôle. At the same time, the patient is encouraged to make every attempt to move the affected parts. As soon as possible bed rest should be terminated and the afflicted person allowed to be up and about with such support as he may require.

Paralysis of half the body [hemiplegia] is customary. Unless the speech centers are affected directly the victim will be able to resume normal conversation and—within a few weeks—some degree of power generally returns to the feeble leg, altho with diminished strength. The arm is weakened more often, hence the ability to walk may be regained with the upper extremity somewhat less useful than the lower. Unless activity and massage are practiced vigorously atrophy [wasting] may occur. Cases are reported not infrequently in which a temporary paralysis lasts only for a day or two.

Healthy vessels do not break and we need take no special precautions to prevent apoplexy other than to preserve as best we may the general well-being. We can avoid throwing too much food into the furnace and shun all factors designed to increase the blood pressure.

VERMIN.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have a lease which runs until May, 1941. The apartment is overrun with vermin. Every room in the house is infested. Exterminators have been futile. Can a lease be broken for this cause? J. E.

Landlords are under no general obligation to clean or repair or to make alterations or to exterminate vermin. If the tenant desires such service he should see that appropriate wording is in the lease.

"In absence of fraud or concealment by the lessor of the condition of the property at the date of the lease, there is no implied warranty that the premises are tenantable or even reasonably suitable for occupation, and the rule of caveat emptor applies. The exclusion of an implied covenant as to the condition of the premises is especially applicable when the lessee inspects them before executing the lease, or where the true condition of the rented premises can be readily observed. Where the lessor conceals defects in the premises which the lessee could not have discovered by reasonable diligence, it constitutes fraud; and where the lessee is compelled to remove from the premises by reason of such defects, he can recover from the lessor the rent paid in advance and the loss occasioned by such removal." "TOO BUSY" TO DEBATE.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 26.—In his press conference Mr. Roosevelt said that in governing 130 million people he is too busy to meet Wendell Willkie in public debate.

In the same press conference he told of plans to spend much of this week at Hyde Park, attending a meeting of the Roosevelt Home club, and to journey then to Asheville, N. C., to dedicate the Great Smoky National park on Labor day.

Mr. Roosevelt certainly should be accorded the privilege of conducting his own campaign for a third term. If he does not wish to meet Mr. Willkie in public debate he has a right to decline, but he should do so in a straightforward manner.

Mr. Roosevelt, in governing 130 million people, is not too busy to plan a trip to Asheville to dedicate a park and we all know that if he relished meeting Wendell Willkie he would find time to do so.

We girls don't like to see our men manufacturing excuses to avoid meeting an opponent. OBVIOUS ANNE.

SAPOSS AND HIS RECORD.

Arlington Heights, Ill., Aug. 24.—In Wednesday's TRIBUNE I noticed an article by David Saposs of the NLRB defending himself regarding radical activities. I have taken the time to look him up and here is some of his past record. In 1933 there were 30 branches of the John Reed club, named in honor of John Reed, first American communist affiliated with International Union of Revolutionary Theater. As a section of the communist International Union of Revolutionary Writers, the New York John Reed club organized the Workers' Cultural federation.

Members of the club led in organizing the Workers' school, Free Tom Mooney conference, Chicago Workers' theater, School for Workers' Children, May 1 Demonstration, etc.

David Saposs was a member of John Reed club. A few who signed the Reed club's protest against anti-Red propaganda were: Arthur Garfield Hays, Robert W. Dunn, Scott Nearing, Philip Reisman, Ann Rosenberg, Mike Gold [New Masses], Upton Sinclair, Louis Untermeyer, and David Saposs, who was at one time a member of the faculty of Brookwood Labor college and an instructor at Rand School for Socialists. Both these schools shared generously from the communist Garland fund.

Ambassador Bullitt married the widow of John Reed, first American communist. It would be interesting to know just how many communist dupes and sympathizers are on the federal pay rolls. Why not start a drive to remove all of them from government jobs and thus strike a blow at fifth columns in this country?

Fellow Americans, why do we allow agents of foreign governments and their sympathizers to feed from government pay rolls when they are not true believers in our American way of life? Here is a good place to start a drive to solve many mysterious airplane crashes recently, bombings, train wrecks, etc., which may be acts of sabotage.

A TRUE NATIVE-BORN AMERICAN.

PULMOTOR DIDN'T COME.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I wonder what plausible explanation the pulmotor squad has for failure to answer a plea for aid. A friend of mine who lives in Roseland called the pulmotor [the latter part of last week] for her little daughter, who suddenly had developed quinsy sore throat, and as a result was unable to breathe or swallow without aid. Each time the mother called [she called four times] she was asked if it was contagious. The answer was negative, and each time she implored them to hurry, all to no avail. The little girl finally slumped and died in her parents' arms. What is their answer to this? D. B. N.

PRIZE FOR INCONSISTENCY.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 24.—Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana, at the recent Illinois State fair, entered the ring as chief spreader of New Deal inconsistencies. Judged by his own words, he should receive first prize. He said that on account of the present great emergency Mr. Roosevelt should be retained for another four years. "Why discharge an old experienced farm hand for a new one?"

"In 1932," he continued, "we saw our way out of a crisis [emergency] that threatened to destroy America bit by bit." [Just as the present crisis is doing now.]

And so, "by an overwhelming majority the people of Indiana and Illinois voted for Franklin D. Roosevelt" [a new farm hand without experience, and against Herbert Hoover, an old farm hand with four years' experience, including the handcuffs of a Democratic congress].

All of which goes to show that the New Dealers have a "closed shop" on emergencies and inconsistencies and the "scab" Republicans are left out in the cold. JOHN B. MILLER, M. D., Willkie Democrat.

A FEW PEEVES.

Kenilworth, Ill., Aug. 25.—Is grammar taught in school? Even high school pupils use many of the following:

If you and me. It's me.
If I was you.
Have you got a match [got unnecessary]?
It don't seem [doesn't], also he don't and she don't.
Can [may] I borrow your pen?
Tomorrow is [will be].
Who to?
I'll lay [lie] down.
Ending sentence with "at."

CRITIC.

MR. ORR'S OWN IDEA.

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 23.—Orr's cartoon, "The Red Beast of Moscow," could hardly be surpassed. Whoever suggested the heading, "Frankenstein's Monster Slays Its Maker," embraced the opportunity of a lifetime.

We hope the complacent world paused in its accustomed frivolities long enough to consider whether we are becoming more enlightened or are reverting to savagery. A. L. ASTOR.

POSITIVELY DISGRACEFUL.

Monmouth, Ill., Aug. 23.—The attitude of THE TRIBUNE in its selfish, partisan editorials, cartoons, and even its news reports, is positively disgraceful. In a free land the sacred obligation of the press to present the news in an unbiased and fair manner is violated by your paper.

President Roosevelt is a great humanitarian, an unfailing American, and an unselfish statesman. He has brought this great land of ours successfully thru a typical Republican mess and has restored an equal opportunity for all American citizens to live in the true American way.

I am only 18 years old, but I realize the danger to our nation if big business again gains control of our country, as it will do if Wendell Willkie, whose connections are nearly all on Wall street, is elected President.

DAVID M. HALLAM.

BETTER AS READING MATTER.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 23.—I suggest that Mrs. Clinton Camp use washable shelf lining in her pantry and READ THE TRIBUNE. MRS. JESSIE F. JONES.

P. S. It was easy to swallow Mr. Willkie's speech. After swallowing fireside chats for seven and one-half years it would be easy to swallow a whole fireplace.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 28, 1833

Slavery outlawed in the British empire. Slave trade had already been abolished, but slavery still flourished. The abolition bill received royal assent on this date. A sum of 20 million pounds was voted to compensate slave owners, and it was stipulated that the slaves should serve their old masters for seven years in an apprenticeship to prepare them for liberty. The apprenticeship requirement was later reduced, and complete freedom was granted in 1838.

ROOSEVELT HITS BACK AT CRITICS OF ARMS MUDDLE

Blames Congress for Lack of Planes Ordered.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—Angered by charges that the administration has bungled the job of procuring war planes for the defense of the United States, President Roosevelt today devoted his press conference to a spirited defense of his military equipment procurement program.

The President insisted that 10,015 planes actually are on order for the army and navy. He asserted that in point of operating efficiency, America's flying force is the equal of Germany's.

Mr. Roosevelt took note of the assertion of Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] that only 343 combat planes have been contracted for since the congress in May appropriated 5 billion dollars for the preparedness program. He said that some of Byrd's statistics were correct but that the implication he drew from them [that the security of the nation is menaced by government inefficiency] was dead wrong.

Lays Blame on Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the two heads of the defense commission, William S. Knudsen and Edward R. Stettinius Jr., joined with him in putting the blame upon congress for any unsatisfactory progress in the drive to arm the United States. Congressional delay in passing necessary legislation is responsible, he declared.

The President's figures on planes, he said, were furnished him by John H. Biggers, industrialist attached to the defense commission. Of the 10,015 planes ordered, he said, 6,361 are under formal contract and 3,654 are being constructed by manufacturers who hold "letters of intention" from the war department which, he said, have the practical effect of contracts.

Mr. Roosevelt said that some of the planes "may" have been ordered before he created the defense commission.

Production Capacity Climbing.

The great objective, he declared, is to increase America's production capacity and increase it steadily.

The national annual capacity was about 6,000 planes a year ago, when the European war broke out, he said. Capacity now has been lifted to about 10,000 a year and by Jan. 1 it will be about 13,000 to 14,000 a year, he asserted. Early in 1942, the capacity will reach a rate of 36,000 a year, the President said.

Congress must pass three major measures before it adjourns, the President declared. They are the conscription bill, the second five billion dollar army and navy bill, and the new tax bill on excess profits with its provision for amortization of plants erected for defense purposes.

TELLS DEFENSE LESSONS GAINED BY 33D DIVISION

Commander Reviews War Game Experiences.

BY HAROLD HUTCHINGS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 27.—Lessons in defense against modern war methods and machines were the most important learned by the 33d division in the 2d army maneuvers, Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois unit, asserted today.

Gen. Lawton.

"After all" he said, "we [the National Guard] have no new offensive weapons for an infantry division such as ours, but new offensive weapons were used against us. Tanks and dive bombers are the most important, and these are not under control of the infantry division commander, tho both are new threats to the infantry division."

No Control Over Tanks.

The 33d division, as well as other guard divisions, now has a tank company whose tables of organization call for 17 tanks, but in battle the use of tanks is under higher command, rather than division commanders. Officers attending the maneuvers have said in private discussions that they expect the tank companies of guard divisions to be absorbed by armored divisions. The 33d tank company has two tanks instead of the 17 called for in tables of organization.

An important defensive lesson taught by the maneuvers was that it is necessary to send engineer troops with advance elements to erect road blocks along the flanks to stop roving tanks, and also to demolish road blocks established by the enemy, guard officers asserted.

Another lesson was the necessity to send reconnaissance cars with advance elements. Their function is to wipe out enemy machine gunners left near road blocks established by the enemy. It was explained that a principle purpose of the road block is to halt an enemy's tanks or trucks long enough to cripple them with machine gun or cannon fire, rather than merely to delay them.

Troops in Good Condition.

With their final and most extensive problem ended yesterday, the 60,000 men attending the maneuvers spent today resting and cleaning equipment which was muddy and wet as a result of the persistent rainfall. The GHQ air force planes, which were to have taken part in the maneuvers, still were grounded at Madison, Wis., airport.

The troops survived their wet and chilly training with health appreciably better than the usual peacetime command's average, Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commander of the second army, declared.

A total of 688 men were occupying hospital beds out of 59,372, or an average of 1.14 per thousand. This compared with a usual peacetime average of between two and three per cent of a command, General Ford's figures showed. During mobilization military authorities plan to provide hospital beds at the rate of five per 100 soldiers.

Virtually all the cases here are of a minor nature and most of the patients will be discharged in a few days.

Break Camp Today.

The first units of the 33d division will start for home tomorrow afternoon. A total of 3,342 men will leave the maneuver area tomorrow by train and 4,402 by road. Most of those leaving are from the Fifth corps area, which includes Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, and Kentucky.

Illinois units leaving tomorrow, all in the 123d field artillery, are: Headquarters battery and service battery, Monmouth; battey A and the medical detachment, Galesburg; headquarters battery and combat train, Galva; battery B, Macomb; headquarters battery and combat train, 3d battalion, and battery E, East St. Louis, battery F, Alton.

The first Illinois units to leave by rail will depart on Thursday for Sullivan, Salem, Mount Vernon, Danville, Paris, and Lawrenceville.

Michigan, Wisconsin Guard May Be Called on Oct. 15

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP).—Informed persons said today that Michigan and Wisconsin National Guardsmen would be among the second group of guard units to be called for a year's active duty on Oct. 15. The first group will be called Sept. 15, and others will be called up to Dec. 15. War department officials declined to discuss the report saying it was "restricted" information on orders of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff.

WILLKIE AGREES WITH EVERYTHING McNARY FAVORS

Listens to Speech, Hopes He Makes More.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rushville, Ind., Aug. 27.—Wendell Willkie agrees thoroly with his running mate, the Republican Presidential nominee said tonight at the conclusion of the acceptance speech of Senator Charles L. McNary, Vice Presidential choice. The head of the ticket came here by car after flying to Indianapolis from New York. He listened to McNary's address on the radio while he and his party dined in an Indianapolis café.

"I enjoyed Senator McNary's speech very much," Willkie said. "I thought he made an unusually clear definition of the New Deal's domestic policy.

"In its differentiation between that philosophy and the philosophy of the Republican leadership, it was exactly in accordance with my own beliefs. I hope Senator McNary makes as many talks during the campaign as possible."

Agree on Power Question.

A reporter asked if Willkie's views on public power differed from those expressed by his running mate.

"I saw no substantial difference between Senator McNary's views on public power and my own," Willkie replied.

Six strenuous days in New York were behind Willkie as the big Stratoliner bearing him and his party landed at the Indianapolis airport after a 4 hour flight.

Mrs. Willkie and her mother, Mrs. Cora Wilk, met the nominee at the airport and drove with him to Rushville, where he will make his headquarters for the next two weeks.

In the course of an interview before leaving New York the Republican nominee spurned the support of Father Charles E. Coughlin, in radio priest, declaring that it was more important "to be able to live with myself" than be President.

"I don't have to be President of the United States," Willkie said, "but I do have to keep my beliefs clear in order to live with myself. I am not enough interested in being President to compromise my fundamental beliefs."

Nation Urged to Trust Willkie.

The nominee's statement was in response to a question of whether he had seen comments on his acceptance speech published in Social Justice, the weekly founded by Father Coughlin, which included an indorsement of his candidacy.

This section read: "Social Justice believes that in the present emergency, Americans can better trust the nation to a man like Wendell Willkie than to a man like Roosevelt."

In his reply Willkie said: "If I understand Father Coughlin's beliefs, I not only am not interested in his support; I don't want it. I don't listen to him, but as I understand his views, he's opposed to certain groups because of race or religion. What I have said of that sort of thing is true of him or of anybody else.

"There is no place in my philosophy for any such beliefs, and there's no hedge clause about that. I want that made absolutely clear."

Coughlin Denies Responsibility.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin said today he had "not endorsed any candidate for President, either Mr. Willkie or Mr. Roosevelt," and added, "nor do I know that I shall do so."

The Royal Oak priest's comment was prompted by a statement of the Republican presidential candidate, Wendell L. Willkie, that he did not want Father Coughlin's support if he understood correctly that Coughlin is opposed "to certain people in this country because of their race or religion."

Concerning an editorial in the publication Social Justice, founded by Father Coughlin, which referred to Willkie's acceptance speech as a "much-needed call to American nationalism," Coughlin said he is "certainly not responsible" for what might appear in the publication. It has contained no article printed over his name in more than six months, he added.

Visits United States

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Gen. Juan Almazan, candidate for the Mexican presidency, as he arrived at Mobile, Ala.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 27 (AP).—Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, independent candidate for president in the still unsettled Mexican election of last month, arrived in Mobile last night aboard a fruit boat. He refused to discuss the Mexican political situation and insisted that he is merely on vacation.

Traveling incognito and apparently alone, Almazan left here late last night on a northbound Louisville and Nashville train. He declined to say where he was going, but there was a report that his destination was Baltimore. He insisted his plans for the immediate future call for nothing but "rest and relaxation."

Asked if he planned to visit Washington, D. C., he replied: "I have no business in the capital and probably shall not visit it at all." In response to questions concerning the Trotsky slaying, oil property expropriation, the halting of a United States ship by a Mexican gunboat, and other Mexican affairs, he said: "You must understand there are very many things which I could say in Mexico which I can not say here."

WESTERN G. O. P. STATE CHAIRMEN MEET TOMORROW

Campaigns to Be Mapped in Regional Parley.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republican national headquarters announced yesterday that the first of its large regional meetings will be held tomorrow in the headquarters at 120 South La Salle street. Party chairmen of the 31 states in the western division have been invited to attend. The purpose of the gathering is to consider plans for linking the state and national committees in close cooperation for the campaign.

The 31 states in the western division embrace the area west of Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

Committeemen Invited.

National committeemen and committeewomen in the western division also have been invited to participate in the Chicago meeting.

John Hamilton, executive director of the national committee will preside. He has been in the east in close touch with Wendell L. Willkie, the Presidential nominee. The powwow starts at 10 o'clock in the morning and may last thru Friday.

A colored voters' division was set up at headquarters yesterday. It is headed by Sidney Redmond of St. Louis, Mo. All divisions are getting set for the real opening of the campaign. This will be held back until Willkie's first speech Sept. 16 at Coffeyville, Kas., where the nominee once taught school.

County Leaders Confident.

At Cook county headquarters Republican chiefs yesterday said reports from party workers indicate the party has a chance to elect its county ticket in November. William Busse of Mount Prospect, county board dean who has spent more than 40 years in politics, declared tha for the first time in 10 years the county ticket has an even chance.

"Willkie sentiment in the county is like a tidal wave," said Busse. "It looks as if the machine can't beat us this time."

Magnesium

M E T A L

THE STORY OF A SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN ENTERPRISE

IN FEBRUARY 1940, The Dow Chemical Company stepped up its production of magnesium from 6,000,000 pounds to 12,000,000 pounds a year.

One month later it authorized the construction of plants to double the production again. By December, 1940, Dow's production of magnesium metal will be at the rate of 25,000,000 pounds a year. Further increases in facilities can quickly be provided as needed.

This statement on increased production is of interest because of the rapidly growing acceptance of DOWMETAL*, the magnesium alloys produced by Dow—and particularly because magnesium metal has become so vitally essential in the construction of airplanes.

Magnesium's principal characteristic is its extreme lightness combined with surprising toughness. It is a full third lighter than any other metal in common use. There are four outstanding facts to be noted concerning the present status of this exceptional material:

First—Dow created and owns its methods of production. It pays no patent royalties on the production of magnesium metal to any foreign sources. Magnesium metal production is a free and clear American enterprise in every respect.

Second—Dow licenses magnesium fabricators without license fee or royalty. More than a score of such fabricators are now making DOWMETAL parts under such free license.

Third—Dow, by pioneer work that started 20 years ago, has made available a low-cost domestic supply of magnesium metal. Previous to that time magnesium metal had to be secured from abroad at a well-nigh prohibitive price.

Fourth—Through increase in acceptance and production, Dow has been able to reduce the price steadily through the years. When Dow entered the field, magnesium metal was selling at $3.50 a pound. Today this remarkable metal is selling at 27 cents a pound—an all-time low.

When the cows get a shock

What happens when the cows try to wander out of the pasture on the Tribune's Du Page county farm is the subject of an article on Page 30, today by Homer Neisz, agricultural editor.

On this page also are the farmlands want ads which each weekday appear adjacent to the farm article.

(ADVERTISMENT)

If Your Sleep Is BROKEN Again Tonight by an Overwhelming Urge

—you have only yourself to blame

Your being forced up at night may be due to too high a percentage of acid in your bladder contents . . . to their being insufficiently diluted from failure of kidneys to eliminate at least 3 pints daily! As a result, your bladder contents may be so highly acid that they are torturing and irritating the sensitive bladder linings. Such a condition can cause those "overwhelming urges" that wake you up. It may also result in pains in back, lower abdomen, burning passages, discomfort.

Start taking FOLEY PILLS—the 3-way pills which stimulate elimination, dilute the over-acid contents, help relieve irritations of the bladder linings from excess acidity.

If your being awakened at night is due to sleep-ruining bladder irritations from excess acidity, blame only yourself if you let those "urges" continue. Do something! Take FOLEY PILLS! Your money refunded if such urges continue. Many report sound slumber the very first night. For the sake of sleeping thru the whole night without getting up once, start taking FOLEY PILLS right away. At your druggist.

GROWING G. O. P. WOMEN'S CLUBS MAP FEDERATION

Illinois Workers Report Phenomenal Gains.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Representatives of Republican women's clubs from more than 65 counties in Illinois will meet in Springfield Sept. 5 to organize the Illinois Federation of Republican Women's Clubs.

Mrs. C. L. Silvis.

The group then will become a member of the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, which in less than two years' working time has drawn more than 250,000 women into its fold. No state federation may join unless it has clubs in 60 per cent of its counties.

Reports Phenomenal Growth.

The Illinois clubs have had a phenomenal growth this summer, according to Mrs. C. L. Silvis, chairman of the women's division of the Republican state central committee. By Aug. 1 they had 9,000 members. An intensive drive, begun then, netted 2,000 more.

The clubs are supposed to be an auxiliary endeavor of the women's division, "a side issue," as Mrs. Silvis phrased it, but the members tumble over one another getting in.

Few devices to make women politically conscious [or Republican conscious] are being neglected. Women are being organized into telephone squads to notify their sisters in politics of meetings; into motor corps to offer to drive women, who otherwise might stay home, to night meetings, and into radio groups.

Radio Listeners Organized.

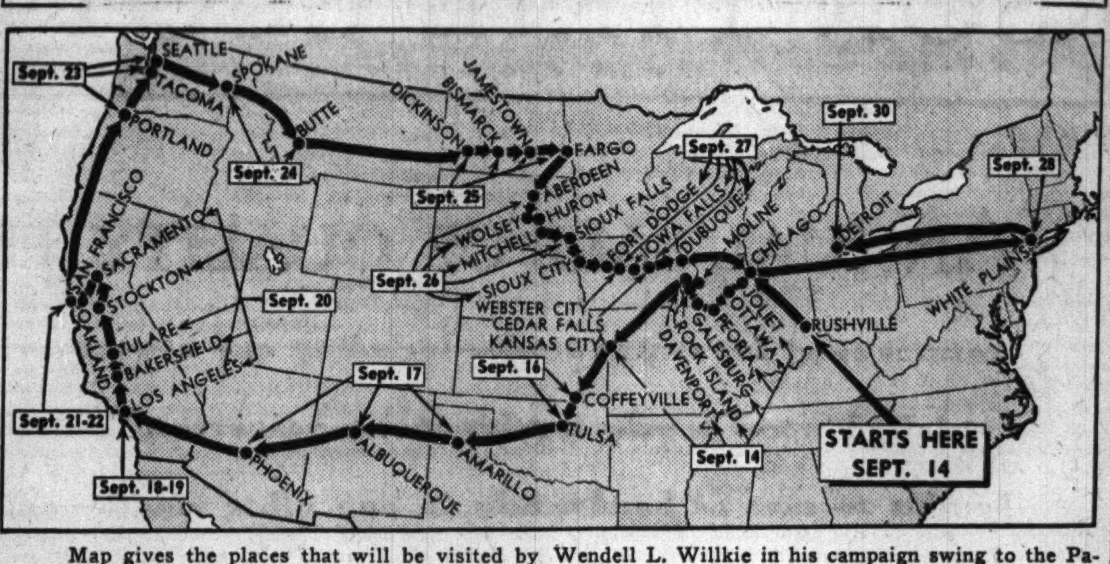
"There is to be a radio group in every precinct in the state," Mrs. Silvis said. "The members of each group will get in touch with each other so all will listen in whenever there is a radio speech of importance."

Mrs. Silvis is a veteran in politics, but even she is astounded, she said, at the interest women are taking in the 1940 campaign.

"You never saw anything like the people who come thru here wanting to work," she said, gesturing toward a woman who had just entered the women's headquarters [on the third floor of the La Salle hotel] to ask, "Have you a few buttons you can spare for me?"

The Springfield organization meeting will be held in the Abraham Lincoln hotel. Club presidents and state central committeewomen will attend, as will Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman; Mrs. Grace Reynolds, vice chairman of the national committee; Mrs. Ernest Griffin, vice chairman of the state women's division, and Mrs. Marie Suthers, chairman of club organization.

Willkie to Make Campaign Swing Across Nation



Map gives the places that will be visited by Wendell L. Willkie in his campaign swing to the Pacific coast and the date on which he will be at each.

WILLKIE TO MAKE SIX ILLINOIS STOPS ON TRIP TO COAST

Itinerary of 7,000 Mile Tour Is Announced.

New York, Aug. 27.—Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential nominee, will speak briefly in at least six Illinois cities on Sept. 14 as he proceeds by special train to Coffeyville, Kas., where he officially opens his western campaign tour on Sept. 16.

The itinerary is not yet complete, and no arrival or departure times were given, but on the list released by headquarters today were Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, Galesburg, Moline, and Rock Island. Most of these will be rear platform appearances. Crossing the Mississippi river at Rock Island, a stop also is scheduled at Davenport, Ia.

Willkie's special train will leave Rushville, Ind., shortly after midnight on the morning of Sept. 14 and will proceed to Chicago. The itinerary stated that no meetings or formal speeches have been scheduled for Chicago, but the nominee may make a platform appearance before leaving for downstate.

Tentative October Date.

Willkie is expected to make a Chicago address in October, after completing his swing to the west coast.

As released today, the western itinerary will carry the nominee about 7,000 miles—almost twice the distance announced last week when the plan was made known. The tour was said then to cover only about 3,800 miles, but today it was admitted there had been a bad error in mileage calculation.

A new section was added today when Willkie announced that he will appear before the New York Republican state convention at White Plains on Sept. 28. He had decided last week that he wouldn't be able to attend, but changed his mind today.

The trip to White Plains probably will be made by plane from Chicago, then Willkie is scheduled to be back in Detroit on Sept. 30 for his last appearance on the forthcoming tour.

Will Rest in Kansas City.

After crossing the Mississippi on Sept. 14, the nominee will make several as yet undetermined platform appearances in Iowa and expects to reach Kansas City that night. He has no plans for Sept. 15 and is likely to spend it resting.

The Coffeyville opening on Sept. 16 will be an afternoon affair. Willkie will leave immediately after the meeting for a brief stop that night in Tulsa, Okla.

On Sept. 17, stops are scheduled at Amarillo, Tex., and at several towns in New Mexico, including Albuquerque.

From Albuquerque the nominee may make a hurried side trip to Phoenix, Ariz., by plane.

Willkie will arrive in Los Angeles on the afternoon of Sept. 18 and will remain there until the next night, Sept. 19, when he leaves for San Francisco, appearing on the way at Bakersfield, Tulare, Stockton, Sacramento, and Oakland.

Into Northwest on Sept. 23.

The nominee is scheduled to spend Sept. 21 in San Francisco and will leave at noon on Sept. 22 for Portland, Ore., where he will arrive on the morning of Sept. 23. Stops at Tacoma and Seattle also are on the itinerary for Sept. 23.

On Tuesday, Sept. 24, Willkie will visit Spokane, Wash., and Butte, Mont. He will continue thru Montana the following day, Sept. 25, to Dickinson, Bismarck, Jamestown, and Fargo, N. D.

The itinerary for Sept. 26 includes Aberdeen, Wolsey, Huron, Mitchell, and Sioux Falls, S. D., with the last stop of the day at Sioux City, Ia.

On Sept. 27, Willkie's special will take him to Fort Dodge, Webster City, Iowa Falls, Cedar Falls, and Dubuque.

The addition of White Plains, N. Y., for Sept. 28 makes it probable that Willkie will go on to Chicago on the night of Sept. 27 and fly east from there.

NEW DEMOCRAT ORGAN SINGS FARM VIRTUES OF WALLACE, HERSHEY

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27 [Special].—The Democratic state central committee has a new political publication, the Illinois State Record, which is being sent out to farmers thruout the state in an effort to further the campaigns of Democratic candidates.

The paper extols the rural virtues of Henry A. Wallace, the party's Vice Presidential candidate, and Harry Hershey, Democratic nominee for governor. Wallace, former publisher of an Iowa farm paper, was described as the "true friend of the Illinois farmer," while Hershey, whose most recent employment was in handling receiverships, was represented as a practical farmer.

Unofficial sources said the Record was originated to replace the Truth, state Democratic organ of previous campaigns. The Truth has not appeared since circulation of the new publication was begun about six weeks ago.

JOHNSON JURORS START HEARING EVIDENCE TODAY

300 Witnesses Expected in Income Tax Trial.

BY FRANK CIPRIANI.

The first of 300 or more witnesses will be called today before Judge John P. Barnes in Federal District court in the trial of William R. Johnson and eight other men—all reputedly important figures in the gambling racket—on charges of conspiracy to violate the income tax laws.

The case got under way yesterday with the selection of a jury of eight men and four women. At the start of the proceedings United States Attorney William J. Campbell caused a surprise by dropping charges against four of the original 13 defendants.

Those freed were William R. Skidmore, alleged partner of Johnson; William Goldstein, lawyer for the Skidmore-Johnson interests; Orrie Alexander, Skidmore's brother-in-law and chief bookkeeper in Skidmore's junk shop, and Miss Bernice Downey, former manager of a Lawrence avenue currency exchange allegedly controled by the gambling ring.

Lawyer Expected to Testify.

Dismissal of the charges against Goldstein apparently was predicated on the government's plan to use him as a prosecution witness. It was said Skidmore was dismissed because the government did not wish to risk jeopardizing his prosecution in another income tax charge. He is under separate indictment on charges of evading payment of $500,000 in taxes and will be tried after the Johnson case is finished.

Goldstein conceivably may become one of the government's most important witnesses, it was said, because of his presumable knowledge of the machinery and political tieups that made big time gambling possible in Chicago and Cook county.

It was considered possible, however, that Goldstein might testify for the defense. He has been subpenaed as a witness both for the defense and the prosecution. Skidmore has been subpenaed as a defense witness.

Motion for Delay Denied.

Yesterday's proceedings were perfunctory. Judge Barnes denied a motion for a brief postponement, sought by the defense because new lawyers had entered the case. Two of them, Michael J. Ahern and Thomas D. Nash, representing Skidmore, bowed out less than 30 minutes after they formally entered it. Another, Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, stayed on. He represents Johnson.

The indictment accuses Johnson of evading the payment of $1,887,864 in income taxes from 1936 to 1939, inclusive, and charges that the eight co-defendants conspired with him to evade the payment.

Defendants in addition to Johnson are Andrew J. [Red] Creighton, reputed gambling house manager; Ed Wait, Johnson's principal aid; Jack Summers, manager of the Dev-Lin house; John M. Flanagan, also manager of a reputed gambling house; James A. Hartigan, boss of the Harlem stables and Lincoln tavern; Reginald E. Mackay, head of the Club Casino; William P. Kelly, head man at the D & D club, and Stuart Solomon Brown, partner of Miss Downey in the currency exchange.

List of Jurors.

It was necessary to examine only 22 veniremen in the selection of the jury. The jurors are:

Philip R. Ames of Harvard, Ill., farmer.

N. P. Elpers, 511 Gates avenue, Aurora, railroad clerk and member of the Aurora city council.

Mrs. Mary F. Brevillier, 4948 Highland avenue, Downers Grove, housewife.

Mrs. Paul Van Auken, 230 East Chicago avenue, Hinsdale, housewife.

Richard L. Rees, 373 Weston avenue, Aurora, city mechanic.

M. L. Pereira, 5111 Kimbark avenue, Chicago, civil engineer.

The government announced that the jurors will be locked up for the duration of the trial, which is expected to last two or three months. Judge Barnes plans to speed the case, and will hold sessions Monday—Labor Day—which customarily is a court holiday.

Trial of Alleged Gamblers Opens

William R. Johnson (right), reputed gambler, and Andrew J. Creighton, alleged associate. A jury to try them and seven others on income tax charges was chosen yesterday.

U. S. COURT BIDS SLUSH FUND QUIZ BE KEPT SECRET

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27 [Special].—Federal Judge Charles Briggle today entered an order restraining District Attorney Howard Doyle and O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general of the United States, together with their assistants, agents, employés, and associates, from making any comment on the federal grand jury investigation into utilities slush funds.

After several days' study, the judge broadened an order sought by Doyle at the request of Rogge asking that newspapers be restrained from using the names of witnesses called in the investigation. The prosecutors had not requested that they and their associates be included in the order.

The government is seeking evidence pertaining to charges that three companies falsified records to build up slush funds to cover political contributions. The companies are the Union Electric company of Missouri, the Illinois-Iowa Light and Power company, and the Missouri Power and Light company.

16 ARE ARRESTED IN POLICE RAIDS ON 4 HANDBOOKS

Police yesterday raided three handbooks in the loop and one on the south side as they resumed their drive against the gambling syndicate headed by Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Capone gangster, and Danny Stanton, prohibition era bootlegger. Sixteen men were arrested in the raids.

The location of the raids and the number of men seized in each were: 18 South Dearborn street, eight men; 10 West Van Buren street, three men; 54 West Randolph street, two men, and 750 West 79th street, three men. All were charged with disorderly conduct. Gambling equipment also was confiscated in the raid at 18 South Dearborn street.

The police morals squad visited two alleged policy game establishments at 327 East 35th street and 104 East 31st street. Frank Conwill, 37 years old, colored, was seized at the first address and Miss Margaret Smith, 36, colored, at the second.

Grand Duchess Marie Visits City; Glad Trotsky's Dead

Grand Duchess Marie of Russia paid a brief visit to Chicago yesterday on her way from her present home in New York to San Francisco. As she boarded a North Western train, she said: "I am glad Leon Trotsky is dead. It is a very good thing. No one ever mentioned all the people he killed."

HIRAM JOHNSON TAKES LEAD IN CALIFORNIA RACE

Ahead on Three Tickets in Senate Contest.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 27 (AP).—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, veteran isolationist, took a long lead over a string of candidates on the Democratic, Progressive and Republican ticket tonight in returns from the state primary election. Johnson calls himself an Independent Republican. Although running what was conceded to be one of the most difficult races in his political career, Johnson in 3,359 out of 13,540 precincts received 79,592 on the Republican ballot, while Lieut. Gov. Ellis Patterson was getting 7,310 and Assemblyman Samuel Yorty 4,256.

Patterson and Yorty are Democrats but are seeking the Republican nomination in addition to that of their party.

Tops Democratic Ticket.

On the Democratic side of their contest, Johnson in 3,359 precincts collected 85,548; John Anson Ford, Los Angeles county supervisor, 35,253; Patterson, 30,676, and Yorty, 11,992. Two other Democrats trailed far behind.

The veteran senator had more varieties of opposition in this race than in previous contests possibly because of his break with President Roosevelt since California in recent years turned from a Republican into a strongly Democratic state.

He campaigned from Washington and summed up his bid for a fifth term by asserting he "never responded to the orders of any man, and I never will."

Senator Bilbo Wins.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 27 (AP).—Mississippi Democrats today renominated Theo G. [The Man] Bilbo for a second term in the United States senate on the basis of unofficial primary returns. Nomination is tantamount to election.

Unofficial returns from 1,125 of the state's 1,660 precincts gave Bilbo 76,491 votes to 53,767 for former Gov. Hugh White.

Brig. Gen. William I. Westervelt, retired, an official of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, and Capt. Herman William Zermuehlen, signal corps reserve, an engineer with the Illinois Bell Telephone company, have been ordered to active duty with the army, the war department announced in Washington yesterday.

Gen. Westervelt, former technical director of Sears, Roebuck & Co., who has lived in Winnetka since his retirement, moved to Washington, D. C., two weeks ago and will be assigned to duty there.

Capt. Zermuehlen has been a signal corps reserve officer since 1928. He also will be stationed in Washington and will be assigned to signal corps procurement work. His home is at 4836 Elm street, Niles Center.

TROTSKY'S BODY CREMATED; ASHES TO GO TO WIDOW

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Aug. 27 (AP).—The body of Leon Trotsky, once powerful soviet war commissar, who sought haven in Mexico after his exile from Russia, was cremated today. Trotsky was slain last Tuesday with a pickax which, police said, was wielded by Frank Jackson, who posed as his friend. Trotsky's ashes will remain in the custody of the widow.

During renewed questioning, Jackson was reported to have held to his original story that he killed Trotsky because of "disillusionment" at his "egoism." He denied any connection with any Russian organization, despite Trotsky's deathbed charge that the Russian GPU [secret police] had ordered his assassination and that it was carried out by a GPU agent.

'A BICYCLE THIEF PEDALS HIS WAY INTO POLICE TRAP

Policemen James Sullivan and John Lancaster of the Cragin station hid in the bushes yesterday in Amundsen park, Bloomingdale and Moody avenues. Nearby several youths, acting on the policemen's orders, abandoned their bicycles and walked away.

After a two hour vigil the policemen were rewarded. A young man sneaked up to one of the bicycles and pedaled away swiftly. Sullivan and Lancaster ran after him and seized him. He identified himself as Harry Demos, 20 years old, 2200 North 75th court, Elmwood, and admitted he was the culprit the police had been awaiting.

Demos said he had stolen 15 bicycles in the district in recent weeks and had sold them in other neighborhoods.

Reinstate Two Policemen Accused of Intoxication

The civil service commission reinstated two police patrolmen yesterday after ruling that evidence to support charges of intoxication did not warrant discharge from the force. They are Raymond Oswald of the Chicago Lawn station and James Sullivan of the New City station. Oswald was suspended May 30 and Sullivan on June 16.

LABOR DAY TOLL CITED IN WARNING TO CAR DRIVERS

Thirty-two persons will be killed in Illinois in automobile accidents during the Labor day week-end unless motorists are more careful than they were last year, the Chicago Motor club warned yesterday. The club urged drivers to use caution on crowded highways and to avoid fatigue.

Miss Pearl Carstensen of Independence, Mo., was killed yesterday on United States route 66, six miles south of Joliet, when the car in which she was riding overturned. Her sisters, Miss Dora Carstensen, 60 years old, and Miss Eva Carstensen, 48, were injured and were taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Joliet.

Mary Duffy, 60, of Woodstock, McHenry county, was killed, and Edward Kelly and Sadie Jones, also of Woodstock, were injured in an automobile collision near Quinn, S. D., according to dispatches.

Edward Prouza, 8, died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries incurred Aug. 2 when he was struck by an automobile in Lawndale avenue near Cermak road. He lived at 3706 Cermak road. The drive. was Henry Stirn, 2016 Wilson avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 546 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 405 were killed in Chicago, where 15,129 were injured in traffic in the same period.

DENIES HE'S BUND CHIEF; EXPLAINS COUGHLIN CHAT

William Wernecke, 6250 Wayne avenue, yesterday denied reports that he is a leader of the German-American bund in Chicago and that he was summoned to Royal Oak, Mich., for a conference with Father Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest.

"That story is two years old," Wernecke said.

He displayed a copy of the December, 1939, issue of the magazine New Masses in which an article by John L. Spivak quoted Wernecke as saying he had a satisfactory conference with Coughlin. Wernecke also was quoted as saying "he was surprised at the lengths to which Father Coughlin went."

"I told the federal officials about the story in April," Wernecke said. "I told them I had never been a member of the bund. I did talk to Father Coughlin about selling his paper in Chicago. I have asked the federal bureau of investigation to look at my farm in Wadsworth to spike a story that I have 2,000 rifles there. They do not pay any attention to me, tho."

3 MOVIE STARS CLEARED BY DIES OF RED CHARGES

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, cleared movie actors Franchot Tone and Francis Lederer and Actress Luise Rainer today of accusations that they were communist sympathizers. He added, however, that they had been "used" unwittingly by organizations "inimical to the best interests of the country."

Pending further investigation, Dies withheld a statement as to a fourth film player, Lionel Stander, who like the others appeared voluntarily before him to deny accusations by John L. Leech, communist organizer in California, that they were sympathetic to the communist cause.

Dies said he would recommend to his full committee that it declare Tone, Lederer, and Miss Rainer were not and never had been members of the communist party.

Stander said he never had been a member of the communist party, nor contributed funds to it, directly or indirectly.

PRISONER DIES IN BRIDEWELL.

Jack Gallagher, 57 years old, 826 South Wabash avenue, a butcher, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital where he was working out a fine for drunkenness.

C. J. GOTTHART, 69, EX-TRIBUNE STAFF MAN, DIES

Charles J. Gotthart, 3158 North Sawyer avenue, veteran Chicago newspaper man, died last night in Michael Reese hospital of heart disease. He was 69 years old. Mr. Gotthart came to Chicago from Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1906 and became a member of THE TRIBUNE's editorial staff, remaining until 1916, when he moved to the old Evening Post. During this period he also operated an extensive reference library, serving the Post and private clients.

After leaving the newspaper field he established a store at Belmont and Sawyer avenues, operating it until his death.

Surviving are a son, Charles Jr., a member of THE TRIBUNE's financial staff; two daughters, Mrs. Georgia K. Stoeckert and Mrs. Marjorie Bowers, and five grandchildren. The funeral will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday in the chapel at 3026 Belmont avenue. Burial will be in Acacia Park cemetery.

SOUTH CAROLINA DRYS TAKE LEAD IN EARLY VOTING

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—Dry advocates rolled up a steadily increasing majority as returns were tabulated from today's advisory referendum on whether the state should return to prohibition.

With 696 of 1,523 precincts reported, the vote for prohibition was 66,107 to 50,550 in favor of retaining package stores for liquor and virtually unrestricted sale of beer and wine.

The referendum was conducted with the biennial Democratic primary in which six candidates for congress were nominated. The referendum will not affect the present law, but the result was intended to serve as a guide to the legislature in 1941.

Five congressmen who had opposition were renominated which is equivalent to election. Representative Clara G. McMillan did not seek reëlection and Mendel Rivers, Charleston attorney, was apparently winner over Alfred H. Vonkolnitz, also of Charleston.

MICHIGAN TAKES COMPROMISE TAX ON DODGE ESTATE

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 27 [Special].—The state administrative board today approved a compromise settlement of Michigan's inheritance tax claims against the estate of the late Daniel G. Dodge of Detroit, under which $514,428 will be paid.

Dodge had been named in the will of his father, John F. Dodge, automotive magnate, to receive one-fifth of the income of $40,000,000 when he reached the age of 25. He died, however at 21, in a boat explosion while on a honeymoon with his bride, a former Canadian telephone operator.

His death precipitated long legal entanglements. It was finally agreed his estate should be credited with 47½ per cent of his willed share. On this basis the state's potential inheritance levy was greatly reduced. It was pointed out that refusal of the proffered settlement might bring further litigation that would throw the entire trust to others and deprive the state of all tax.

GREEN DIAMOND AND AUTO HIT; COUPLE KILLED

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP).—Two persons were killed tonight when the automobile in which they were riding and the Illinois Central's streamliner, the Green Diamond, en route to St. Louis, collided 15 miles south of here.

The dead were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Herman Black, each about 55 years old, of Auburn, Ill.

JAPS ACT TO BAR FOREIGNERS FROM CHURCH CONTROL

May Also Take Over Hospitals, Schools.

TOKIO, Aug. 27 (AP).—Japanese representatives of 40 Christian denominations are discussing the elimination of all foreign influence from their administration and the unification of all sects in a Japanese central church to conform to Japan's new nationalistic and totalitarian ideals.

Domei, Japanese news agency, today said an agreement was expected next week.

Foreign clergymen and officials expressed belief that a growing campaign is under way to eliminate all foreign financial aid and direction from all Christian religious institutions in Japan, even including hospitals and schools.

300,000 Japs Are Christians.

There are some 300,000 Japanese Christians. Until recent years direction of the Christian movement has been largely in the hands of several hundred foreign missionaries, including a large contingent from the United States.

The movement to eliminate foreign influence already has affected the Salvation Army, also missions of the American Episcopal church and the Church of England. Many authoritative clergymen believe Methodists may next feel the pressure.

Japanese bishops of Nippon Seikokai [Japan Holy Universal church] recently voted that henceforth no foreigner will be permitted to hold a diocese of the church and that future foreign monetary contributions will be rejected. Seikokai combines the American Episcopal and the Church of England missions.

American Bishops Affected.

The Japanese bishops' decision affects three American and four British bishops, who directed the widely known St. Luke's hospital, Rikkyo [St. Paul's] university, St. Margaret's Girls school, and numerous Tokio churches.

Bishop Charles S. Reifsnider, senior American Episcopal bishop, is returning to Tokio from the United States in the hope of effecting a compromise. He had gone to America planning to attend the bishops' conference at Kansas City in October.

Seven Salvation Army leaders, reported to be all Japanese, were arrested on suspicion of espionage, the war office announced Aug. 6. Among those arrested was the Japanese commander in chief. The arrests were connected by unofficial quarters with the detention of more than a dozen Britons at the time.

Japanese newspapers today reported that a reorganization, disassociating the Salvation Army from its London headquarters, has been completed.

CENSUS REVISION GIVES WILMETTE INCREASE OF 1,941

When Wilmette's 1940 population was announced as 16,197 a few months ago, Village President Harry C. Kinne said the census takers were wrong; that the village had gained more than 974 since 1930.

The result of a correction, announced yesterday, showed that the figure should have been 17,164—or a gain of 1,941. Kinne said the increase will be shown to be even larger when names of Wilmette people who were counted in southern winter resorts are added in census headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Frank Kilbane, assistant census enumerator for the 10th Congressional district, said the error was made because some Wilmette residents forgot to count children who were away at college. Others did not include servants living in their homes.

THE SUN FINALLY SHINES ON GLIDER MEET AT JOLIET

The first lengthy flight of the third annual American Open Soaring meet was made yesterday afternoon at the Lewis School of Aeronautics airport near Joliet after the sun finally broke thru the clouds. William Putman of Detroit flew a sailplane to a height of 1,700 feet above the airport and stayed up 2 hours and 12 minutes. It is hoped that the weather will permit distance events today.

The 30 pilots in the meet are competing for cash prizes totaling more than $3,000 in addition to numerous trophies and merchandise awards. The largest single award is the $400 cash prize and trophy given by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which will go to the winner of the meet.

The contest will continue thru next Monday. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The airport is six miles north of Joliet on highway 66.

Thomas Mann Writes Delightful New Novel

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Beloved" in his title is Charlotte Kestner, the Lotte of Goethe's first novel, "The Sorrows of Young Werther." She is a charmingly twittering little widow of 63 in 1816, when she goes to Weimar with her daughter, Charlotte, one of nine children which she bore her excellent husband. The visit is ostensibly to see her youngest sister, but Lotte is not unaware that the great Goethe, who immortalized her 44 years before, also is in Weimar. She is so sure that she will see him that she has reproduced the white dress, minus one of the pink bows, to wear as a "joke" when they meet.

The meeting is at the same time almost farcical and deeply touching, for, of course, to Goethe the little old woman with her nervously twitching head and too-youthful gown is no more the Lotte of his memory than the real Lotte was the fictionized one. And to Lotte the sight of the pompous Goethe is even more disappointing, because her memories were of an ardent young man, not of a literary monument.

However, there is nothing else disappointing about the visit, for Lotte revels in the importance of being a public character, the actual personification of one of the great love stories of all time, and she plays up to it all with delicious charm. But the little nodding head is never really turned and in the end it is she who tells off the great man as he has never been talked to before.

"The Beloved Returns" is one of the most subtle satires on greatness that any one has ever done. In one long, unforgettable chapter the stream of consciousness of Goethe's mind meanders in the direct line of the reader's eye, and the business of being great proves, like any other business, to take concentration and hard work and a certain ruthlessness.

The dinner party where Goethe is surrounded by sycophants, where he pomposes, where, except for mere seconds, he is unable to devote himself to one listener and waits until his audience is agog for the pearls from his lips, is extremely funny and at the same time somehow extremely sad.

Novel by a Critic.

"If It Prove Fair Weather," by Isabel Paterson. [Putnam, $2.50.] Published last Friday.

Subtle in an entirely different sense is this novel by one of the country's best known critics. There is no satire here, altho the heroine is a person to whom satire is a natural way of thought. But here is amazingly clear thinking, so clear that it sparkles, like crystal in the sun.

The plot of "If It Prove Fair Weather" is practically nonexistent. It concerns the love of a middle aged editor and a no longer young teacher of mathematics, a love which never becomes the traditional "affair," but which is concerned almost wholly with the imminence of consummation.

The heroine sees her man with as sharp eyes as have ever gazed upon a beloved and since at least half of the book is made up of the thoughts which course thru the heroine's mind, the hero is as opaque as a pane of glass when she gets thru with him.

To this reader, however, the love story, and the characterizations are alike unimportant. What the heroine thinks, and the way her mind works, is the sweet and luscious kernel of the book, for out of that mind comes observation, clear, true, original, about all sorts of human relationships, about the world around her.

A friend of the heroine says to her, "You do actually live in your mind," and that phrase exactly describes her, and this unusual book. It has come directly from the author's mind, sentient chronicle.

Willkie Brilliance Shines in Volume of His Utterances

"This Is Wendell Willkie," with a biographical introduction by Stanley Walker. [Dodd-Mead, $1.50.] Published last Friday.

In the 280 pages of this collection of the speeches and writings by Wendell Willkie there shine the sincerity, brilliance of argument, plain common sense, and rare intelligence of the small town boy whose life proves that any American boy may become President of the United States.

As long ago as 1937—long before anybody, himself least of all, thought of Mr. Willkie as presidential timber—he was writing for the Atlantic Monthly about political power in the utilities field. In 1938 he debated with Robert H. Jackson. Mr. Jackson was himself at that time being groomed for high political crownings, many thought eventually for the Presidency. Readers will see in the full record of the debate printed here how Mr. Willkie took the lamb to the shearing, and miraculously made listeners say: "They've been calling the wrong guy the smart one."

The later speeches and articles reveal Mr. Willkie's intellectual big guns more exactly trained on the issues of the hour, and include his famous American credo, "We, the People."

Here's Unusual Collection of Stories by 80 Writers

A book "by some 80 writers, each with an individual mind" is a new collection of tales edited by Bennett A. Cerf and Henry C. Moriarity and called "The Bedside Book of Famous British Stories" [Random House, $3]. It is the August choice of the Literary Guild.

Period Pieces Distill Flavors of Bygone Era

"The Feminine Fifties," by Fred Lewis Pattee. [Appleton-Century, $3.]

BY RUSSELL MAC FALL.

These three period pieces—two novels and a literary history—distill the flavor from the America of 1850 to 1910.

Prof. Pattee's entertaining gleanings in the pre-civil war decade disclose a time when Melville and Whitman were the prophets, as usual unhonored; Stephen C. Foster, the psalmist, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" the best sellers. "Hiawatha" was the decade's favorite high literature, while John Phoenix, Artemus Ward, and Benjamin Shillaber made popular humor, and Sylvanus Cobb Jr. and his imitators were paving the way for the dime novel.

Literature in that time may have been preëmpted by Hawthorne's "damned mob of scribbling women," but to it we owe the Atlantic Monthly. Prof. Pattee has been light without being superficial and definite without dogmatism.

"Tassels on Her Boots" was a popular song of the '70s, when history laid the astounding drama which Mr. Train retells in fiction, altho, as he says, "few of the characters in this book are fictitious." Chief of those who are is Barry Carter, South Carolinian just returned to New York from England.

Carter, lured by the pretty face of Kathleen O'Carroll, his shipboard sweetheart, stays in New York to practice law with Ramapo Jones, the conniving lawyer for Jim Fisk, Jay Gould, and their cronies. His social standing and flair for business carry him into the graces of Ward McAllister, czar of the Four Hundred, of Fisk and Fisk's mistress, Josie Mansfield, and of Boss Tweed. There he watches the Erie war, the bursting of the Gold bubble on Black Friday, and the machinations of the Tweed ring, and is sickened.

Allied with the reformers, Carter first beats in vain against the strength of the gang rule, then at last does his part in breaking Tweed's power. Kathleen, of course, is the indirect reward.

Mr. Train's ability to portray the American scene has been eclipsed by the fame of his Mr. Tutt stories, so that it is almost like finding a new writer to read "Tassels on Her Boots."

A turn-of-the-century Becky Sharp stands mercilessly revealed in Mrs. Carson's ironic "Nice Lady." Medora Prather, daughter of a small town milliner, makes an unexpectedly fortunate marriage and is launched on a career in which matrimony is only an incident. She acquires some polish [elocution was then the rage] in Chicago, and uses her arts, directed by a scheming brain and an elastic disposition, to climb into the best social graces of Marshall, Ark. In the rise she discards friends and husband, but regretfully, for she dislikes scenes and discord, until the end of the novel finds her perched securely in the most socially select electric limousine in the town.

Writes of Austria

"The Defenders," by Franz Hoellering; translated from the German by Ludwig Lewisohn. [Little-Brown, $2.75.] Published last Thursday.

A first novel which was obviously written out of a man's sharp memories and deep convictions is "The Defenders," a record of the despair, confusion, and complete lack of national solidarity which ushered in the Nazi régime in Austria. As the book closes a gigantic swastika is blazing thru the night.

It is the cheerless Christmas of 1933 when the book opens in a coffee house, once the meeting place of all of the gayest, most brilliant of Viennese intellectuals, now the gathering place of men and women who are broken in spirit and in purse, resorting to feeble subterfuge to borrow money for cards and to cadge food to eat. . . . Tacitly symbolizing the once gay and gemutlich Vienna itself come upon bitter days.

The lives of professors, workers, remnants of the old aristocracy, socialists, Nazis, simple folk who ask only to live in peace, violent folk who ask only to die for glory are woven into a highly complicated mesh of emotions, political and personal. The author manages to invest known facts with the mysterious excitement of fiction. The reader knows the end—history wrote that—but Herr Hoellering clothes the inevitable with the tensity of the unknown.

There is a message here for us, altho the tale is told for its own sake only. That message is that a nation is as strong as the united will of its people and as weak as the sum of its dissensions. F. B.

The drawings are there for the reader. According to the jacket: "The first mystery in which forty illustrations are equally important as the story," and a good idea it is. E. T. B.

Camera Catches Clew.

"The Glass Triangle," by George Harmon Coxe. [Knopf, $2.]

The glitter of a motion picture première is the background against which Kent Murdock, the astute Boston newspaper photographer, solves a new murder mystery. The deciding evidence is seen first by the glassy eye of Murdock's camera. C. L.

This is another of Miss Wentworth's well written, and skillfully plotted British mysteries. The locale is a small English village, with likable, real people entangled in a tragedy revolving about a romance and a necklace of pearls. A. C.

Autobiography of Tweedsmuir Is Real Delight

"Pilgrim's Way," by John Buchan [Lord Tweedsmuir]. [Houghton-Mifflin, $3.] Published yesterday.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Pilgrim's Way," by the late governor general of Canada, is a rarely beautiful book, for it is not a mere recital of events in the life of one of England's officials but the embodiment of a truly fine and gentle personality.

With characteristic modesty John Buchan said he could not believe that the external incidents of his life were important enough to be worth chronicling in detail. Therefore he calls this volume a record of the impressions made upon him by the outer world, "a diary of a pilgrimage, a record of the effect upon one mind of the mutations of life," written to interest "others who travel a like road."

His description of his boyhood on the Fife coast and the summers at his grandmother's in the Scottish border country is enchanting. At 25 he went to South Africa to work under Lord Milner and fell under the spell of that picturesque country. Later he returned to England and was occupied with the law, with political and business interests. He served all during the world war. His tributes to the friends he lost then are among the most beautifully written pages of an altogether beautiful book.

Afterward he entered the house of commons, where he occupied a seat until 1935. The last five years of his life were spent in Canada as governor general. Altho he did not mention it in his autobiography, John Buchan also was the author of thirty-six fine books.

On every page of "Pilgrim's Way" is the stamp of an intellectually gifted, generous, high minded man, a man of simplicity and truth, an English gentleman.

Pleasing Collections of Jewish Stories by Gentile Authors

"Candles in the Night," edited by Joseph L. Baron. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

This is a collection of Jewish tales by Gentile authors, some of them never before published in English. The collection comprises 23 stories by authors ranging from Boccaccio to Sinclair Lewis, and includes works by Chekhov, Anatole France, Strindberg, and others. Among them are Stephen Vincent Benet's fine "Jacob and the Indians" and Coningsby Dawson's "The Unknown Soldier." R. C.

Rugged Humor in These Tales of Country Life

"Country Growth," by August Derleth. [Scribners, $2.50.]

"Enough to Live On," by Margaret Culkin Banning. [Harpers, $2.]

BY LLOYD WENDT.

Fresh from the green hills of Wisconsin comes August Derleth's "Country Growth," a collection of novels and short stories bringing the zest, the sturdy healthiness, the rugged humor, and the poignant tragedy of life in the open spaces.

The rich, vivid, poetic descriptions characteristic of Mr. Derleth are present in "Country Growth," woven into tight, warm tales of folk who live and grow in Sac Prairie, along the Wisconsin river. Beside the triumphs and the tragedies are the lively exploits of wild-eyed Great Uncle Joe, his unpredictable stooge, Gus Elker, and his icy voiced spouse and critic, Great Aunt Lou. The experiences of Joe and Gus with the crows and the foxes and the government agents from the AAA are worth the price of the collection any time.

Every magazine reader is familiar with the stories of Margaret Culkin Banning. Her latest, about Cilla Griffin and Vincent Brooks, who made a budget and got married and found that neither budgets nor marriage were quite what they expected, keeps up the general excellence of her work. "Enough to Live On" is as modern as tomorrow and as universal as couples who find you can't have both a baby and an automobile on $38 a week. It's an absorbing story, and can be particularly recommended to any young folk contemplating matrimony.

MURDER IS NOT MUTE . . . . . . By Audrey Newell

SKELETON IDENTIFIED.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

As Doyle read the letters, half wheedling, half threatening in tone, he began to appreciate the skilful phrasing which had kept Wunsch reassured as to Texie's safety, constantly expecting her return, and too afraid of besmirching her to do anything to clear up the mystery of her whereabouts.

Doyle studied messages which must have paralyzed and terrified the distracted father and driven him to quick, foolish compliance.

All right, dad. If you'd rather not send me any more money I can ask some other man for it.

And again:

I was thinking of coming home, but your last letter showed me what I could expect from you. You still want to clamp down on everything I enjoy. Well, don't forget I'll be of age in August.

"You've parted with a lot of dough," Doyle said as he gave the notes back to Wunsch.

The millionaire shrugged. "Texie is used to luxury. And what good does my money do me if I can't gratify my only child?"

"She speaks often of some trouble between you," Doyle observed.

Wunsch sighed. "She wanted to marry my wife's brother. That's the one thing that has reconciled me to her absence. At least he can't hang around her with his smooth tricks."

"Why do you object to him as a son-in-law?"

Wunsch made a restless movement. "You've talked with him. You must have seen what a lightweight he is. Never done a day's work in his life. Perfectly content to live off the money his father left. Now that's gone, he wants to live off me. A young girl like Texie is no judge of character. She thinks all that matters is that Briault attracts her. But she'd find out what that amounts to if she married him. And then what? I want to spare her divorce."

Doyle said, "Let me get this straight. You called off the search for your daughter for fear of involving her in scandal, but you took Helen Voss into your confidence?"

"That was different," Wunsch answered quickly. "I could trust Helen. And I thought she might be in Texie's confidence. But she had no idea where Texie was. So then I sent Helen into the city to live and keep her eyes open. Because Texie loved New York. Helen watched the streets and shops and theaters. And this summer she suggested I make the rounds of the night clubs." Wunsch sighed. "I've spent hours at the Wildwood because Helen said that was Texie's favorite."

Doyle changed the subject abruptly. "When did you bring your mother-in-law back here?"

"Six months ago."

"She told me she's being held prisoner in that apartment."

Wunsch grunted indignantly. "Nonsense! She's free to come and go. Within that neighborhood. Or elsewhere, for that matter, if she can finance herself." His eyes met Doyle's candidly. "You can see how it is. I made it clear to my mother-in-law why I couldn't have her seeing her family or friends. The only way to protect Texie was to pretend that they were still together traveling abroad."

"Then wouldn't it have been wiser to leave your mother-in-law in Europe? Why did you bring her here?"

Wunsch tapped the fingers of one hand nervously against the other. "I got to thinking that Texie was asking for so much money because she was splitting with some one. So I watched Truman—checked his mail—saw to it that he didn't come into town alone. That yielded nothing. Then I decided to test my mother-in-law. I figured if I ordered her to come back here to stay in hiding she would refuse if she could finance herself abroad with Texie's help. But my mother-in-law came and she stayed. And she wouldn't put up with Amsterdam avenue if she was getting any money from Texie." A wry smile twisted Wunsch's lips. "Heaven knows what Texie is doing with the money."

Doyle spoke impetuously. "For God's sake, Mr. Wunsch! Don't go on fooling yourself."

Wunsch seemed to shrink. His skin looked as if it didn't fit him, and his eyes fled from Doyle's. There was a dead pause until he spoke in a quavering tone of entreaty.

"I don't know what you mean."

"I'm doing you a poor kindness," Doyle declared, "not telling you that the bones of the skeleton were those of a girl between the ages of 18 and 25. Five foot six. Perfect teeth. And the murder was committed on or about the 13th of June of last year—the day your daughter was to sail."

Wunsch's head was sunken on his chest and his eyes stared blindly. Once he said, "Texie?" in a questioning, quivering tone. And then, "Murdered?" His face twisted. He put one hand over his eyes.

Doyle stared out the car window.

Wunsch did not speak again until they slackened speed entering the village of Beachville. Then he raised his head and looked about him dully.

Doyle cleared his throat. "I guess you know I'm damn sorry for your trouble, Mr. Wunsch," he said.

Wunsch nodded. Then all at once his head turned sharply and his grief blurred face fused with sudden purpose.

. . . .

Doyle slept all day oblivious to Sunday. He arose in time for dinner. And after dinner he telephoned from Dr. Blake's house to Adolph Wunsch.

Wunsch's voice came over the wire, weary and hopeless.

"I haven't told anybody anything," he said guardedly. "I've been waiting to hear from you."

"That's right," Doyle approved. He arranged to have Wunsch send a car in the morning to transport his mother-in-law and Helen Voss to Beachville.

As Doyle turned from the telephone Dr. Blake moved forward. The doctor had spent his summers at Beachville for years. He had seen Texie grow from a hoydenish child into a flamboyantly attractive young woman—warm hearted and sparkling with gayety, but impetuous and indiscreet. Badly brought up, the doctor said, shaking his head. Poor girl. What could you expect? Deprived of her mother in childhood and alternately overindulged and overrestricted by her father. Her schooling had ended abruptly. She'd been expelled for reasons unknown but not unguessable. For Texie wasn't above flirtation with anything in pants.

"I've seen her parked in a car on a back road with that young chauffeur of Wunsch's," the doctor gossiped. "And I suppose you've heard she had Mrs. Wunsch's brother on her string? And God knows who else."

"I'll get those details from Helen Voss tomorrow," Doyle planned. "But I'm not sure they're the important angle. Because they exclude a key point—the attack on Mrs. Wunsch."

"Unless," the doctor suggested dubiously, "the attack on Mrs. Wunsch was a bluff. It seems queer to me that when the murderer missed killing her he didn't fire at least a second shot."

That was what Truman Briault had suggested, Doyle recalled as he went back to the Seaview and early to bed. The next morning he arose full of vigor and was just finishing a hearty breakfast when Follins drove up the Seaview driveway.

Follins explained that Mr. Wunsch had ordered him to call for Doyle before driving into the city to move the ladies from the Amsterdam avenue apartment. So Doyle waved good-by to his wife and was driven off as the long line of rockers on the Seaview porch came to a standstill, momentarily paralyzed by the grandeur of his departure.

Wunsch was pacing the terrace impatiently waiting for the detective. The two men went directly to the locked room behind the stairs—the room which Doyle and Blain had been unable to enter. As Wunsch turned the key in the lock and the door swung inward Doyle surveyed the apartment with astonishment. In sharp contrast to the rich furnishings of the house, this room was sparsely supplied with shabby office equipment.

Wunsch took a cloth from a drawer of the old-fashioned rolltop desk and dusted an oak chair for the detective.

"I don't let the servants or any one in here," he explained. "These things are from my office in the old brewery. I keep track of my own affairs."

HISTORIC ISLAND IS REDISCOVERED BY THE TOURISTS

Visitors Flock to Shrines in Narragansett Bay.

Jamestown, R. I., Aug. 27 [Special].—With the opening of the new Jamestown bridge, Conanicut Island, out in the middle of Narragansett bay, is being "discovered" by Americans.

The bridge was opened a month ago today. Since then nearly 100,000 tourists have crossed it. Many of them, driving across the island to connect with the Newport ferry which completes the 50 mile short cut to Cape Cod, have stopped to get a closer view of Conanicut and its historic shrines.

In 1524 the Italian explorer, Veranzo, came upon the bit of scenery and put it down in his journal as "the beautiful, wooded isle at the entrance of the bay."

Roger Williams on Island.

Next came Roger Williams. In 1636 he went by canoe from Providence, R. I., to plead with the Narragansett Indians, who spent each summer on the island, not to join their neighbors, the Pequoits, in an uprising against white settlers.

Later a group of Williams' followers bought the place from the Indians for $500—a rather high price, considering the $24 paid for Manhattan Island a few years previously.

The early white settlers, isolated from the mainland except for an infrequent ferry service, lived a quiet existence, made fairly prosperous by the raising of sheep and horses.

Summer Homes Erected.

Soon after the civil war Conanicut was discovered once more—this time by wealthy families from Philadelphia and Washington. They built palatial summer homes here. Some of these homes are still occupied by descendants of the builders.

Navy officers ready for retirement followed. Then officers still in active service found they could live in Jamestown the year round and carry on their work in nearby Newport. The navy colony has been growing ever since.

Tourists visit such places as the Carr windmill, where corn was ground from 1787 until 20 years ago; Beavertail light, second oldest lighthouse in America; the Carr homestead, built in 1721, and the Capt. Payne house, where Capt. Kidd, the pirate, is said to have been a frequent visitor.

Island 11 Miles Long.

Under the new order of things, the island, 11 miles long and about a mile wide, is losing its exclusiveness. Fishermen and sightseers are everywhere. A modernistic beachhouse has been completed at Mackerel Cove beach, along with a new marine basin for yachts and cruisers. Tennis courts and golf courses are well patronized.

But the old-timers here insist the charm of Conanicut will remain unspoiled. They still have their scenery, their shrines, and their summer breezes.

And so far not a single hot dog stand or one "Ye Old Eat Shoppe" has cluttered up the land and seascape.

MEXICAN TOWN EXPECTS BOOM IN RESORT TRADE

Prospect of Railroad Spurs Hopes.

TOPOLOBAMPO, Mexico, Aug. 27 [Special].—This little known, sun-drenched port on the Gulf of California, in the state of Sinaloa, is agog over the prospect of becoming a rival of Acapulco, Manzanillo, Mazatlan, and Guaymas as a west coast resort. It even has hopes of growing into a principal port of embarkation for middle western Americans wishing to visit Australia and the South Sea Islands.

The excitement started with news that the National Railways of Mexico have bought, from the Kansas City-Mexico-Orient railway, 250 miles of track in the state of Chihuahua.

At present the line connects the border town of Ojinaga with Creel and goes thru the city of Chihuahua to Minoa. It is planned to complete an extension to Topolobampo within two years. When that is done, this town will be connected, by way of Chihuahua, to the heart of the United States.

Topolobampo already boasts a bay and a harbor where ocean going vessels can tie up to the wharves without much effort. The bay teems with game fish. Nearby coasts are breeding grounds of aquatic fowl, and the hinterland is suitable for hunting.

So the residents have visions of making the little town into a haven for sportsmen, as well as a mecca for tourists. And they are dreaming of the time when they will be on a direct route for travelers going from the Chicago area to the Antipodes.

Schedule Another Tour to West Coast Sept. 8

Success of summer tours from Chicago westward has led Thomas Cook & Son to schedule an additional tour, starting Sept. 8. Edward O'Connor, midwestern manager, said yesterday the two weeks' trip, taking in scenic points in the Rockies and on the Pacific coast, was designed for those interested in a vacation following the usual season's ending on Labor day.

Special Train on Monon for French Lick Springs

A special train, carrying holiday makers to French Lick Springs, Ind., for the Labor day week-end will leave Chicago over the Monon railway Friday evening. Return is set for early Tuesday.

What can you tell me about the Koya-san monastery in Japan?
F. X. McC.

It is a Buddhist Mecca where a million pilgrims gather annually. It stands at an elevation of 2,858 feet and is reached on a two hour interurban trip from Osaka. The monastery was founded in about 816 A. D. by Kobo-Daishi, exponent of the Singon doctrine of Buddhism. For many years women were not allowed to enter, but this ban was removed in 1872. Altho fires often have ravaged the area, 120 temples are still standing. They are surrounded by 24 square miles of sacred ground. The immense cemetery preserves the tombs [if not the bodies] of a large number of celebrated men. The Japanese believe that those who are buried near the tomb of Kobo-Daishi obtain, thru him, special grace on their entry to paradise. The monastery may be seen in a day, but tourists usually prefer to spend two or three days there.

CANADA'S FIRST SUPERHIGHWAY PUT IN SERVICE

ST. CATHERINE'S, Ont., Aug. 27 [Special].—Canada's first streamlined express highway, the Queen Elizabeth way, was opened to traffic over the week-end. It runs between Fort Erie and Toronto.

The road is designed to relieve congestion on the Niagara peninsula, thru which more than half the visiting tourists enter this country. It is a literal realization of the type of thorofare forecast by Norman Bel Geddes' "Futurama."

Seventy-five miles are ready for use between Niagara Falls and Toronto, but the 25 mile stretch from the falls to Fort Erie is still unfinished. This section—already graded, with underpasses and crossovers built—will be completed next year.

Niagara boulevard, which closely follows the Niagara river from Fort Erie to the falls, affords an alternate route for the uncompleted section.

Avoiding previous roads which might have been used as a matter of economy, engineers laid out the Queen Elizabeth way as the crow flies.

EXPECT VISITORS AT YELLOWSTONE TO TOTAL 500,000

Yellowstone Park, Wyo., Aug. 27 [Special].—The possibility that, for the first time in this playground's history, the year's attendance may go above the half million mark became apparent today. It followed announcement by Supt. Edmund B. Rogers that up to Aug. 15 there had been 393,755 visitors.

This figure represents an increase of 27,789 over the same period in 1937—Yellowstone's record year.

A recurrence of last season's drastic slump, which came in late August as a reaction to the war scare then setting in, is not expected this year. Park officials say that so far in 1940 travel in America has held up thruout the various European crises.

LOS ANGELES 159 YEARS OLD; PLAN FESTIVAL SEPT. 4

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 27 [Special].—On the morning of Sept. 4, 1781, a group of 44 men and women straggled out of San Gabriel mission and trudged nine miles to a cleared spot in the brush. They christened the spot "El Pueblo de la Reina de Neustra Senora de Los Angeles."

On Sept. 4 of this year this one time pueblo with the long name will celebrate its 159th birthday. Los Angeles no longer carries the full title, but, instead of 44 residents, it has more than a million.

As a part of the celebration men on horseback and women in carriages will leave the mission and ride over the old ox trail—now a boulevard—to the city. Some of them will be descendants of the early Spanish settlers.

There are to be ceremonies at the old Plaza church and a fiesta in Olvera street. The street is a block of old Mexico still retained in downtown Los Angeles.

U. of Pennsylvania, 200 Years Old, to Celebrate

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 27 [Special].—Founded in 1740 by Benjamin Franklin, the University of Pennsylvania will begin a bicentennial celebration Sept. 16. More than 500 scholars and scientists will be guests of the university during the week of fêtes and pageantry.

Parties for Debutantes and Brides Fill Calendar

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LARGE part of a postman's burden these days seems to be square white envelopes containing invitations to debuts and weddings, and smaller but none the less interesting wrappers containing invitations to parties for brides-to-be and their younger sisters who are just entering society. Cards arrived yesterday from Miss Alice Harvey, William S. Harvey Jr., and Miss Lucy Harvey to an at home at the Glen View club from 4 until 7 o'clock on Sept. 11.

The party will mark the formal debut of Miss Lucy Harvey, who is to enter Smith college this fall. She will have an especially gay time before she goes east. Her grandfather, Dr. William Spencer Harvey of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, is entertaining at dinner and dancing in the Pump room of the Ambassador East for her and her assistants and their escorts following the tea-dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger are giving a picnic for Miss Harvey tomorrow at their Winnetka home, and the Kenneth G. Smiths will give a luncheon for her on board their yacht, Kenkora II., on Sept. 13. The Smiths have just returned from a cruise to Georgian bay. Miss Harvey's former roommate at Dobbs Ferry, Miss Jean Bodell, will arrive from Providence, R. I., about next Thursday to stay until after Miss Harvey's debut.

Peggy Rich Returns for Debutante Activities.

Miss Peggy Rich and her mother, Mrs. R. Joseph Rich, have returned from California so that Miss Rich can take part in the early fall debutante activities. They are staying at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest, but will move into town for the winter. Miss Rich is to have a Christmastime debut.

Miss Harriet Sturgis will be presented to society at a tea on the afternoon of Sept. 6. The debut party will be given by her mother, Mrs. Hammond Sturgis, in her Lake Forest home. Miss Sturgis, who was graduated from the Shipley school in June, will spend the winter at home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Clayton and Miss Helen Ruth Clayton have cards out for an at home from 4 until 7 o'clock on Thursday, Sept. 12, at 1153 Pine street, Winnetka. The occasion will mark Miss Clayton's formal introduction to society.

Miss Clayton, who attended Wells college last year, has decided to enter the H. Sophie Newcomb college of Tulane university, in New Orleans, this fall. Both her mother and father are graduates of the university. Because she will have to leave for the south on Sept. 21 Miss Clayton has had to regret an invitation to model in a fashion show the Winnetka board of Northwestern University settlement is giving on Sept. 27 in the New Trier High school auditorium.

Mrs. Edwin S. Vennard Entertaining for Her.

Mrs. Edwin S. Vennard is entertaining at the Exmoor club's dinner-dance Saturday night for Miss Clayton and some of her contemporaries. The young people will meet at Mrs. Vennard's home in Kenilworth for cocktails before going to the dance.

The prenuptial parties for Miss Nancy Claire Parker and Edward Watts Saunders, who are to be married on Sept. 7, have been fitted smoothly into the final week before their wedding. Starting on Sunday with a breakfast at the Pump room, the entertaining will continue thru a luncheon party on the day of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Rundall will give Sunday's breakfast party. That afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Leo M. McNeill will entertain at cocktails. On Monday the bridal party will go to see the new musical comedy, "Too Many Girls," followed by supper at the Pump room. Miss Mary Louise Burgess will entertain at tennis and swimming next Tuesday afternoon at home in Winnetka, with supper following.

Dinner at the Tavern on Next Wednesday.

Perry H. Kenly Jr. will give a dinner at the tavern next Wednesday. If the weather is fair, the bridal party will go sailing on the afternoon of the fifth. That night Miss Parker's sister, Mrs. Stanhope Adams, will give the spinster dinner. Allen Williams Jr. will give the bachelor dinner at the Glen View club that night.

Miss Parker's parents, the C. Paul Parkers of Evanston, will give the bridal dinner at the Glen View on the eve of the ceremony, and Miss Mary Ann Matthews will be the luncheon hostess on the seventh. The wedding is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in St. Mark's church, Evanston, with a reception following at the Country Club of Evanston. Mr. Saunders, who was graduated from Princeton a year ago, is studying law at the University of Chicago. He and his bride will make their home on the south side.

More than 100 Chicagoans will be

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

A cream mascara that's absolutely waterproof is good news. Ask the women who swim, or who dance a lot or indulge in the weeps occasionally. Or any woman, for that matter, whose mascara smudges when the skin around the eyelids gets the least little bit moist.

There has always been a demand for a waterproof mascara but those offered to supply that demand have had disadvantages. Many women felt that they dried and stiffened the lashes and were a bit too difficult to apply.

The new mascara is a great contribution to the art of eye makeup. It protects and benefits the lashes and makes them silky-soft and lustrous. No water is needed to apply it; you simply touch the brush to the cream and in two strokes darken the lashes beautifully.

While this mascara sets—"volatilizes" is the $5 word for it—the instant it touches the lashes it doesn't make them theatrically stiff. They're as soft as ever, but groomed and darkened. Your eyes, of course, look better for the dark well brushed fringe—and the effect will hold in rain or shine all day long.

In shades you have your choice of black, brown or blue. The price is not as high as you'd have every reason to expect it to be, considering that it's a perfectly elegant product and the result of long experimentation and careful laboratory tests. We know that the beauty specialist who created it has been fussing with it for ages. She has a right to be proud of what she has at last accomplished.

Concert Crowd Cheers Singing of Martinelli

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Giovanni Martinelli's Grant park appearance, postponed from Monday evening, took place last night. The great Italian tenor was supported by the Chicago Opera orchestra. Leo Kopp conducted.

An audience of many thousands—it would have been scores of thousands except for the confusion incident to the postponement and for the sullen look of yesterday afternoon's skies—coöperated with Mr. Martinelli to provide all the familiar phenomena of a Grant park gala.

There were lusty shouted "bravos," heaven shaking applause, screams of protest when the tenor left the stage. And, of course, there were camera men everywhere—more than usual even, for a news reel was being made of the concert, and big klieg lights stared down performers and audience both.

Mr. Martinelli was in royal form. His great Roman face was wreathed in smiles, his dignity of bearing was forgotten every little while for a bit of clowning, and his voice made light of the huge outdoor audience area in which he was singing.

In excerpts from "Xerxes," "Carmen," "Tosca," "L'Africaine," "Aïda," and "Pagliacci"—as well as in such nonoperatic songs as the Schubert Serenade—Mr. Martinelli drew on all of his vast resources to give the public one of the best times it has ever had in Grant park. His immense voice, brave and ringing yet even in texture, was no more important in the total effect than that ability of his to give his phrases their heart storming eloquence and urgency.

Some of the best examples of the Martinelli style came in the Handel Largo with which the vocal part of the evening opened. The piece was delivered in heroic style, in a wonderfully opulent voice, and in long, noble periods. The familiar melody took on a hitherto unsuspected majesty.

For sheer strength nothing quite came up to the "Vesti la giubba" from "Pagliacci." Every phrase seemed to

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—Confidential memo to J. Edgar Hoover, Congressman Dies and our own official worrier, District Attorney Fitts: Any small uprising of Japanese gardeners and butlers, Mexican neighbors, or Reds within the movie colony itself could be suppressed under the guns belonging to the movie studio arsenals. Any outfit here owns enough weapons to quell even a female chatter columnist, and they aren't all frontier model Coltses for horse operas. You can get anything up to a working cannon if you'll pay 10 per cent of its value per week as rental.

The two best arsenals in Hollywood are at Universal and Paramount. Paramount's is a sort of private concession belonging to J. S. Stembridge, who rents stuff out to any studio. Universal's is the oldest, dating from the days when the plant was the only thing in that part of the valley and night-working writers had to shoot off 45s to frighten away the coyotes, whose barking disturbed them.

Head gunman at Universal is Lester Hydeman, 64, who has been with the company as a prop man for 20 years. He rules a big, closed-off loft in the property building where on shelves, on nails and in a safe are all the death-dealing weapons of the ages, from swords to tommy guns. Hydeman has to keep track of every item, making sure that nobody forgets to turn in a revolver at the end of a day's work, and he must maintain everything in working condition. In his spare time he makes ammunition.

Hydeman himself never uses any of the studio stuff. He likes hunting, personally owns a 30-30 rifle, a 410 shotgun, and a .38 automatic—the latter just to have handy around the house. California laws are stringent enough about gun-toting by citizens, but anybody can keep small arms in his home. Automatics, incidentally, aren't much used in the movies and you rarely see them. The reason is that they won't work with blank cartridges. You can hand load them and fire one shot at a time—but without real bullets the ejector won't work properly and the shells won't feed into the barrel right.

The racks and shelves of the Universal arsenal would delight a buyer from Bannermann's, and out in the back lot are eight French 75s in top condition. Valued at $200—a fraction of cost—they are often rented for $20 a week to other studios making war films. Universal got the 75s and nine muzzle loading field guns, with caissons and limbers, thru the American Legion.

Wickedest of the portable arms are a Lewis machine gun and a tommy gun. These are kept dismantled and their parts hidden so a robber bent on arming himself wouldn't get anything useful. Movie studios don't have to have licenses for most firearms, but the federal government is very strict about machine guns and keeps close tab on each, in addition to charging a stiff license fee.

The single action frontier model re-

Good Morning!

—also—hello and how are you? And I hope you've had as happy a time as I had for the last three weeks.

I know you've enjoyed Mr. Smith. He's that rara avis—a drama critic who believes that motion pictures have a place in the sun. He likes them—and he liked telling you about them. Enthusiasm inspires enthusiasm SO—that's how I know you and our Cecil had fun.

Getting back into harness is no hardship for the thoroly rested plug and seeing a movie again was a treat even tho "The Man Who Talked Too Much" is NOT one of its producing company's white haired children. . . . It's just another very well acted yarn of gangsters and a "mouthpiece" who finally are cornered by Uncle Sam on an income tax return count.

Head law scorner is Richard Barthelmess—tho you have hard work convincing yourself that in the hard eyed, twisted mouthed Roscoe, you're looking at the chap who once played "Tol'able David" so heartwarmingly and made a name for himself in romantic leads of the "silents." He does this so different sort of characterization incredibly well, all things considered. Sinister as the devil . . .

George Brent is forceful and credible as a brilliant young assistant district attorney gone wrong; Miss Bruce is lovely as his devoted secretary; Brenda Marshall lends exquisite luster to a small part, and William Lundigan as Brent's young brother who sees all his ideals toppling into the mire—and does something about it—pleases. Direction was able.

See you soon.

Tips on Acting Given Singers by Lillian Gish

"If you ever saw a performance of 'La Traviata' forget it. If you ever saw Lillian Gish act, remember it." The words were those of the Chicago Opera company's new associate director, Martin Magner, yesterday to 45 young men and women of the opera's chorus on the hugh, sceneless stage of the opera house.

Because opera has been described as too often good singing and poor acting, the Chicago company this season will stress dramatic as well as musical ability. It opens on Nov. 2.

Lillian Gish, movie veteran and stage star whose theatrical experience dates back to a stage trunk as a cradle, was present to give advice to the young men and women of the chorus who have concentrated on musical scores during the last six months. Her entrance was even a lesson in theatrical technique.

She was exactly 15 minutes late. The interlude heightened expectancy among her prospective pupils. Suddenly she appeared in the stage doorway dressed in deep blue and startling white. A fluffy, white Scotty posed at her feet. She dimpled, as in the old days of "Orphans of the Storm," and broke the silence which greeted her entrance.

"Opera is even a broader medium of expression than the legitimate theater," she told the chorus members who crowded around her like a group of school children. "It should therefore permit a broader form of acting. Wagner wrote out of the passion of his day when he set down instructions for his actors.

"Too long have opera stars followed in this outmoded tradition. Modes of life are continually changing. If Wagner were alive today I think he would write a new set of instructions for his scores. Since he isn't, it is up to the individual opera singer to give naturalness to Wagnerian actions or to those of any opera in any language."

The chorus was selected from 600 singers in six auditions last February and March. Mr. Magner quietly explained their status to his guest. He added: "I'm glad of their youth and inexperience. Now I can mold them to the new opera, the opera that is as much the theater as it is the score."

jammed into hospitable homes and hotels in Lansing, Mich., over the week-end of Sept. 14. The occasion will be the marriage of Miss Marie Elizabeth Sergardi, daughter of Fabio Sergardi of Lansing, Detroit, and Siena and Naples, Italy, and C. Ives Waldo Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo of Winnetka.

Mr. Ives' ushers and their wives will be guests in various Lansing homes, and a whole floor in the Olds hotel has been reserved for other out-of-town guests. The George W. Ryersons, the junior J. Dean Vails, the Carl von Ammons, and the William Porter Sullivans will be in Lansing for some of the prenuptial parties. The men all are to be ushers, along with Philip E. von Ammon, Towner K. Webster, and William Butz. Leslie Carleton Waldo will be his brother's best man. Edward H. Rakow of Detroit and Paul S. Sturm, who was the bridegroom's roommate at Yale, and now is a member of the Yale faculty, complete the usher list.

Miss Joan Ballard to Be Maid of Honor.

Miss Joan Ballard of Lansing is to be the maid of honor. The bridesmaids are Miss Marguerite Dunn Anderson, Miss Jane Hopkins, Mrs. James Reasoner, and Miss Charlotte Carr, all of Lansing; Mrs. Carl von Ammon and Miss Jean Knapp of Marion, O.

The wedding is to take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in the Plymouth Congregational church, with a reception following at the Olds. After a month's motor trip to Washington and Cape Cod, Mr. Waldo and his bride will be at home in Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Kellogg Platt of Glencoe are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Dorothy Sherwood, on Aug. 22 at the Evanston hospital. The baby, who is to be called Sherry, and her two brothers are grandchildren of Mrs. Henry Russell Platt and of Mrs. Wilder Austin Pickard of Evanston.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

In an ordinary game, and against opponents who bid in orthodox fashion, it is usually a simple matter for a pair to agree on the best combined trump suit. They may not reach the "optimum" contract, but nine times in ten should at least land in the proper denomination.

When, however, the opponents "make it tough," it requires a keen "ear" and a vivid imagination to reach the correct contract. Note today's hand, which came up in a recent pair tournament:

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Double	1 spade	Pass
2 spades	Double	2 no trump	3 diamonds
4 clubs	Double	Pass	4 spades[!]
Pass	Pass	Pass

West's opening club bid and North's take-out double need no comment. East attempted to throw a monkey wrench into the opponents' machinery by bidding the suit of which he was most afraid, spades. South was too weak to take any free action at this point, hence his pass was eminently correct. West, not being able to spot his partner's psychic, and naturally preferring a major suit to a minor, gave an innocent raise, and now North was up against it. His heart suit was not so strong that it could be safely mentioned at the three level and, besides, North strongly suspected that something funny was going on in the spade department. He therefore doubled again, as the best way to "smoke out" East, if the latter had attempted to put over a fast one. Actually, this second double was also a take-out double, but East, naturally enough, was afraid to stand pat on his doubleton, hence, still trying to confuse the issue and with the intention of eventually supporting clubs, East now went into no trump.

Having held his peace on the previous round, South now felt reasonably safe in mentioning his five card diamond suit. This held little interest for North, and when West overcalled with four clubs North could find no better bid than a double, this time for penalties. It would have been "just too bad" for North and South if this double had been allowed to stand. But South by this time was thoroly suspicious of East's previous bidding, particularly of the fact that East had not accepted the double of two spades but had run to no trump. South knew that North could not be "loaded" with clubs, because if he had been he would have passed over the original club bid as a trapping measure.

Thus, by all available signs, North was marked with good spades and some length in that suit. So now, satisfied he had read the situation correctly, South launched out into four spades!

The result was excellent from the North-South viewpoint. Of course, four hearts would have been equally cold, but with some help from West an extra trick was made at the spade contract. Declarer ruffed the opening club lead and led a heart toward dummy. West ruffed and laid down the diamond ace, and that was the end of the defense.

Creole macaroni is a savory dish you'll want to serve often for lunch, once you've tried this good recipe. In tomorrow's menu plan we've included, with the macaroni combination, crisp radish and watercress sandwiches to supply a texture contrast, plus some good green vegetable vitamins, and for dessert we're having peaches and cream.

Creole Macaroni.
[Serves four.]

¼ pound macaroni, broken into pieces
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
⅓ cup butter
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon minced celery or celery leaves
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1½ cups meat broth, bouillon or hot water
Salt, pepper

Boil macaroni until tender in salted water. Drain. Sauté mushrooms, onion, pepper, pimiento, celery, and parsley in butter for about six or eight minutes. Stir in flour and cook for three minutes more. Add the hot broth or bouillon, and cook and stir until sauce has thickened and is creamy. Season with salt and pepper, and combine with the hot macaroni.

Suggestion about the liquid: Use a bouillon cube dissolved in hot water, if you've no meat stock on hand. Or dissolve a tablespoon or so of meat extract [there are several good kinds on the market, and they're very handy in the kitchen] in the hot water.

Some of the vegetables may be omitted, too. Green pepper and celery aren't necessary, but they're desirable.

Veal birds are an old favorite company meat, and just because of this company flavor, they have added appeal when served to the family alone. They provide another use for the parsley which was purchased for the luncheon macaroni, and the pimiento potatoes served with them at dinner will help use the pimientos left from noon meal preparation.

VEAL BIRDS.
[Serves four.]

Cut 1¼ pounds veal steak into pieces about two inches by four inches, or into four nearly equal portions, if you wish. Roll tightly and skewer each piece with a toothpick. Dredge with flour and brown in hot fat on all sides. Season with salt and pepper and cover. Cook gently until tender. Place on a hot platter and spread with ½ cup butter and ½ cup parsley, creamed together.

PIMIENTO POTATOES.

Boil potatoes in salted water, drain, add salt, pepper, 1 or 2 tablespoons of chopped pimiento and a small amount of cream or top milk. Heat thru and serve.

BANANA NUT MUFFINS.
[1 dozen medium.]

1 cup white flour.
1 cup whole wheat flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup milk.
1 egg.
½ cup finely chopped bananas.
3 tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine beaten egg and milk with banana and add all at once to flour mixture, stirring only enough to moisten flour. Stir in shortening and fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake 20 minutes or a little longer in a 400 degree oven.

Dress with Own Jacket

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Autumn wardrobe needs are varied, and one of the requirements is a one-piece dress with a companion jacket. Such a costume is the one illustrated today. The dress is beautified with strategic placing of darts and shirring. The shoulder line is broad and the neckline is collarless, an ideal foil for your costume jewelry. While the waistline is slim as the proverbial whistle, the skirt is contrastingly flared for a beautiful silhouette. The original of this outfit is made of black satin, but you may use any autumn crêpe or silk you choose, and sheer woolen is important for an outfit such as this, too.

Perhaps it's a hat you need. One to keep this costume company, and pretty with other dresses, too, is easily made with pattern No. 3082. One headsize, adaptable to your needs. Ten cents extra.

Style No. 3434 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material for dress; 1⅞ yards for jacket.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Tablecloth of Medallions

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted lacy tablecloth has a way of appearing out of thin air. After crocheting innumerable medallions and joining them to see how they look, one suddenly finds there are enough for a whole tablecloth. Making individual medallions is one of the quick tricks in crochet work, because one motif requires only 15 minutes.

For instructions in crocheting the tablecloth made of medallions, No. X-349, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Sally Appeals for Wheel Chair for Girl of 15

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Can some reader supply a wheel chair for a young girl of 15, who because of a sudden disabling illness is paralyzed on the left side?

After several months' hospitalization, during which every known aid was given, the child has been sent home to the care of her widowed mother, who is struggling to support two children on an income of little more than a dollar a day.

Their home is necessarily inadequate and cheerless, and a wheel chair would provide a great deal of comfort and happiness for this youngster, since it would enable her to sit up and move around the house and occasionally have a little fresh air.

She is appreciative and intelligent, and on learning that we would be glad to give any possible help, she wrote to me:

"Dear Miss Brown: It will be just lovely if you can get a wheel chair for me. It will make things much nicer if I have one. Then I can sit at the table with my mother and sister and I will like that much better. I wanted to write this letter myself and as I can only use one hand it doesn't look so good to me.

"The caseworker said you wanted to know if there was anything else I wanted. My aunt is going to give me an old victrola and I love to hear Eddie Howard's and Dick Jurgen's band. If you wouldn't think me bold in asking, I would love to have some of their records.

"I think I'm a very lucky girl first to have the hospital and the worker so good to me and then to have a perfect stranger like you do such nice things, too. I am tired so I'll have to stop. Sincerely, EDNA. . . ."

Aug. 28, 1940.

Universal Day—Go out after what you want today. You can afford to be self-seeking with this combination. Scintilate.

Month Ahead—You'll feel as if the earth might move from under you because of the changes and shifting of ground which this month will bring. You should be right in the midst of rapid-fire events by the middle of the month. Keep poised and hold your own, but be prepared to adapt yourself quickly. You'll feel the activity around you more than the average person and should be stimulated to take action yourself.

Year Ahead—Get ready to assume responsibility in the months to come if you were born on this date. Personal freedom will be over this year.

Naturally, the evening was not given over entirely to such grave things. The delicate little song called "Mattinata" Mr. Martinelli filled with intoxicating rhythmic effects and with light, delicious voice colorings. And of course there was the "O Sole Mio."

Mr. Kopp surrounded the soloist with miscellaneous light music. His performances of the overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and of Grainger's "Country Garden" were good examples of transparent, finely calculated music making.

It was announced yesterday that Grace Moore, soprano, and George Czaplicki, baritone, will appear at Grant park with the Chicago Opera orchestra under Kurt Herbert Adler's direction next Monday evening. On Tuesday the concert originally scheduled for last night will be presented. This is the one which features Irma Cooper, soprano, and William B. Strom, tenor—the two winners of the contests leading up to the eleventh Chicagoland Music festival.

Looking at Hollywood

volver is the most familiar screen gun. A fine old sample is worth maybe $25. Luger pistols have the highest valuation in the small arms department. When I went thru the arsenal Hydeman was working on a pair of frontier models from which he had removed the triggers. These were Johnny Mack Brown's guns, and Johnny fans their hammers when he comes a-shootin'. Most imposing single action pair is the long barreled, chromium plated outfit James Stewart used in "Destry Rides Again."

Stembridge's Paramount arsenal contains 6,000 firearms, every one of which will work. [Universal has a lot of rubber revolvers for cracking people over the head.] The collection ranges from authentic samples of the very first firearms to the latest army rifles. It includes what is reputedly one of the most complete sets of Kentucky rifles in existence.

It's a Big Week for Movie Star Kitty Carlisle

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

Kitty Carlisle, singer and actress whose career has ranged from quiet days in a Swiss school to the exhilarating experience of making a movie with the Marx brothers, will add two firsts to her personal history this week.

Tomorrow night she will make her debut on the program In Chicago Tonight, the show in which station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system have been bringing listeners weekly portions of the cream of entertainment. On Friday evening Miss Carlisle will go into the Chez Paree for her first night club engagement.

In Chicago Tonight, produced and directed by William A. Bacher, will be broadcast from 7:30 to 8 p. m. tomorrow. Others in the cast of stars will be Eddy Howard, swiftly rising singer and composer; Ted Lewis, band leader of "Is Everybody Happy?" fame, and Eddie Peabody, banjoist extraordinary.

Miss Carlisle is expected to arrive from New York today to rehearse for tomorrow's broadcast. She has enjoyed success in three Broadway productions of recent vintage, "White Horse Inn," "Three Waltzes," and "Walk with Music." With a voice that travels easily from popular tunes to light operatic numbers she combines the personal attractiveness and charm that a stage star can't do without.

Miss Carlisle is a New Orleans, La., girl. After studying in Switzerland and in Paris, she was seen in New York in 1933 in a revival of "Rio Rita." Then she went to Hollywood. She appeared in two pictures with Bing Crosby, in "A Night at the Opera" with the Marxes, and in several others.

Lewis, a Circleville, O., boy who made good as one of the earliest emperors of jazz, scored a hit as master of ceremonies on the In Chicago Tonight program two weeks ago and has been asked back for an encore. He is surrendering the Chez Paree bandstand Friday to Emil Coleman and his orchestra, and will go on a dance tour.

Luncheon to Be Given for Baritone Robeson

A luncheon in compliment to Paul Robeson, distinguished Negro baritone, will be given in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel next Saturday under the auspices of the Emergency Peace Mobilization. Sponsors of the luncheon include Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, Maudelle Bousefield, Adelaide Lobdell Pynchon, Alice Boynton, Mrs. George Cleveland Hall, and Maude Roberts George.

The Housewife

Looking for an interesting wedding gift or a present for some one who has just about everything already? We suggest an item we just discovered: a huge crystal apple or glass pear, the top part of which serves as a lid, the interior being filled with gayly colored artificial oranges, plums, bananas, limes, and other fruit. There are 18 of these pieces and they make a lovely picture seen thru the transparent sides of the apple or pear. Use one as a table centerpiece or as a decoration for that mahogany chest in the hall. EDITH WEIGLE.

REVEAL SCALISE PAID GANGSTERS' BILLS IN HAVANA

Junket Charged to Union, Trial Jury Is Told.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—George Scalise, the ex-convict pander who became a big shot labor leader, once accompanied two notorious gangsters on a junket to Cuba and charged the hotel bill for the whole party to the Building Service Employés' International union.

This revelation of how the funds collected from the 70,000 union scrubwomen, elevator operators, porters, janitors and bowling alley pin setters were dipped into for the entertainment of Scalise's underworld pals came late today at the grand larceny trial of the former labor boss.

The trip was taken in February, 1939. Scalise's gangster companions were Augie Pisano, Brooklyn racketeer and thief sometimes called Anthony Carfano, and Charles Fischette, Chicago hoodlum and relative of Al Capone. The fourth member of the Cuban expedition was Thomas J. Burke of Chicago, then and now a vice president of the international union.

Hotel Records Presented.

A bookkeeping record of the episode was given to Judge Jacob Gould Schurman and the business men's jury by James H. Jarvis, former manager of the Hotel National at Havana, Cuba, and now a resident of Miami.

Jarvis identified the registration cards and hotel bills for the quartet, then picked up a check sheet and noted that Scalise had paid the bill for all four. It totaled $177.97 and was dated Feb. 20, 1939. The check was on the Bank of Manhattan, New York City.

Assistant District Attorney Murray I. Gurfein then picked up a photostatic copy of the voucher which Scalise, as general president, had sent to the main offices of the union in Chicago for the month of February, 1939. This purported to show the union leader's expenses. One of the items was "Hotel National, $177.97."

Defense Objections Overruled.

Jarvis took the stand late in the day. As soon as Martin W. Littleton, chief of defense counsel, realized the import of the testimony, he protested with vehemence. Gurfein and Littleton went into a huddle with Judge Schurman at the bench. The judge ended the colloquy by overruling defense objections.

The former hotel manager was preceded by Izzy Schwartz, eastern international organizer for the union and himself under indictment for extortion, who told a tense courtroom of his fears he would be murdered because he had become a state's witness.

It was Schwartz who yesterday told how Scalise met with Pisano, Fischette, and the late Mike Carrozzo, boss of Chicago's street cleaning and paving rackets, to arrange for the new régime in the union following the death of the president, Jerry Horan, in May of 1937.

Tells Fear of Death.

During a four hour cross-examination today, Defense Attorney Littleton hammered away at the fact that Schwartz had not told the district attorney's office about the underworld meeting until 10 days ago. Schwartz said his conscience had forced him to come clean with everything.

"You mean your conscience overcame your fear?" asked Littleton.

"I'm still afraid," retorted Schwartz. "I expect to be shot."

"You mean you expect to be murdered?" inquired the lawyer.

"Yes, that's it," was the reply.

Littleton smiled.

"That may shock you, Mr. Littleton," Schwartz added sullenly, "but it won't be a shock to me."

Tells of Beating

Mrs. Josephine Kamp, Kankakee, who accused her brother-in-law of striking her with an iron bolt as they were driving to Chicago.

Fred Kamp Jr. (left), and State Policeman John Salvatori holding bolt Kamp is alleged to have used to hit his sister-in-law, and spade found in car.

Fred Kamp Jr., 30 years old, a Kankakee truck driver, was held to the Cook county grand jury last night on complaint of his brother's wife that he had viciously assaulted her as the two drove near Chicago Heights early yesterday.

The woman, Mrs. Josephine Kamp, 22, of 419 South 4th street, Kankakee, told Lieut. Morris Schwartz of the Blue Island state police and Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers that Kamp suddenly beat her over the head with a 14 inch iron bolt, forcing her to run into a ditch at Lincoln highway and Cicero avenue.

Kamp, who lives with his brother, Russell, 25, a WPA worker, at 358 West Station street, Kankakee, admitted the assault, but was unable to offer a reason. He said he occasionally has had sudden head pains since an auto accident several years ago. Mrs. Kamp was separated from her husband four months ago. Kamp said he has been in love with her for two years.

Kamp was ordered held in the county jail in bond of $10,000 when arraigned before Police Magistrate Henry B. Welch in Alsip on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

BLONDE TIGRESS REPORTED SEEN; SEARCH PRESSED

The hunt for Eleanor Jarman, known as the "blonde tigress," and Mary Foster, both of whom escaped Aug. 8 from the women's prison at Dwight, was intensified around Danville yesterday following reports they had been seen there a few days ago. A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, said he had learned that two women answering the descriptions of the fugitives had been at a Danville hotel with a man. The Jarman woman was serving a 199 year term for her part in a holdup slaying in Chicago and the Foster woman was serving one to 10 years for larceny.

DEATH PENALTY ASKED FOR HITCH-HIKER SLAYERS

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 27 [Special].—St. Joseph County Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer announced today he will demand the death penalty for Richard Carl Klowetter and Mervin Cagle, confessed hitch-hiker slayers of Walter E. Ebeling. He will ask the grand jury, scheduled to meet Thursday in a special session, for first degree murder indictments for each based on the basic murder statute, and for murder committed during the course of another felony.

While officers questioned the pair about other crimes they are believed to have committed while roaming thru southern Indiana and Illinois, a renewed search was being conducted for Oscar [Frenchie] De Mille, who joined Cagle and Klowetter after the crime and helped them spend Ebeling's money. De Mille was riding in the stolen Ebeling car when it was wrecked at Benton, Ill. Authorities refer to De Mille as an accessory after the fact but have not stated what charge will be placed against him if apprehended. A special guard has been placed over the prisoners after it was learned they attempted to escape from the jail at Noblesville. They had obtained a piece of iron and started work on the jail masonry when discovered.

INVENTOR NEARS VICTORY IN LONG BOMB PAY FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—Lester P. Barlow, inventor, advanced another step today in his 21 year fight for compensation for half a million bombs used by the government during the world war in an alleged infringement of Barlow's patent rights.

The inventor, who recently demonstrated a new explosive to war department officials, sat in the gallery as the house passed and sent to the White House a bill directing payment to him of $592,719.21.

This amount, the Court of Claims held in 1937, was due to Barlow from the government for infringement on five bomb patents. Barlow started his fight for payment in 1919 and carried it to congress after failing to reach an agreement with the war department.

Barlow said he would use the money, if he finally got it, to develop new depth and aerial bombs.

5 BANDITS TIME RAID PERFECTLY; ROB 12 OF $3,600

Five bandits who timed their appearance to the dot escaped with $3,600 yesterday from the Garfield park branch office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company at 5944 Madison street, where they forced a dozen employés to lie on the floor.

Capt. George S. Homer of Austin station said that if the bandits had come earlier, they would have found 40 or 50 collectors in the office, while if they had come 5 or 10 minutes later, the money would have been on its way to the bank.

The bandits, all armed with revolvers, took up stations commanding all second floor exits from the life insurance and other offices. The employés, including three women, were herded into the office of Carroll T. Walsh, manager, and told to lie on the floor. The robbers escaped thru a rear door with the money, which was in a bag.

In 1934 the same office was robbed of $3,000.

JUKE BOXES AXED IN GANG ATTACK AT MELROSE PARK

Melrose Park police got belated word of a war over juke boxes in the suburb yesterday when Lionel M. Nathan, general manager of the Universal Automatic Music corporation, 6408 Stony Island avenue, fished five of his nickel in the slot phonographs out of a creek at 9th avenue about a block and a half south of North avenue.

They were dumped there Monday night after they had been chopped with axes by six gun-toting hoodlums who kidnaped a company driver, William Sirviss, and his brother, Clifford. Sirviss was stopped after he had installed a box at 930 Main street and was driving his truck to another stop.

Nathan said he has installed a dozen juke boxes in Melrose Park, altho he twice has been threatened to stay out of town. Dennis Cooney, reputed 1st ward underworld leader, and Eddie [Dutch] Vogel, old time Caponeite, are said to control competing juke box concerns.

You'll Like It...

It hasn't a name. You can't draw a picture of it. If it were not there you'd be conscious of its absence. Its presence pleases you. It is the most important ingredient in sincere, successful public service!

Operating American Airlines is a highly technical affair, most of whose intricacies you can measure with mathematical exactitude. But there is something more ... a human something that transcends material things. It is deep-rooted in the spirit of those who serve you.

American has set the pace in creating scores of ingenious methods of making its passengers comfortable and at ease, to make their journeys by Flagship enjoyable, to surround them with conveniences unique in the world of travel.

There is the simplicity of making a reservation, the dependability of Flagships as a means of transportation, the many convenient flights which enable you to go when you want to go, the downright luxury of a Flagship cabin, and all the services a Stewardess performs to fulfill your least desire.

But beyond these visual evidences of American's service there is that characteristic something about American which creates confidence and assures your peace of mind. You'd miss it if it were not there. But because it's there, you recognize it and like it.

It starts and ends with the people who operate American's far-flung Flagship system. They've caught hold of something—all of them, from mechanic to engineer, from porter to pilot—that inspires them to meet the public more than half way.

Define it as you may—you'll like it.

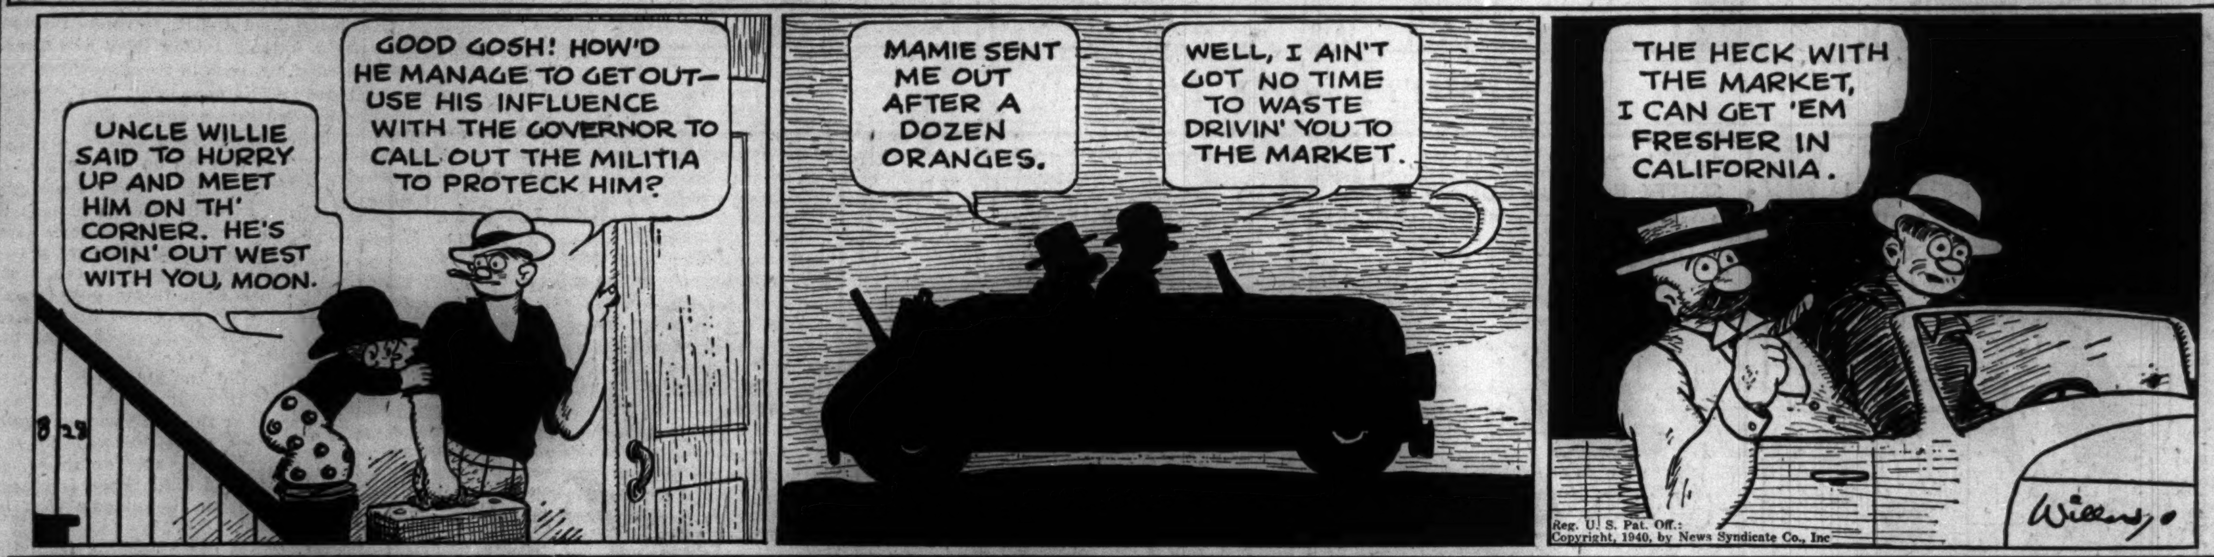
HARTNETT TO MANAGE CUBS IN 1941, SAYS WRIGLEY

MOON MULLINS—WILLIE'S GETTIN' FRESH



DELAY SIGNING UNTIL CONTRACT EXPIRES DEC. 31

Statement Blocks Boom for Herman.

P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, stated upon his return from a protracted lake vacation yesterday that he intends to retain Gabby Hartnett as manager of the Cubs for the 1941 season.

Gabby Hartnett.

In connection with the suggestion in yesterday morning's TRIBUNE that immediate signing of Gabby might be a stimulant in the effort to finish in the first division, Mr. Wrigley said he did not believe the process would be necessary inasmuch as he now announces Hartnett's retention. Hartnett's present contract expires at midnight on Dec. 31.

Wrigley's assurance was looked upon as timely in view of the reported formation of a bloc on the Cubs, which apparently had been listening to or reading propaganda favoring successors to Hartnett. This propaganda was especially active in behalf of Bill Meyer, manager of the Kansas City Blues.

A Player Boom for Herman.

There also were said to be players on the Cub squad who were espousing the cause of Capt. Bill Herman. Herman, as pointed out in THE TRIBUNE yesterday, has been in a receptive mood, but in no sense an active candidate, rather a good team man during the recent and earlier excitement about possible managerial changes. Bill frequently has said frankly that he has managerial ambitions, but that he has never coveted any incumbent's job.

Hartnett was elated at Wrigley's announcement, tho it has been apparent for some time that Gabby has been given private assurances of his retention.

In discussing the benching of Al Todd after Monday's defeat of the Cubs by the Giants, Hartnett outlined his plans for reorganizing the Cubs in a way that left no doubt that he had been asked some time ago to outline his plans for 1941, which is a Cub pennant year, based on the precedents of 1929, 1932, 1935, and 1938.

Gabby Prepares for Action.

Hartnett, in discussing his cracking down on Todd and several others Monday before Wrigley's return on his yacht, the Wasp, said that he had been handicapped in several preliminary feelers for trades because of high salaries of Cub players, which would have to be assumed. Many clubs hesitate to acquire a high salaried man and immediately subject him to a big salary cut.

After the Wrigley statement, Hartnett made it known that he will get busier than ever on rebuilding plans, tho not losing sight of the urgency of finishing in the first division this season.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

CINCINNATI motorists who plan to commute overland in the impending world series have little choice on the mileage basis as to the site of the American league end of the series. . . . It is 243 miles from Cincinnati to Cleveland, and 256 from Cincinnati to Detroit. . . . The kickoff in the All-Star game tomorrow night at Soldiers' field will take place at 8:20 o'clock. . . . A new University of Iowa song, "For the Love of Mike," will be dedicated at one of the Hawkeyes' home games this fall. . . . It honors Judge Michael L. McKinley of Chicago, one of Iowa's most enthusiastic supporters. . . . The mutuel handle for the current season at Washington Park is about 20 per cent ahead of last year's figure at this stage of the meeting. . . . Bill Leiser, sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, has traveled farther to cover the All-Star football game than any of the other 700 authors who will be in attendance. . . . Charley Root Jr., son of the Cubs' famous pitcher, will enter a military academy in New Mexico this fall. . . . He weighs 212 pounds. . . . The Red Sox are the most versatile club in the major leagues. . . . Lou Finney can play the outfield and first base. . . . Jimmy Foxx is good at any position, including the mound; Outfielders Roger Cramer and Ted Williams can pitch, and Marvin Owen is at home in any infield job. . . . Ray [Lil' Abner] Ebli, strapping 200 pound left end at Notre Dame, is spending his summer 2,800 feet underground in an ore mine in Ironwood, Mich. . . . The vast majority of Cub fans will be delighted to know that Gabby Hartnett again will lead the club in 1941. . . .

Dave Short, Texas league outfielder whom the White Sox have purchased from Oklahoma City for spring delivery, recently screamed for "time" in a game at Dallas when he found a big snake in left field. . . . A Negro bleacherite killed the reptile with a bulls-eye shot with a beer bottle. . . . Which should have given the umpires something to think about. . . . Monk Meyer, former West Point half back, who was a member of the 1937 All-Star squad, is coaching the service eleven at Schofield barracks in Honolulu. . . . Frankie Frisch is still denying the reports of alleged insulting repartee between him and Pitcher Bob Klinger, supposed to have taken place early in the season. . . . Tho the Pirates now are one big happy family, Frankie says no player could make the cracks credited to Klinger without giving up his Pirate uniform for a period ranging from 60 days to eternity. . . . Dan Topping and his bride, the former Sonja

Henie, will whoop it up for Green Bay against the All-Stars tomorrow night. . . . The Rockingham race track deducts 1 per cent from each purse, to go into a retirement fund for old and disabled selling platers. . . . The New Hampshire Jockey club contributes a like amount. . . . Now that they've taken care of the nags, how about the broken down horse players? . . . Sigma Alpha Epsilon has the distinction of being the only fraternity with two of its members in the starting lineup of the All-Stars—Ambrose Schindler of Southern California and James Logan of Indiana.

Only the Weakling.

No man fears death whose heart is free from stain;
Only the sinner trembles when the night
Creeps slowly down, and all his earthly gain
Melts with the silent fading of the light;
No man fears death who truthfully may say
He never failed to help a fellow man
Whom he found bruised and bleeding on the way,
Proving himself a good Samaritan.

Only that weakling is afraid to die
Who thru the years has never learned to live,
Whose ears are shut against misfortune's cry,
Whose hands are stretched to grasp but not to give;
How shall he meet the God of mercy when
He has no mercy for his fellow men?

DICK METZ WINS MEDAL IN P. G. A. WITH COMEBACK

Cards 140, 6 Under Par, to Edge Out McSpaden.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 27.—Dick Metz, who has been striving during his half dozen years' residence in Illinois to bring his adopted state a national golfing honor, succeeded today when he won the Alex Smith Memorial medal, annually awarded to the leader in the 36 hole qualifying round of the National Professional Golf tournament. Dick finished the voyage over the rain drenched 7,017 yards of the Hershey Country club with a 140, six under par.

The 31 year old Oak Park Country club professional wielded a putter that provided the only illumination on one of the drabbest finishing days of a P. G. A. qualifying round. Metz, who needed only 29 putts in yesterday's first round of 69, required 30 today in the course of a 71, but of that total only 13 were needed on the finishing nine, which he did up in five birdies again, even as yesterday.

Semi-Finalist in 1939.

Metz was runner-up in the National Open of 1938, following a year's convalescence from an auto accident which nearly cost him a foot. He won the Chicago Open last month, and a year ago was P. G. A. semi-finalist in a bitter 36 hole match against Henry Picard, the Hershey pro, who is defending the title on his own course this week.

Today Dick played back of Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., the 1937 runner-up with Picard, and just in front of Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., the year's leading money winner. McSpaden appeared to have the Smith medal won with a 141, composed of three birdies and one bogey.

Then came Metz of the flaming putter, one which cooled off a mite on the last green, his only three-putt error of the entire holes. Meanwhile, Picard, who was automatically eligible for tomorrow's opening match play rounds, but elected to try for the medal, was giving his all for the home team, shooting the 69, best of the day, that gave him third place at 142.

Hogan Shoots 2d Round 71.

Up came Hogan, about whom there had been rumors of a fast finish, but Benjamin's best was a second round of 71 for a 143. Ed Dudley of Philadelphia was next at 145, and the Jersey pair Vic Ghezzi of Deal and Johnny Kinder of Plainfield, followed with par 146s for the distance.

Thus the first seven all bettered or matched par, in spite of the miserable behavior of the elements. Their performance was another testimonial to the worth of the P. G. A. title in the eyes of its seekers, so eager are all to make the match play warfare. This man-to-man campaign starts tomorrow morning with 32 18-hole battles, followed by 16 more of the same in the afternoon. The remaining matches will be played at 36 holes a day thru Sunday's title argument.

Among those present tomorrow will be two former champions who have been seen to hit a ball over a fairway or two, and absent will be two other one-time title holders who also could get around.

Hagen, Sarazen Qualify.

The former champions who'll be there are Walter Hagen, five-time victor who holed out an 80 foot 4 iron chip for a deuce at the 190 yard 18th and a 152, and Gene Sarazen, thrice a champ, who assembled four nines of 37 for his 148.

The absentees will be Leo Diegel, winner in 1928 and 1929, who needed a 155, one over the qualifying playoff limit of 154, and a fellow named Herman Densmore Shute, an old Ohio boy who now registers from Coral Gables, Fla.

The boys who feel sorry about their plays today should consider the uncomplaining Shute. Denny, winner of the 1933 British Open title, also won the 1936 and 1937 P. G. A. crowns to

Yankees Roll On; Beat Sox in Tenth, 5 to 4

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 27.—The world champion Yankees, who have come back to dispute pretenders to their throne, marched on impressively again today. Apparently handcuffed until the eighth by Johnny Rigney, they burst forth with a tying rally and then went on to a 5 to 4 ten inning victory in a battle that Manager James Dykes of the visiting White Sox forces watched from the grandstand. Gen. Dykes was chased by Umpire in Chief George Moriarty for attempting to ask questions about a maneuver he couldn't understand.

Sox Take Lead Three Times.

The Sox did their best to discourage the current surge of the champions. The Chicagoans took a one run lead off Spurgeon [Spud] Chandler in the second, but dropped behind before the inning was completed. They tied it in the third and went ahead again in the fifth, only to have Red Rolfe knot it immediately with a homer. So the Sox stepped out again in the sixth for a 4 to 3 lead and again the margin proved insufficient. The Yanks, coming up with a two hit inning for the first time, knotted it at 4 to 4 in the eighth.

Rigney's pitching job, incidentally his fifteenth defeat, could have been a mound masterpiece as well as a success if he had been able to suppress the bats of Joe Gordon and Tom Henrich in the eighth. Thru the first seven innings the Sox pitcher kept his foes in a blinking state. In that stretch they produced only three hits, one of them Rolfe's homer. One of the two others proved more damaging. It was a single by Frankie Crosetti, which drove in two runs after the bases had been loaded by Bob Kennedy's error and two passes in the second inning.

Smith Almost Stops 'Em.

The decisive tenth came close to resulting in a brilliant rescue feat for Eddie [Lefty] Smith. The inning got under way with Rolfe causing more trouble by doubling to right and going to third on Henrich's bunt. Dykes, wigwagging from his grandstand seat, ordered both Keller and Selkirk passed. With Dickey coming up, Smith was substituted for Rigney, but Dickey was withdrawn and replaced by Joe DiMaggio. Smitty struck him out. And then Dahlgren lifted a fly close to the line in short right. It dropped beyond reach for a single, Rolfe going home with the needed run. It was the Yankees' 15th victory in their last 18 games.

The first Sox run in the second in-

Packers Wind Up Drill with Night Session

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 27.—Three years of planning and three weeks of vigorous training for the Chicago All-Star game came to an end for the Green Bay Packers under the lights of City stadium tonight. Tomorrow morning 43 players, defenders of the world's football championship, entrain for Chicago, where on Thursday night they will pit their experience against the enthusiasm and speed of 69 All-Americans in the outstanding event of the 1940 football season.

This is a vastly different group than the one that set out from here Aug. 31, 1937, on another excursion to the big city. There was a great deal of back slapping and levity as that ill fated expedition got under way. The train was packed with doting fans and players' wives.

A Long Sought Opportunity.

If mention of the All-Stars entered into the conversation at all, it was in a sympathetic vein. It was a shame that the mighty Packers had to give it to such a fine bunch of youngsters. [The All-Stars won, 6 to 0.] Ever since, Coach Curley Lambeau has been planning and hoping for another chance in the Chicago spectacle.

A special train will carry the Packers to Chicago. On it will be only the players, coaches, and trainers. Wives are barred. Neither will they be allowed to register at or visit the Packers' hotel. When they say "Good-by" to papa tomorrow morning, it will be the last time they

85,000 TO SEE GAME; PACKERS ARRIVE TODAY

Collegians Hold Dress Rehearsal.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the day the Green Bay Packers, professional football champions of the world, come to town for their scrap tomorrow night in Soldiers' field with the College All-Stars of 1939.

The coming of the Packers also signaled the arrival of the vanguard of the throng of 85,000 which will jam Chicago's gigantic lake side stadium for the seventh game in the series presented by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Just as all sections of the United States participated in the national polls that determined the personnel of the All-Star squad and its coaches, so tomorrow night all parts of the nation will be represented in the crowd that expected to break the attendance record for the sports spectacle. The kickoff is scheduled for 8:20 o'clock.

Reserved Seats Available.

With interest in the game, which is expected to break the series deadlock of two victories each and two ties, intensified because of the rivalry between Iowa, home of Dr. Eddie Anderson, All-Star head coach, and Wisconsin, represented by the Packers, all reserved seats probably will be sold before game time. Several thousand reserved seats at $1.10 remain this morning, however, and they may be purchased at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower.

No one will be turned away tomorrow night even if the reserved seats are gone. General admission tickets may be purchased at Soldiers' field.

Last night lobbies of loop hotels swarmed with early arrivals and thousands more were on their way from more distant cities. Loop hotels reported sellouts for tomorrow.

Packers Drill Tonight.

The Packers will arrive at 2:20 this afternoon at the Union station on the Milwaukee road from Green Bay, Wis., where they completed their training campaign aimed to gain revenge for their defeat by the All-Stars in 1937. They will drill tonight in Soldiers' field. The Packers' headquarters will be established in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

After the best defensive drill of the training camp had been held yesterday in Dyche stadium, the All-Stars reported last night in Soldiers' field. Uniforms which carry out the national color scheme of red, white, and blue were issued to the squad of 69 All-Americans. The players will wear silver pants and the shoulders of their jerseys are starred. Bud Kerr, Notre Dame end, whose fractured ankle will keep him out of the battle with the pros, was the only member of the All-Star cast unable to take part in the dress rehearsal.

Hold Final Drill Today.

The All-Stars returned to Evanston last night in chartered buses. They will hold a final workout this afternoon after a morning lecture by Coach Anderson and his assistants. The All-Stars will move to the Sherman hotel tomorrow afternoon.

Newspapermen — several hundred will cover the game—were arriving last night. In addition to Bill Leiser, San Francisco Chronicle, and Bert McGrane, Des Moines, Ia., Register and Tribune, who have been here for several days, another early comer was Carter Latimer of the Greenville, S. C., News. Tomorrow's game will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Tension in Camp Increases.

With the approach of the battle date the tension in the All-Star camp has steadily increased. Yesterday's defensive drill was proof that the teams which studied the Packers' formations needed no urging from their coaches to concentrate on their lessons.

The game will be played under the same combination of college and professional rules with which spectators

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Claude Passeau, abetted nobly by two former Giants, Zeke Bonura and Hank Leiber, and a couple of old Cubs, Stan Hack and Bill Herman, yesterday beat the Giants, 3 to 1. It was Claude's 17th victory of the season and his ninth straight in Wrigley field.

Thru yesterday's success Passeau became runner up to Bucky Walters in the lists of victorious National league pitchers. Walters won his 18th, Monday.

In his latest praiseworthy accomplishment Passeau did not walk a batsman, yielded only seven hits, three of which came in the second inning for the New Yorkers' lone run, and struck out five, including the first two batsmen of the game and the last one. Johnny Rucker ended the contest by fanning with the tying runs on third and second.

Leiber Gets 15th Homer.

The run the Giants made in the second inning, on infield singles by Harry Danning and Mel Ott and an outfield single by Tony Cuccinello, stood up for a lead until the Cubs made the two runs essential to victory in the fifth. The third Cub run was Leiber's 15th homer of the season.

The fifth inning victory business started with a single by Hack. Stan scored on a double by Herman and Herman scored on Bonura's hit, a single to right.

Victim of Passeau et al. was Bill Lohrman, who numbered in his nine victories and four shutouts, three shutouts of the Cubs, Lohrman was pretty good, holding the Cubs to two hits, but he never showed the Passeau's class thruout the engagement.

Wins Five in 13 Days.

The outcome gave the Cubs a split in the four game series and lifted the team one victory above the .500 mark, into a fifth place tie with the idle Pirates. The Cubs have won 62 and lost 61.

Passeau has won five games in 13 days, three as a starter and two as a reliever, He has worked in 38 games this season, and has been charged with 11 defeats, most of them in the first half of the season, during which he was under the .500 mark several times. He has pitched 229 innings, yielded 206 hits, 76 runs, 53 bases on balls and has struck out 92.

The Bees will play in Wrigley field today and tomorrow. Larry French will pitch for the Cubs this afternoon and the very able Dick Errickson is to be sent forth by Manager Casey Stengel.

Tomorrow night the Cubs, their Wrigley field cares suspended for a spell, will attend the All-Star-Packers' game in Soldiers' field. They will take it easy Friday, then go to Cincinnati for week-end engagements.

CARDINALS HALT RALLY BY BEES; TRIUMPH, 4 TO 3

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 27 (AP).—Martin Marion's first home run of his major league career in the fourth inning today turned out to be the run needed by the St. Louis Cardinals to defeat the Boston Bees, 4 to 3. The Bees rallied in the eighth for all their runs. Clyde Shoun stopped the uprising with the tying and winning runs on base. Score:

establish himself as one of the great match players of all time. Last winter, a fall during the Bing Crosby tournament injured his right wrist and he submitted to a grafting operation which necessitated the removal of a portion of a shinbone. Last year, in this same tournament, Denny was the center of the now historic controversy between the players and P. G. A. officials.

Qualifies, Then Hospital.

Today, he qualified easily with 151. Tonight Denny was operated on in Hershey hospital for appendicitis after an attack which had bothered him the last few days. Aside from the Canadian Open, this P. G. A. was Shute's first competitive appearance since the wrist accident.

Denny's loss raised the total of places in the playoff to three. The seven 154 scorers in the qualifying round set out originally to play in the rain tonight for the last two of the 64 places in the match play bracket.

The playoff winners were Joe Turnesa, Rockville Center, N. Y., 1927 runnerup; Nelson Giddens, of Jackson, Miss., and Henry Bontempo, of Springfield, Mass. Giddens and Bontempo earned their rôles with birdie 3s on the first hole, while Turnesa had to fight thru four holes before winning the last place from Sam Schneider, of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Lou Angelucci Knocks Out Smyles in Second Round

Yates Fails in Amateur Trials; 141 Is Low Score

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—For about the first time since the United States Golf association instituted sectional qualifying rounds for the National Amteur golf tournament. practically all big name players passed the tests today for the play at Mamaroneck Sept. 9.

Charley Yates of Atlanta was the only top flight player who dropped out in the 36 hole tests in 28 locations. Exempt from the qualifications were 10 former champions, Marvin [Bud] Ward, Willie Turnesa, Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer, George Dunlap, Jesse Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Max Marston, Jesse Guilford, and Chick Evans.

Among today's qualifiers were Ray Billows, runner-up to Ward last year and to Goodman in 1937; Bob Sweeney, former British amateur ruler; Dick Chapman, Johnny Lehman, George Doering, Wilford Wehrle, Fred Haas Jr., Maurice McCarthy, Walter Emery, Pat Abbott, Ted Bishop, Bobby Dunkelberger, and Bob Clark, and Ed Furgol, the last two winner and medalist, respectively, in the national public links tourney, who received special invitations.

Scoring honors were shared by Dunkelberger of High Point, N. C.; Jack Shields of Tulsa, Okla., and Albert [Scotty] Campbell, former Walker cup player, who was the only qualifier at Seattle. They turned in 36 hole scores of 141. Campbell was five under par with 72-69. Dunkelberger and Shields each scored 70-71.

PLAN CYCLE AND MIDGET CARD IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

Motorcycle and midget auto racers will compete in a motor rodeo and thrill show in Soldiers' field next Sunday and Monday afternoon and evening. The racers will compete for a total of $2,500 in prizes.

A three lap sprint and five and ten lap events over a banked cinder track surrounding the grass infield are scheduled for the cycles at each performance.

Lehman Leads Amateur Trial with 37–34–71

Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields veteran, climaxed his 1940 comeback campaign by leading the field in the National Amateur sectional qualifications at Flossmoor yesterday with a 36 hole score of 71—74—145. Fifteen players qualified for the National tournament at Mamaroneck, N. Y., Sept. 9.

For years one of the district's leading amateurs, Lehman was the only player in the field of 72 contestants to break par on the water soaked course. He turned the trick with a 37—34—71, one under par, in the morning.

Four strokes back of Lehman came Gus Moreland of Peoria, the Illinois Amateur champion, and Art Doering of Medinah, who were tied with 149. Moreland carded a 75—74—149 and Doering posted a 73—76—149. Fred Schulz of Hinsdale shot 74—76—150 to place third.

Walter Burkemo of Evanston, finalist in the Chicago District championship last week, failed to qualify when he scored a 77—80—157, but was named as third alternate when Russell Martin of Flossmoor and Gordon Kummer of Milwaukee, who scored 156s, waived their alternate positions. Qualifying scores:

Dougherty and Springer Win in County Golf

YANKS ROLL ON; BEAT SOX, RIGNEY IN TENTH, 5 TO 4

Win on Dahlgren's Hit; Umpire Ejects Dykes.

ning wasn't in proportion to the opportunity that presented itself. Wright opened with a single. Tresh also singled and Rolfe threw the ball wild, Wright taking third and Tresh second. A pass to Kennedy filled the bases with none out, but Rigney grounded into a double play, Wright scoring. Hayes then bounced high to Rolfe, but was out on a close play.

The Yankee second, which brought two runs, as well as the invitation to Dykes to spend his afternoon elsewhere, opened with Kennedy's two base wild throw of Keller's tap. After Selkirk had been tossed out, Dickey walked. With the count 3 and 2 on Dahlgren, Rigney slipped across what appeared to be a strike. Umpire Moriarty did nothing to indicate what he thought about it. Dahlgren stood at the plate, sort of dumblike, Dickey went halfway to second and stopped, also dumblike, so the Sox tagged him. Then Dahlgren got word from the umpire that he had walked.

Mr. Dykes came dashing from the dugout, but hardly had time to get his mouth open before he received dismissal orders. Then Crosetti singled for two runs.

Rosenthal Walks and Scores.

The Sox got into a 2 to 2 tie in the third without straining their bats. Rosenthal walked with one out and moved to third on Solters' second single to center. Appling was robbed of a hit when Keller, after sprinting almost to the foul line, accomplished a glove handed catch. Rosenthal scored on the play.

Only two hits were required to give the Sox a one run lead for a few minutes in the fifth. Hayes was thrown out before Rosenthal beat out a bunt which Rolfe didn't anticipate. Kuhel pulled a single into right, Rosenthal taking third. He scored from there while Rolfe was throwing out Solters on a slow bounder. Appling tapped to Chandler for the third out. Then Rolfe, after two were out in the Yanks' half, tied it at 3 apiece by hitting his season's ninth homer.

Dickey Gives Sox a Run.

The Sox jumped into the lead in the sixth, aided by Catcher Dickey, and for a while this run looked as if it might be sufficient for Rigney's purposes. The inning opened with a pass to Wright. Tresh fanned and Kennedy singled to center. Rigney walked and on the fourth ball Dickey, for no reason at all, threw to third. Rolfe wasn't expecting an unorthodox move of this sort, so the throw went wild, Wright scoring and Kennedy going to third. Hayes then fanned and Rosenthal rolled to Gordon. The Yanks tied it again in the eighth on a double by Gordon and Henrich's single.

have become familiar during the series. This was agreed upon after a session Monday night when Curley Lambeau, Packer coach, met with Anderson.

Lambeau advocated a rule which provided that all defensive penalties should be half the distance to the goal line if loss of yards under the rule would place the ball on the defenders' one yard line. Under this rule, had it been adopted, if the defense was penalized for holding with the ball on its own 10 yard line, for instance, the team would have lost only 5 yards altho the code calls for a 15 yard loss, which automatically places the ball on the defensive team's 1 yard line.

Refuses to Consider Proposal.

Anderson refused to consider the proposal.

"Tell your Packers not to hold," Anderson said, "and you won't be worried about losing yards."

Anderson, however, was willing to use the professional rule on the second and illegal forward pass on one down. Only one forward pass may be thrown, but occasionally after a completed forward pass, the receiver attempts a lateral which is misdirected and is thrown forward at a slight angle.

Under the college rule when this second forward pass occurs, the ball is brought back to the spot where it was put into play and the offenders are penalized a down. Frequently this means the loss of long gains on the original successful forward pass. The professional rule calls for only a five yard penalty at the spot of the second and illegal forward pass.

Lambeau assured Anderson he would consent to the college rule, except "We haven't had opportunity to practice with the knowledge that lateral passing would be encouraged."

Principal Concessions Remain.

The principal concessions to both sets of rules, collegiate and professional, which were made in 1934, remain. The goal posts will be on the goal line, a concession to the professionals, and forward passes must be thrown from a spot at least 5 yards behind the line of scrimmage. This is the college rule. Professionals throw passes from any point behind the line of scrimmage.

In adhering to the combination of rules used last year the coaches also agreed that 30 seconds would be the time limit on each play. This was the 1939 college rule. This fall the colleges have cut this limit to 25 seconds.

The clock in Soldiers' field will be used for the convenience of the spectators, but the field judge's watch will determine the length of the quarters. His watch has been designated as official.

Blood Ruled Ineligible.

Johnny Blood, former Green Bay star, who was signed by the Packers for this game only, will be ineligible to participate it has been ruled by Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, after discussion of the case with both Lambeau and Anderson. Admitting that Blood's signing with the Packers was a fine sentimental gesture, Ward ruled that no player may be signed for one game only.

"If Blood had been signed for the season and on the same basis as other members of the Packers," Ward added, "there would be no objection. Obviously some of the Packer players will be dropped later under the league personnel limit, but all are on equal terms now. Signing a player for this game only could lead to unfair practices in future games."

Lambeau indicated that Blood would be with the Packer squad in Soldiers' field, but agreed not to use him in the game.

SAN DIEGO MEETS ST. LOUIS NINE IN LEGION TOURNEY

Shelby, N. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—San Diego, Cal., the western champion, and St. Louis, Mo., the southeastern titleholder, will meet tomorrow in the national semi-finals of the American Legion junior baseball tournament.

San Diego advanced with a sectional victory over Topeka, Kas., and St. Louis moved up with a sectional triumph over Little Rock, Ark.

GIRLS' CHAMPIONS TO MEET.

The Sheps Tavernettes, champions of the Southwest Girls Softball league, and the Joe Higginses, champions of the Bessemer Park league, will play an exhibition game in Fuller park, 45th street and Princeton avenue, at 7 o'clock tonight.

THE GUMPS—DOUBLE TROUBLE!

will see him until after the battle. For the Packers, this is war.

Kicking and signals occupied the squad in its final drill tonight. Details of defense and strategy were reviewed in a long blackboard drill this afternoon. At the conclusion of the day's work, the Packers were a greatly improved ball team over the one which went away so lightheartedly in 1937 to become the first professional team to lose in the All-Star series.

Foe Stronger than in 1937.

But it will have to be a better team to win. It faces a much stronger All-Star squad than the one which combined Sammy Baugh, Gaynell Tinsley and two Packer errors for that 6 to 0 triumph. Whether it has improved enough cannot be forecast from this distance, where nothing is known about the true strength of the collegians.

The faithful, however, are beginning to cast about for All-Star money on the theory that the collegians cannot possibly be a great deal stronger than the victorious 1937 aggregation, whereas the Packers of today could have won that contest by several touchdowns. Unbiased observers view such conclusions as overoptimistic.

Coach Lambeau steadfastly refused to name the probable starters. In all scrimmages and signal drills, however, a veteran line has been given the preference, leaving the impression that he will start Buford [Baby] Ray and Bill Lee at the tackles, Buckets Goldenberg and Russ Letlow at guards, and Bud Svendsen at center.

Don Hutson and Milt Gantenbein are the regular ends in this alignment, but Harry Jacunski and Carl Mulleneaux have forced themselves into the picture with their fine all-around play. They are younger than Hutson and Gantenbein and more rugged defensively. They could be started without impairing the Packers' chances.

Veteran Backs to Start.

In the back field veterans probably will be the starting choice, giving the champions an experienced secondary to meet the All-Stars' first charge. Such a unit would be composed of Larry Craig at blocking back, Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell at the half backs, and Clarke Hinkle at full back. On the basis of training camp showings, however, Jimmy Lawrence and Larry Buhler are worthy of places, Lawrence instead of Herber and Buhler for Hinkle.

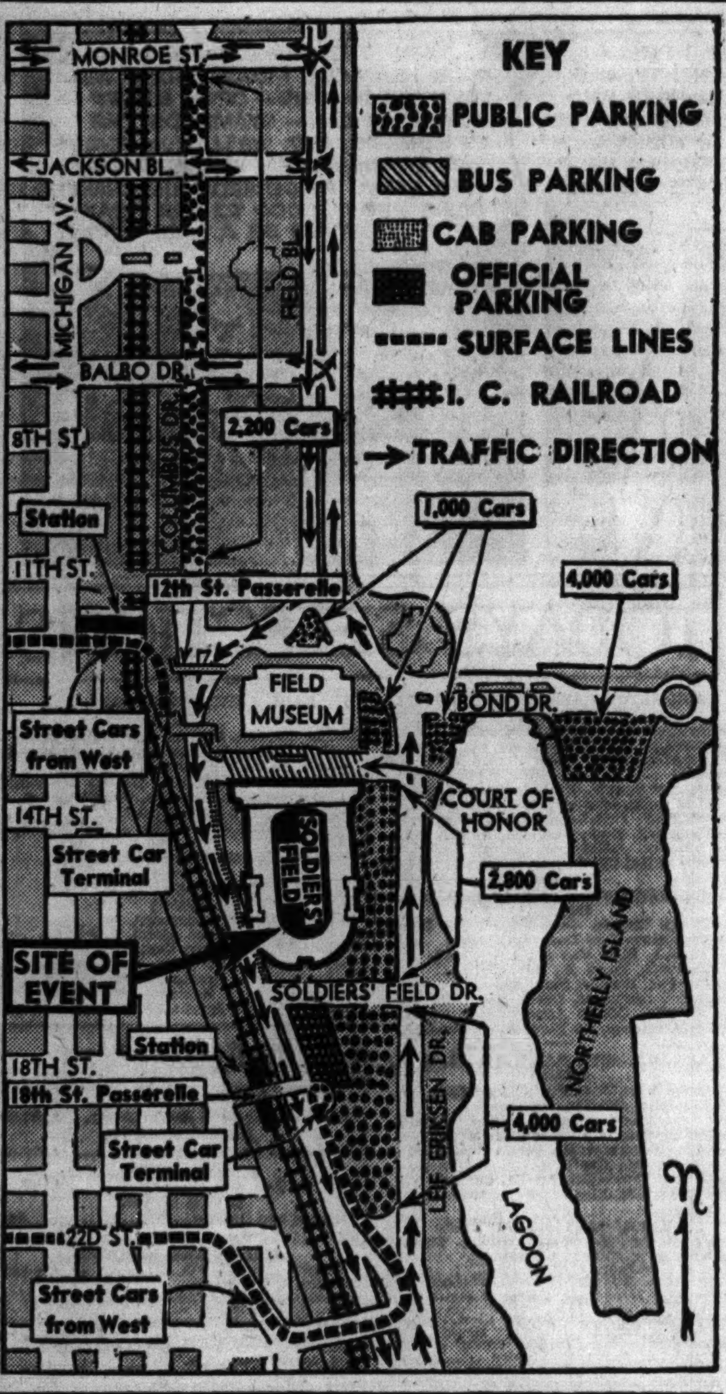
Andy Uram, a star in the 1938 All-Star game, figures in the list of possible starters if the Packers receive the kickoff. Uram is one of the league's fastest backs. Joe Laws, the pudgy little half back who has been planning on making his third appearance in the All-Star game an occasion to prove to Coach Eddie Anderson that they had football players at Iowa before Nile Kinnick got out of knee pants, undoubtedly figured heavily in Lambeau's early plans. But a leg injury a week ago has reduced Laws' chances of taking much part in Thursday's engagement.

Two Centers Injured.

This also is true of Charles Brock, one of the outstanding centers in football. Brock, suffering from a shoulder injury, will be used sparingly, if at all. The other injured center, George Svendsen, may not make the trip. His leg has been in extension for the last three days to facilitate the healing of a knee injury. If he is able to leave the hospital he will accompany the squad, but he is definitely out of action for another two weeks.

The Packers will take over Soldiers' field tomorrow night to limber up and become accustomed to the lights. Thereafter there will be nothing for the champions to do but wait for the kickoff and hope they have come far enough in three weeks to cope with the speed and the artistry of football's greatest All-Star team.

How to Get to Big Game



Tell Motorists Their Plays for All-Star Game

BY HAL FOUST.

Street cars, buses, steam trains, elevated trains, taxicabs and private automobiles comprise the All-Star transportation system to pack 85,000 football fans into Soldiers' field tomorrow night. The arrangements were completed yesterday by Chief Roger F. Shanahan of the Chicago park police and Otto K. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, after conferences with representatives of the utilities.

This is the seventh of these annual football classics, so the transportation men were not without experience in coping with this year's problem. The plans are designed to continue a six year record of moving this crowd without death or injury.

There's a conveyance for every one with a ticket and a means for this conveyance to reach Soldiers' field in safety and with reasonable dispatch.

Tip for Early Motorists.

Based upon last year's statistics, an estimated 30,000 patrons will enter the large free parking areas in 10,000 private automobiles. A driver can save time for himself and his passengers by taking the first parking space he finds.

Motorists from the north side who arrive early enough can avoid slow traffic by parking in Columbus drive in Grant park. There's space there, between Monroe street and 11th street, for 2,200 automobiles.

West side motorists will find that the 22d and 23d street viaduct is the better approach to the 4,000 car parking area south of the stadium.

The lot immediately east of the field, holding 2,800 cars, and the smaller spaces for 1,000 cars immediately north and immediately east of Field museum are the first to be filled. If you are caught in the last half hour rush, it's a waste of time to try to get into one of these. On Northerly Island, there's space for 4,000 cars, but less than this number will be directed over the limited capacity causeway.

Shuttle Buses to Field.

The Chicago Motor Coach company will operate its Jackson boulevard No. 26 buses to Soldiers' field. A shuttle service will also operate between the field and Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

Chicago Rapid Transit riders will use the Roosevelt road "L" station. Free transfers will be provided for bus or street car rides to the field.

The Illinois Central railroad will have special trains and extra coaches on its regular trains. Its 18th street station is adjacent to the stadium. The Roosevelt road station involves a little longer walk.

Taxicabs are an unpredictable quantity. If bad weather invites the drivers to seek trade outside the congestion, there will be a shortage. It's more likely that 1,800 cabs will be waiting for the final gun.

For the protection of pedestrians, chain and rope fences will be used for the first time to keep walkers off the pavements.

Don't load or unload from taxicab or private automobiles in the middle of the pavement! This tempts fate.

With the new temporary fences and with the overhead bridges, pedestrians with care can escape any exposure of themselves to automobile traffic. Motorists who park in Grant park should use the sidewalk on the west side of Columbus drive to save themselves from waiting to be ushered thru Field boulevard traffic in front of Field museum.

The obvious suggestion is saved for this paragraph. Allow plenty of time to get there and take all the time that's needed to leave the game pleasantly and safely.

One more paragraph, please, just to illustrate that this is really a big event. Last year, THE TRIBUNE reported the attendance at 80,000. The Chicago park district survey tabulated 88,419, which included vendors, ushers, and the like. Park district statistics show 7,942 came by street car, 6,715 by the "L," 5,020 by I. C., and 7,382 by bus. There were 10,082 private cars in the parking lots. Taxicab figures were not available.

Indians Decide They Want Flag, Not Vitt's Scalp

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27 (AP).—The News says a representative group of Cleveland Indians held a secret meeting in Washington yesterday and pledged one another to undivided concentration on the goal of winning the American league pennant, regardless of any feeling against Manager Oscar Vitt.

The meeting developed into a series of pep talks, in which the players told one another that all else must be subordinated to finishing in first place, the newspaper said.

One report was that they set up a system of voluntary fines to be levied against any player who fails to meet their standards of hustle and optimism.

Vitt, target of a player rebellion two months ago, said he knew nothing about any meeting but added, "one fellow who hasn't spoken to me for the last two weeks acted as if I were the best friend he has."

"There was more backslapping—and I got a lot of it—when that final putout was made yesterday than I've experienced in months," Vitt declared.

CHALLEDON WINS WHITNEY STAKES IN RECORD TIME

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—Challedon won the Whitney stakes today, as every one had expected, but he encountered difficulties that no one had expected.

William L. Brann's handicap king had to run the fastest mile and a quarter in the history of the event to beat out William Woodward's Isolater in a photo finish. His time was 2:03 1-5, three-fifths of a second faster than War Admiral ran in the 1938 renewal of the 13 year old stake. The track record is 2:01 4-5, shared by Man O'War and Sir Barton.

Dusky Fox, Isolater's stablemate and the only other horse to run against Challedon today, finished 10 lengths behind the battling pair.

This was Challedon's first Saratoga appearance and his first at a New York track since he was beaten by Johnstown, also a Woodward horse, in the Dwyer at Aqueduct last year. He picked up $2,725 for his third victory in four starts this year and proved he will be the favorite if he runs for the Saratoga cup Saturday. Isolater and Dusky Fox also are eligible for the cup.

IT'S RIGHT SPOT, SO NADINE OMAR WINS ARDMORE

Triumphs as Flying Jane Weakens in Stretch.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Nadine Omar, a 3 year old filly which has been trying to win all season, finally found the right spot yesterday and scored at 6 to 1 odds. The occasion was the Ardmore purse, a six furlong allowance event that drew half a dozen sprinters to the post at Washington Park.

Nadine Omar scored at the expense of Flying Jane, the even money favorite, which wound up in second place, six lengths behind the winner. Mrs. Emil Denemark's Super Chief, winner of the Arkansas Derby, was third.

Flying Jane Weakens.

Bill Thompson, who is leading the apprentice jockeys in the struggle for leadership during the second half of the meeting, gave Nadine Omar a well judged ride. He followed Flying Jane's pace to the stretch and sent his mount alongside the leader soon after the drive began. A hard neck and neck duel ensued, but at the eighth pole Flying Jane tired. Then Nadine Omar drew away swiftly.

Nadine Omar had been beaten in $1,500 company earlier in the meeting. On the other hand, Flying Jane had been competing in allowance events against horses such as Roman, Potranco, Rifted Clouds, and War Beauty. Accordingly she was backed confidently.

Tho she is a mudder, the particularly heavy going which prevailed yesterday seemed to weaken her suddenly in the stretch. Nadine Omar went on to finish the six furlongs in 1:16. The winner's prices were $14.40, $5.20, and $3.20 across the board.

Logical Justifies Backers.

The Woolford Farm's Logical was such a standout in the Lake Zurich purse an allowance event for juvenile fillies, that she went to the post at 4 to 5 odds. Then she proceeded to fulfill the confidence of her backers by dominating the five and a half furlong dash and winning by five lengths.

Under Jockey Jack Richard's energetic handling, she drew clear of Air Hostess after a brief duel on the sprint to the far turn. Air Hostess, tiring in the stretch, yielded second place to Valdina Lark, but the latter was unable to get anywhere near the winner.

Logical was making her second start of the meeting. She won previously on opening day. Those who backed her yesterday collected only $3.60, $2.80 and $2.20 across the board.

Earlier in the afternoon there had been several more ample payoffs. The daily double on New Englander and Black Cherry was worth $107.20, due largely to the fact that the latter escaped the notice of the bettors.

Wins by Two Lengths.

Both scored easily, New Englander coming from behind to take the lead in the stretch and beat Gounod with two lengths to spare. Black Cherry took command on the turn and held Palsak safe during the stretch drive. In the mutuels she returned $21, $9.80 and $5.60. New Englander's prices were $4.60, $3 and $2.20.

Mrs. Emil Denemark's three year old filly, Cutter, outran a field of seasoned performers of the $3,500 class in a mile dash, which was the seventh race on the program. It was Jockey Bill Emery's third winner of the day. Previously he had been aboard Black Cherry and Delta Dan. Cutter led all the way, withstanding Al Au Feu's persistent challenge to win by two lengths. Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' Bain Marie was third. Cutter returned his backers $7, $4.20 and $4.

FOUR MILE RACE DRAWS FIELD OF 6 AT HOMEWOOD

Marathon Handicap Last of Distance Events.

A field of six will go to the post today in the $3,500 Marathon championship handicap at Washington Park. This gallop of four miles will climax a series of five distance events which have been run each Wednesday of the meeting.

Winning Mark, which won last week's race at three miles and three furlongs, will run again today. He will be opposed by Flat Lance, English Harry, Wicket, Tristrap, and Miss Apprehend.

With the track muddy from recent rains, the event will take more than seven minutes. Only a handful of the oldest turf followers in the Chicago area are able to remember seeing a race of this length.

Thruout the series, the races have been increasing in distance and value. The first, at a mile and a half, was won by Misrule. Then Shot Put scored at two and a quarter miles and again at two and three quarters, after which Winning Mark put over his three and three eighths miles victory.

Due to the difficult track conditions, scratches may bring the field down to the point where the four mile race will be postponed. If the field is cut to less than five, the race will be deferred until Saturday. Trainer Lonnie Copenhaver and T. M. Doyle announced that they plan to start Tristrap and Miss Apprehend, respectively.

The possibility that Charles S. Howard may add another Chicago area stake to his collection became stronger yesterday when word was received that W. L. Brann's Challedon will be sent out for the $25,000 Washington Park handicap on Labor day. He will be kept in the east for the Spa cup, the Jockey Club Gold cup, and any special event that may be arranged. His owner plans to send him to the stud next season. The withdrawal of Challedon from the field for the Labor day stakes leaves Howard holding a strong upper hand with Kayak II. and Advocator.

Te Deum.

Riding along a tree lined street the other night,
All earth relaxing in the twilight dim,
We passed an olden church from which emerged
The sound of many voices in a hymn;
An evening prayer at this, the vesper hour,
Swelling upon the vagrant breeze it came,
Rising, it seemed, unto the very skies,
"Holy God, we praise Thy name!"

"Lord of all, we bow before Thee,"
Rose above the organ's strain,
Floating out into the shadows
Like a surcease after pain;
"Why should we," I thought, "be fearful
In a land where men acclaim?"
Gathered there to pray, not plunder,
"Holy God, we praise Thy name!"

FEDERAL CORN STORAGE BINS TO BE DOUBLED

Farmers to Release Millions of Bushels.

Twice as many of those steel bins that dotted the corn belt last year will speckle the landscape this year as part of the AAA's "ever normal granary" program, the department of agriculture indicated yesterday.

Bids will be taken by the department thru tomorrow on enough of the bins to store a maximum of 60,000,000 bushels of corn which may be delivered to the Commodity Credit corporation this fall, the department announced.

Already about 60,000,000 bushels of 1937 and 1938 corn turned over to the government in payment of loans to farmers are held in the bins as the farmers of the country prepare to harvest a corn crop of approximately 2 billion 2 hundred million bushels.

Described as Precautionary.

Department officials described preparation of the bins as merely "precautionary" and said the amount of corn turned over to the CCC may be substantially less than the 60 million bushels for which the steel bins will be provided.

However, estimates in grain circles ranged from a minimum of 25 per cent to a maximum of 50 per cent of the old crops now under seal that may be turned over to the CCC. Because about 400 million bushels are under seal in farmers' cribs and only a small part of that repossessed can be dumped on the market without violating the original plan of the AAA—price stability—observers said the department's "precautionary" measure is well taken.

In the top corn producing county of Illinois—McLean—officials of the state agricultural conservation association estimated that 1,300 of the steel bins must be erected this year. There already are 622 tanks filled with corn in the area.

May Deliver 4 Million Bushels.

The officials, Frank Hubert, president, O. V. Douglass, vice president, and Roy E. Wright of the county staff, said that approximately 4 million bushels of corn now in sealed cribs would be delivered in payment of federal loans. About 100,000 bushels of bin room is available in the county.

Surveys of farmers have indicated that only about one in four plans to reseal his corn this year. Lee Gentry, chairman of the state agricultural conservation association, has said:

"If the loan program is going to be abused by wholesale delivery the effectiveness of the program will be lost and the whole structure of the ever normal granary program will bog down from its own weight."

Reason Farmer Lacks Interest.

Among possible reasons cited for the lack of interest among farmers this year in resealing their corn are the two cent cut—from 7 to 5 cents—in the amount paid farmers per bushel for storage in resealing and the large amount of space needed to store the 1940 crop.

A further complication, according to grainmen, is the high moisture content of the 1940 corn crop which will make it unsuitable for long term storage in most sections. This is in sharp contrast with the crops of the three preceding years which were of exceptionally high quality.

ENGLISH NOTES REACH DEADLINE PRICE OF $3.57

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The price of an English £1 bank note soared to a closing bid price of $3.57 today as holders thruout the country deluged money brokers to escape the deadline on a British ban against currency imports.

Last week the British treasury announced that after Aug. 27 no English currency could be imported. The move was planned to circumvent Nazi use of vast amounts of English currency circulating in German-controlled areas in Europe. A few months ago a £1 bank note was worth between $2 and $2.50 in the local market. When the import announcement was made last week the price had reached $3.50.

Money dealers estimated about £300,000 in currency reached the market in the last week. A sizable portion of this, they said, came from war refugees.

The price of English notes has no relation to quotations for the free and official pounds, currently about $4.03.

CELANESE CORP. PUTS 25 MILLION LOAN ON MARKET

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—A public offering of $25,000,000 of 3 per cent debentures of Celanese corporation of America, maker of cellulose acetate yarns, to provide funds for retirement of an existing bond issue and for plant additions and improvements was announced today.

The debentures, due in 1955, will be formally offered tomorrow at a price of 98 by a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co. and Glore, Forgan & Co. Of the proceeds, $10,550,000 will be applied to redemption of 3 2-3 per cent debentures due in 1948.

Regarding the balance of the proceeds, the underwriters' prospectus said they were to become a part of the general funds of the corporation, and that "the corporation estimates that over the course of the next two years it will use out of its general funds approximately $14,000,000 for plant additions, equipment, and improvements."

United States Sugar Profits Higher in Year

In a report covering the fiscal year ended June 30 United States Sugar corporation yesterday announced an increase in net income and asserted that the improved showing was made in the face of governmental interference, crop damage, and other unfavorable factors which raised the cost of its product.

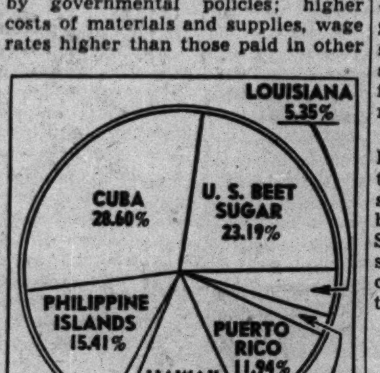
Clarence R. Bitting assails government sugar control.

Profit of the company, which grows sugar cane in the Everglades district of Florida and produces raw sugar which it sells to Savannah Sugar Refining company, was $846,679, equal to 54 cents a common share. In the preceding year net income was $798,841, or 50 cents a share.

Clarence R. Bitting, president of United States Sugar, said that the cost of 96 degree [purity grading] raw sugar increased to $42.28 a ton, from $40.69 a ton for the preceding crop.

Reports Adverse Conditions.

He said that adverse conditions included: "Governmental interference with the supply of American products for the American market, relatively low average prices resulting from, and uncertainty engendered by governmental policies; higher costs of materials and supplies, wage rates higher than those paid in other regions supplying sugar, and unfavorable weather."



The drawing shows the percentage of sugar supplied to the American market by the various sources.

Concerning government control, which he charged "is not for the best interests or protection" of consumers or producers, Bitting said:

"Control of sugar production continued thru the operation of the sugar act of 1937. Declaration of war in September resulted in an unreasonable increase in sugar prices and necessitated suspension of marketing quotas on Sept. 11. Marketing quotas were again imposed effective Jan. 1, 1940, and as a result hundreds of thousands of tons of sugar were dumped on the market in the last few days of 1939.

Protests on Regulation.

"In April, 1940, hearings were held before a congressional committee relative to 17 bills having as their objective the continuation of governmental restrictions and control, coupled with taxes on food necessities of our fellow Americans and so-called benefit payments to sugar producers.

"The company's president appeared before the committee and objected to continuation of governmental restrictions on production of sugar, a nonsurplus necessity of life.

"The necessity of suspending quotas in September, 1939, occasioned by an unwarranted increase in prices charged American consumers, is definite and complete proof that sugar legislation is not for the best interests or protection of either consumers or producers.

Opposes Tax and Benefits.

"The corporation continues to protest both the excise tax on sugar and the benefit payments for crop restriction."

Benefit payments of $470,007 for the year were $183,741 less than the total of processing and excise taxes imposed on the company's output by the government, the report showed.

Bitting said unfavorable climatic conditions ruined about a third of the company's crop, on which catastrophe insurance with Lloyd's of London was carried. He said conditions in Europe may make it impossible to renew such insurance.

STOCK EXCHANGE DELAYS ITS PLAN FOR SPECIALISTS

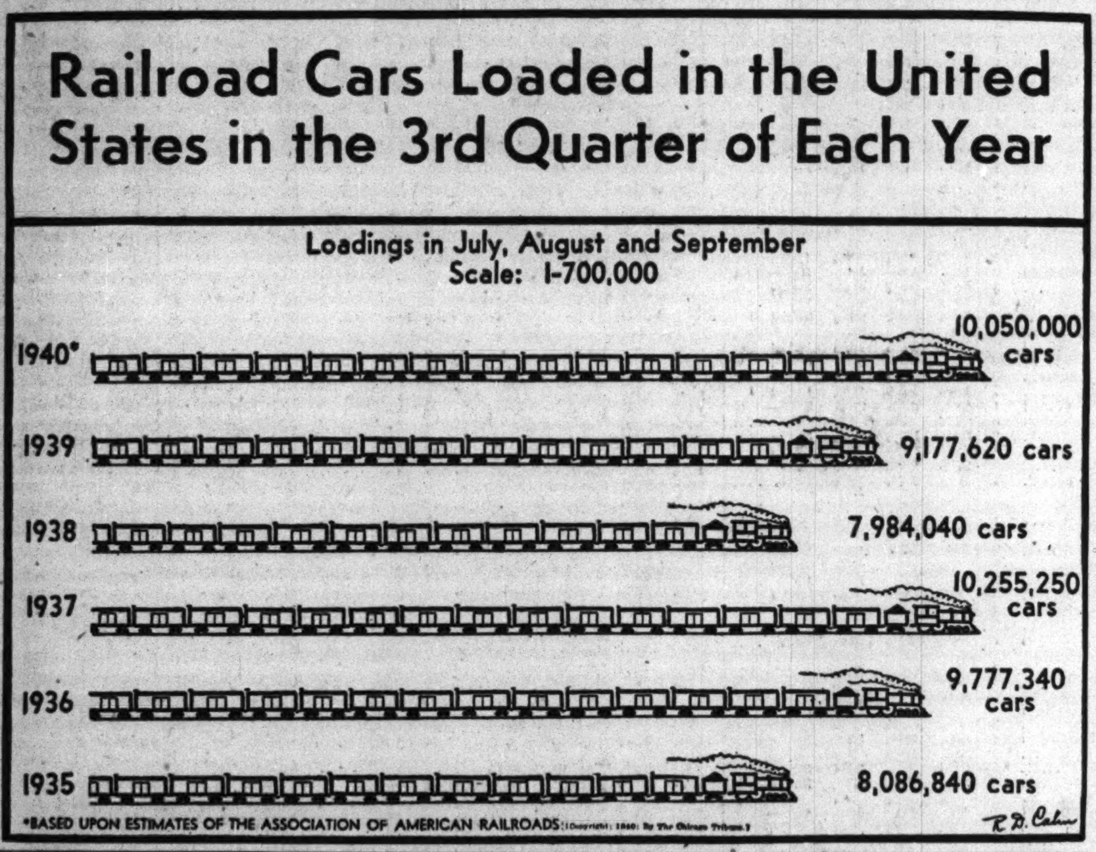
Scheduled to become effective tomorrow, the appointments of new specialists and odd lot dealers announced last week by the Chicago Stock exchange will not go into effect until the close of business next Saturday, Arthur M. Betts, chairman, announced yesterday.

The change in date will make the appointments effective the same day the New York Stock exchange order forbidding its members to "make markets" on other exchanges goes into effect.

Chicago officials said the delay also would give them time to learn the outcome of a Security and Exchange administration request that the "big board" delay its action.

Gen. Dawes Spends 75th Birthday Fishing

Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, accompanied by a group of friends, spent his 75th birthday yesterday fishing near Wagon Wheel Gap, Colo. Gen. Dawes, former Vice President of the United States and is now chairman of the board of the City National Bank and Trust company, is expected back in the city tomorrow.



Urge Extended N.Y. Exchange Trading Hours

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—With the volume of trading on the New York Stock exchange at the lowest level since 1916 in several recent trading sessions, agitation among members for a longer trading session has been renewed.

A proposal to extend the closing hour to 4 p. m., New York time, from the present 3 p. m., has received considerable support, it was learned in brokerage circles. The Association of Stock Exchange Firms was said to be supporting the move, and to have conferred with exchange officials on the proposal.

Seek Increase in Volume.

Proponents of the plan urge it as a method of increasing trading volume, since it would give traders a longer period in each day to execute orders. Some with offices on the Pacific coast were said to favor the move, because the present closing hour in New York is only noon there.

Opponents of the plan have taken the position that there is more than ample time to execute all the business available in the present five hour trading period [two hours on Saturday] and that extending the hours might result in a burdensome increase in expense, particularly when the 40 hour week becomes effective, under the federal fair labor standards act, in October.

Once Considered Saturday Closing.

The last time there was serious agitation for a longer trading period was in June, 1939, when the exchange considered closing on Saturday. This brought proposals for extending the trading period on the other days.

While officials of the exchange declined to comment on the present movement, which has developed in recent weeks, it was understood the board of governors may discuss it at its meeting tomorrow.

CHICAGO WEIGHS PLAN.

The governors and a special committee of the Chicago Stock exchange have been considering independently for some time a plan to lengthen trading hours, and discussion among some members yesterday indicated that action may be taken regardless of what the New York exchange decides to do.

C. I. O. LOSES FIRST ELECTION TEST IN WALL STREET

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—The first election for collective bargaining representation in the Wall street area resulted today in loss for the Bank and Brokerage Employés union [C. I. O.], which had petitioned the National Labor Relations board for the balloting.

The election was among the 65 union eligible employés of the stock exchange firm of Newburger, Loeb & Co. The result was close, with 34 voting against representation by the Bank and Brokerage Employés union and 31 in favor of it.

Newburger, Loeb & Co. issued a statement asserting: "We cannot help but feel that this vote reflects the satisfactory relationship which has always existed between ourselves and our employés."

HOUSE GETS TAX BILL; SENATE TO HOLD HEARINGS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—A combination excess profits tax and amortization bill—long urged as essential for accelerating defense preparations—was reported to the house today with the unanimous approval of its ways and means committee, voted yesterday.

Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] announced tonight that the senate finance committee would conduct three days of hearings, beginning Sept. 3, on the bill as approved by the house group.

Harrison said he believed hearings would be necessary because the measure reported by the house group differed in some respects from original subcommittee recommendations.

Rock Island Road Plans Loan to Buy 1,100 Cars

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—Trustees of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad asked the interstate commerce commission today for authority to issue $2,472,000 of equipment trust certificates to help buy 1,100 freight cars costing about $3,090,000.

DOTTIE BECOMES TOO BIG A PAIN IN THE NECK OF NEW YORK CENTRAL

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 27 [Special].—The 22 foot pleasure cruiser Dottie has become such a pain in the neck to the New York Central railroad that it has asked the war department in Washington to do something about her. The trouble all began when Raymond Douglas of New York City, Dottie's owner, discovered that the war department about 10 years ago had declared navigable the little Annsville creek in which his Dottie is berthed.

Armed with the war department edict making it illegal for the railroad's main line to hem in the creek with an immovable bridge, Douglas served notice he intended to take the Dottie for a spin on the Hudson river last July 14. A crew of 30 obediently tore up the rails and raised the railroad drawbridge at the outgoing and incoming toots of the impertinent Dottie's whistle. The process has been repeated nine times since then.

Railroad officials filed an application with the war department, asking permission to build a "fixed" bridge. The railroad says the creek is not navigable and traffic should not be delayed by the "whims" of amateur yachtsmen.

HEARST NAMED IN $4,800,000 SUIT FOR FORECLOSURE

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—A suit to foreclose an outstanding $4,844,750 mortgage on five properties, including the Ziegfeld theater and the Warwick hotel, was filed in Supreme court today by Continental Bank and Trust company as successor trustee under the bonds issued in connection with the mortgage.

The suit also asked judgment against William Randolph Hearst, under a guarantee signed by him for payment of interest and principal of the bonds, for the $4,844,750 outstanding, less $24,223 on deposit toward payment of interest which will fall due Dec. 1.

The five parcels were described in the papers as "Hearst-Brisbane properties." Besides the theater on the northwest corner of Sixth avenue and 54th street, and the hotel, on the northeast corner opposite, the remaining three parcels are on East 57th street, between Fifth and Madison avenues.

The mortgage was given by the W. A. R. Realty corporation and the bonds were issued on June 12, 1925. Hearst's guarantee was signed on the same date, according to the papers.

SHAREHOLDERS UNITE INDUSTRIAL GAS COMPANIES

Stockholders of the National Cylinder Gas company and Compressed Industrial Gases, Inc., yesterday approved a merger under which the two Chicago companies will operate under the name National Cylinder Gas company, effective Aug. 31.

Previously drawn up and signed by the companies' boards of directors, the merger plan was adopted almost unanimously by the 80 per cent of National Cylinder's stockholders who were represented and by the 85 per cent represented at Compressed Industrial's meeting.

Neither company has any bonded indebtedness or preferred stock. The exchange will be made on the basis of 1.45 shares of National Cylinder for each share of Compressed Industrial. Assets combined in the merger total about 11 million dollars.

C. J. Haines, president of National Cylinder Gas, will continue as president of the successor corporation, and Horace B. Pearson, president of Compressed Industrial, will be chairman of the executive committee.

DECLARES STATE UNION CONTRACT TO BE ILLEGAL

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 27 [Special].—Demand of the Marine Engineers Beneficial association [A. F. of L.] for a union contract with the state of Michigan covering certain state ferry employés is unlikely to be met, Leonard C. Sauer, office manager for the state highway department, said today.

Sauer, who is representing the department in negotiations with union officials, said he was convinced the state had no legal right to enter into a labor contract with any union. He said wage adjustments would be approved if a comparison of department pay rolls with the union's wage scales showed material discrepancies.

Inflow of Gold from Abroad Is Still Heavy

Gold from foreign countries still is arriving in the United States in large amounts, the sources showing no signs of drying up despite the vast quantities imported in the last year, according to figures published yesterday by the department of commerce.

Hubert Pierlot ordered Belgian's gold to United States.

The department said imports of gold in the week ended Aug. 21 totaled $105,540,418, only about $5,000,000 less than in the preceding week. The larger shipments originated as follows: In Canada, $87,274,258; Portugal, $3,799,929; Sweden, $2,255,481; United Kingdom, $3,075,382; the Netherland East Indies, $4,261,490; Hongkong, $1,040,778, and the Philippine Islands, $1,009,015.

Earmarked Gold Increases.

The amount of gold deposited under earmark [storage] in the federal reserve system for foreign government and central bank account increased $28,140,340 to $1,680,863,971.

Some light on the gold situation in conquered Belgium was provided yesterday in an Associated Press radio dispatch from Berlin. The dispatch concerned a meeting of the directors of the National Bank of Belgium, at which the directors considered a senator's demand for an explanation as to what had been done with the bank's gold. The senator asserted that 21,700,000,000 gold francs held prior to the war had nearly all disappeared. [The franc, when last traded, was worth about 3 2-5 cents.]

Deposited in Other Countries.

Georges Janssen, governor of the bank, replied that the gold reserves are on deposit in the United States, England, France, and South Africa, a German radio dispatch from Brussels to Berlin said.

Janssen said the gold was sent abroad by order of the former government of Premier Hubert Pierlot, and that the part sent to the United States now is "frozen" under a Presidential embargo order. Since June 25, he said, the Belgian exchequer has not had any gold at its disposal. Up to that time, the bank had advanced the government 325,000,000 gold francs and had turned over 1,500,000,000 francs to the Bank of France, Janssen said. He said his bank had small hope of recovering the money from France.

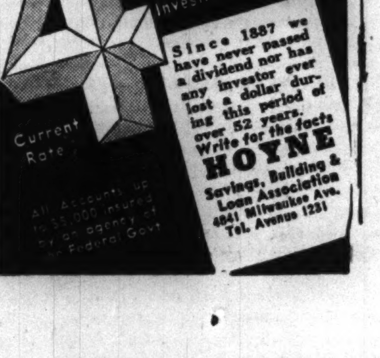
FIRST OFFERING MADE UNDER NEW TRUST MEASURE

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The first new investment company offering securities under the recently enacted federal law regulating investment companies was announced today.

Lord, Abbett & Co. offered publicly five classes of common stock of Union Trusteed Funds, Inc., involving about $10,000,000 at current prices.

"The new company embodies in its corporation organization a number of features harmonizing with the spirit as well as the letter of the recently enacted bill," the announcement said.

Cited as one of the features was a provision for a management contract expiring in two years and renewable only after approval of directors or by a vote of the majority of the outstanding securities. Directors must be elected by stockholders, except to fill vacancies.



FEARS OF WAR'S SPREAD INDUCE RISE IN WHEAT

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Monday	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .71¾	$ .70⅝	$ .66⅞
Corn	.61⅜	.61½	.43⅝
Oats	.28¼	.28	.29⅝
Rye	.39	.38½	.39
Soy beans	.73	.68¾	.69¾

Reports that Russian and Rumanian troops had clashed and increased political tension between Rumania and Hungary combined with mill buying and short covering yesterday to carry wheat prices 1 cent or more higher.

Final prices in Chicago were 1 to 1⅜ cents higher. Kansas City paced the upturn, rising 1½ to 2⅛ cents.

Corn was unsettled with September ⅛ cent lower and the new crop months ⅝ to ⅞ cent higher. Oats gained ⅛ to ¼ cent, and rye ½ to ¾ cent.

Soy Beans Show Strength.

Soy beans showed independent strength and gained 4¼ to 4½ cents. Lack of offering was responsible for the upturn, brokers said.

Commission houses reported a marked increase in outside interest in the wheat market. Houses with Minneapolis connections were active on the buying side in Chicago. Only 146 cars of cash wheat sold at Minneapolis on Monday out of total receipts of 1,620 cars. Fears of a shortage of storage room in the northwest are increasing as the result of the large movement of wheat going into the government loan.

Traders observed that if hostilities broke out in southeastern Europe, the world's wheat situation would be further complicated, as that area and Russia are the only sections in Europe that raise more grain than is needed for domestic needs.

Estimate World Wheat Supply.

New figures on the world's supply of wheat were issued by the department of agriculture. The crop is estimated at 3,970,000,000 bushels, or 300 millions less than in the preceding season. Including the carryover, aggregate supplies for the 1940-'41 season are placed at 5,345,000,000 bushels, or 115 millions less.

The corn market was affected to some extent by an announcement attributed to the bureau of agricultural economics that the government loan on the 1940 crop may be mandatorily fixed at 61 cents a bushel.

Under the law a corn loan rate is established if the price of grain on Nov. 15 is below 75 per cent of parity, or if the prospective crop is above normal consumption and exports. Last year's loan was 57 cents, or 70 per cent of parity.

Indict Plane Fabric Men on Trust Charge

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—A federal grand jury here today indicted four aircraft fabric manufacturing companies and six individuals on charges of violation of the Sherman antitrust law in connection with the government's investigation of alleged monopolistic practices among firms engaged in supplying military products under the national defense program. These are the first indictments since the jury began sitting on July 11.

Samuel I. Isseks, special assistant to the attorney general, who is in charge of the case, said the four firms had a virtual monopoly in the manufacture and distribution of the special fabric that is used to cover wings, tail surfaces, and parts of the fuselages of army, navy, and commercial aircraft. This includes unarmed ships used to train aviators in the national defense program.

Charge Prices Fixed in 1936.

According to Isseks, the alleged conspiracy in restraint of trade dated from October, 1936, and continued up to the time that evidence in the case was presented to the grand jury.

He charged that the defendants, since October, 1936, had continuously engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to "establish, fix and maintain arbitrary, rigid and noncompetitive prices."

Those indicted are: Wellington Sears Co., Inc., a Massachusetts corporation with principal offices here; Weston Howland, of Milton, Mass., vice president; W. C. Hay, Ridgewood, N. J., in charge of production and sales; Howard M. Brigham, New York, in charge of sales of aircraft fabric.

Suncook Mills, a New Hampshire corporation, with offices here, and J. Linsee Weld, treasurer; Val Dietz Jr., in charge of sales of aircraft fabric, both of Yonkers, N. Y.

Have Little Competition.

The manufacture of aircraft fabric, it was said, is difficult and not subject to general competition because of technical and processing problems in preparing the long staple cotton thread needed for weaving it.

In 1936, the indictment charges, the defendants agreed at a meeting to fix prices at which the fabric should be sold to manufacturers of airplanes, thus creating an alleged overt act under the antitrust law. The price level agreed upon has remained up to the present, the indictment states.

A large amount of evidence on prices of goods needed by the United States for preparedness already has been presented to the grand jury by Isseks, and other indictments in important industries are predicted.

More Steel Companies to Hold Prices Steady

The American Steel and Wire company and the Jones & Loughlin Steel corporation were among additional steel companies which announced yesterday that they were reaffirming present steel prices in the fourth quarter of this year.

LEO T. CROWLEY TO LEAVE FDIC FOR UTILITY JOB

Resignation Awaits New Legislation.

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, plans to resign his governmental post and give full time to his duties as the executive head of the Standard Gas and Electric company as soon as certain legislation affecting the government agency is passed by congress, he said here in an interview yesterday.

Leo T. Crowley.

Standard Gas on Monday disclosed that Crowley had succeeded Bernard W. Lynch as president of the public utility holding company. Crowley was made chairman of the board of the company last December.

Headquarters May Return.

Crowley also said that the headquarters of Standard Gas, which was moved from Chicago to New York on April 1, 1939, because of a controversy over personal property tax assessments, would be moved back to Chicago as soon as the tax litigation is cleared up.

Standard Gas is one of the largest utility holding companies in the country, with assets of more than 900 million dollars. Judge John J. Lupe of the Superior court on July 27 gave a decision favoring Standard Gas in its fight to avoid taxation on certain of its intangibles, largely securities held in its subsidiaries operating in states other than Illinois.

Planned to Take Job April 1.

"When I agreed to become chairman of the board of Standard Gas the understanding was that Lynch was to continue president of the Standard Gas until April 1 at which time I was to become president as well as chairman," Crowley said. It had been expected that problems affecting the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation would have been settled by the April 1 date and I would get out.

"However, it was not possible to clear up these matters as quickly as expected and the last of our problems are just now being settled. Further, I was especially anxious to see that legislation was passed by congress which would reduce assessments on the banks belonging to the insurance corporation from 1-12 of

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The war again took the principal blame today for another slipshod stock market. While a few rails, coppers and specialties managed to come out a trifle on top, there was a wide assortment of small minus signs at the close. Many issues were unchanged or failed to open.

Trading picked up a bit from yesterday's volume, which was the second slowest for a full day in 24 years. The turnover was 224,100 shares, compared with 161,740 Monday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished unchanged at 42.3.

The list was shaky from the start and never developed a definite trend. A little selective buying came in after midday and steadied some groups, but others were virtually ignored.

A sustaining influence was seen in the business outlook and earnings and dividends inspired fresh support for several stocks that had been in the doldrums recently. Reaffirmation of fourth quarter steel prices apparently brought scant response from the hard metal shares.

A substantial year-to-year increase in the first seven months' automobile registrations did not stir the motors. Expanding copper and department store sales propped stocks in these categories. Mounting traffic and new income buoyed rails.

Moderately ahead were New York Central, Great Northern, Pullman, Anaconda, Kennicott, Bullard, Loft, Armour, Wilson & Co. Cudahy, Sears Roebuck, Marshall Field, North American and Sperry.

On the offside were Bethlehem, Chrysler, United Aircraft, International Harvester, American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse and U. S. Rubber.

Improved in the curb were American Cyanamid B, Creole Petroleum and Humble Oil. A shade lower were Gulf Oil, Niagara Hudson Power and Pennroad. Trading was about 38,000 shares, against 26,000 in the preceding session.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—Foreign dollar bonds moved erratically today in a thin market. Altho most domestic corporate issues drifted irregularly in small trading, offerings of some foreign loans found bids only at wide changes.

With the continuation of heavy air attacks on England, British empire issues were lower. Brisbane 5s, on a single transaction, broke 6 to 49 and Australia 4½s of 1956 yielded a point.

Belgium 6½s of 1949 broke nearly 7 to 50⅛. Off 2 or more were Berlin City 6½s, Leipzig 7s, and Helsingfors 6½s. Denmark 6s of 1942, on the other hand, jumped 4¾ to 39⅞.

Most United States Treasury obligations lost ground with several down 3-32ds to 8-32ds.

Chicago Stocks.

For the second consecutive day Four Wheel Drive stock yesterday reached a new 1940 high with a rise of ½ a point on the Chicago Stock exchange. In the day's trading 10,000 shares and 66 issues changed hands. Marshall Field common, Merchants and Manufacturers, Armour, Swift, and Libby were the volume leaders. More issues advanced than declined.

Bank Stocks.

STOCK EXCHANGE ILL JUDGED, SAYS BROKER LEADER

The New York Stock exchange is the least understood and most ill judged institution among the organizations of national importance in the United States, E. A. Pierce, partner of Merrill, Lynch, E. A. Pierce and Cassatt, and president of the New York Stock Exchange Firms, yesterday told members of the Rotary Club of Chicago.

Pierce said the exchange was not "iniquitous." He declared that evils have been and are being removed, that today the exchange is one of the most progressive institutions in the country.

Buying and selling of securities is "a better protected process today than ever before in history," he said. This is partly the work of the Securities and Exchange commission and partly the new attitude of investment brokers, he said.

People and Events

Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation yesterday announced the following appointments: Carl H. Youngdahl, to be assistant superintendent of the power production division; Charles L. Clarke, as superintendent of yards and transportation; Russell W. Davy, to the post of construction engineer, and Howard C. Brown, as assistant superintendent of yards and transportation.

L. N. Bowen, Wayne county, Mich., superintendent of the National Fire Group, was named agency superintendent of the organization's western department. Alfred C. Gunther, Ohio special agent, was appointed state agent in Minnesota for the National Fire Insurance company of Hartford, the Colonial Fire Underwriters, the Mechanics and Traders Insurance company, and the Franklin National Insurance company of New York.

Ross W. Thomas of Phillips Petroleum company has been elected president of the Hydrocarbon Chemical and Rubber company, recently formed to manufacture synthetic rubber ingredients. Waldo L. Semon was elected vice president and research director.

The directors of the Board of Trade have elected Delbert F. Gerdon of Chicago to membership on the exchange.

Commodities

Most commodities prices advanced in the principal futures markets yesterday. Domestic sugar futures gained 4 to 5 points as the result of the department of agriculture's announcement of a reduction of 136,383 tons in the estimate of consumers' requirements for 1940. This automatically reduces by that amount the sugar import quotas of the Philippines, Cuba, and other foreign countries.

Domestic sugar sales were boosted to 50,750 tons as strong short covering started, and speculative demand added to the advance, which at one time lifted prices 9 points. September contracts closed at 1.71 bid, January at 1.80 bid, and March at 1.83 bid. World futures were slow, with final quotations unchanged to ½ point higher.

Raw spot sugar markets strengthened in line with the futures and in some quarters sold at 2.70 cents a pound. Refined was steady at 4.20 to 4.35 cents.

In domestic copper dealings, independent consumer buying again was apparent and a substantial tonnage was moved. Sales on Monday totaled 3,799 tons, against 383 on Saturday and 1,983 on Friday. Copper prices held firm.

Trade in the lead market was quiet. Futures closed ½ point lower. Zinc futures were quiet and finished unchanged.

Government business remained the most important factor in the wool market. Wool tops futures closed 3 to 7 points higher, with October at 93.8 bid. On the spot side, standard tops continued to advance and finished ½ cent higher at $1.02. Hides, which were strong Monday, went up ¼ cent a pound. Raw hide futures closed 19 to 27 points higher on a moderate turnover, with September closing at 8.75.

Crude rubber futures were fairly even, finishing 1 point higher to 1 point lower. Silk futures held steady for the most part. Cocoa futures gained 1 to 3 points. The spot coffee market was quiet, and futures sagged.

TRUAX-TRAER NET LOSS IS REDUCED IN JULY QUARTER

Coal Company Shows Gain in Its Production.

Truax-Traer Coal company, Chicago, which produces bituminous and lignite coal in the middle west and Canada, reduced its consolidated net loss in the quarter ended July 31 and had a larger output than in the corresponding period of last year, the company reported yesterday.

Net loss was $110,415 for the latest period, which constitutes the first quarter of the fiscal year. In the first quarter of the preceding year consolidated net loss was $170,599. In both cases the figures were after deductions for depreciation, depletion, and taxes. Officials said the company normally operates at a loss in the three month period because of the seasonal slackening of demand for coal.

Production in the three months was 767,623 tons, an increase of 26 per cent over the output of 608,883 tons in the corresponding 1939 period.

Poor & Co. Orders Climb.

Poor & Co., Chicago manufacturer of railroad supplies, had larger earnings in the first half of this year than in the corresponding 1939 period, and its backlog of unfilled orders was 50 per cent larger on July 1 than a year earlier.

Six months profit was $497,000 compared with $382,000 in the first half of 1939. Second quarter earnings, however, declined to $193,000 from $252,000.

Crown Zellerbach corporation, newsprint and paper enterprise operating on the Pacific coast, reported net income of $2,501,522 for the quarter ended July 31, the second largest quarterly earnings in the history of the company. The earnings represented a gain of 44 per cent over the $1,729,874 profit for the corresponding period a year earlier.

Archer-Daniels Earns More.

Archer-Daniels-Midland company of Minneapolis, producer of linseed oil, processor of soy beans, and distributor of tung oil and other imported oils, announced a large increase in profits for the year ended June 30.

Net income amounted to $3,047,014, equal to $5.41 a share on the common stock, compared with $1,839,481, equal to $3.01 a share, in the preceding year.

Public Service Company of Indiana reported for the seven months and year ended July 31. Seven month profit was $1,111,134, compared with $808,730 in the 1939 period, and the year's net income was $1,742,339, against $1,480,346.

Net income of $24,787,364, equal to $2.29 a share, before depletion but after depreciation, was reported by Kennecott Copper corporation and subsidiaries for the six months ended June 30. In the first half of 1939 profit on the same basis was $10,112,169, equal to 93 cents a share.

Dow Chemical Plans Big Financing for Expansion

Midland, Mich., Aug. 27 (AP).—Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical company, said today the company expected to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission for issuance of new securities to finance expansion of magnesium metal production at a Texas plant. He said the statement probably would be filed this week and would seek approval of a sale of $15,000,000 of 10 year debentures and $10,000,000 of common stock.

FIRMS' DIVIDEND ACTIONS REFLECT BUSINESS GAINS

Bridgeport Brass Will Pay 25 Cents.

Thru their dividend actions two large metal working and manufacturing companies yesterday gave concrete evidence of the increased rush of business in the industry in the last few months.

Bridgeport Brass company, Connecticut manufacturer and dealer in copper, brass, and other nonferrous metals, voted a dividend of 25 cents a share, the first payment since 10 cents was distributed on Dec. 17, 1937. The current dividend is payable Sept. 30 to stock of record Sept. 16.

Vote First Regular Payment.

The first regular dividend to be paid on preferred stock of the American Rolling Mill company, Ohio sheet metal producer, since arrearages were cleared as of Aug. 30, was declared by directors. The distribution will be $1.12½ a share, payable Oct. 15 to stock of record Sept. 16.

Charles R. Hook, president, said that while there has been improvement in prices, with larger earnings in prospect, "I do not care to make any statement with respect to the possibility of a resumption of dividends on the common stock."

FINDS MONOPOLY IN CLOSED SHOPS; CONTRACT UPSET

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 27 [Special].—A union closed shop contract may constitute a monopoly, Vice Chancellor W. Frank Sooy ruled today. His opinion outlawed closed shop provision in contracts of the United Oystermen's Union [A. F. of L.] with the F. F. East Company, Inc., of Baltimore.

In declaring the provision "monopolistic and void," Chancellor Sooy said that the union had closed shop contracts with about 95 per cent of the industry in the Delaware bay area within New Jersey boundaries.

He held, further, that his opinion applies in effect to the other companies in the area, even tho they did not take the case to court. The East company operates an oyster shucking and packing plant near Leesburg, N. J.

At a preliminary hearing of the suit a year ago, the vice chancellor refused a temporary injunction against the contract. Today, however, he declared that a labor organization "may not monopolize the labor market so that one not in its fold is precluded from working."

The court ruled that other provisions in the contract affecting wages, hours, and working conditions should continue.

FARMS BULWARK OF DEMOCRACY, SAYS WICKARD

Falls City, Neb., Aug. 27 (AP).—Agriculture is better prepared than any other industry to help bulwark democracy in a war-ridden world, Claude R. Wickard, newly appointed secretary of agriculture, asserted here today.

He spoke at a four state farm rally in the first prepared address since his appointment to succeed Henry A. Wallace, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee whose policies Wickard pledged to "continue and strengthen."

"Thru the farmers' foresight, with the help of the farm program," he said, "the nation today has an abundance of those farm products which are as essential in war time as the guns and munitions."

A strong American agriculture, Wickard declared, is essential "if we are to meet the challenge of aggressor nations."

Best & Co.'s Winnetka Branch to Open Today

Best & Co., New York specialty store, will open its new Winnetka branch today at 700 Oak street. With the exception of three managers, the staff of the new store is made up of Winnetka residents. Best & Co., founded in 1879, has stores in suburban New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, and Washington, D. C.

INDUSTRY HOLDS GAINS IN OUTPUT, SAYS SCHALLER

Some Branches Maintain Capacity Peaks.

Industrial activity in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district held to high levels, and even capacity peaks in some branches in July and August, normally periods of recession, George J. Schaller, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, reported yesterday.

An exception to the brisk activity, Schaller said, was the automobile industry, which finished production of 1940 models and changed over to the 1941 lines.

Because of the decline in automobile assemblies, total employment and pay rolls in the district declined in July as compared with June, altho a number of manufacturing groups added to their working forces and pay rolls, the review said.

Near Drouth Curbs Crops.

In connection with the farm outlook, Schaller said that near drouth conditions in July in some areas adversely affected the corn crop and pastures.

"Notable among the major industries that have been operating at a high rate is steel," said Schaller. "Practical capacity operations continue to be maintained by steel mills of the Chicago district. Incoming steel business has been somewhat lighter in July and August, altho buying of steel by the automotive industry, the railroads, and under the national defense program has increased.

"New business of steel and malleable casting foundries expanded substantially in July and was notably above a year ago. Activity in the machine tool industry continues great.

Retail Distribution Slips.

"Retail distribution of commodities in this area was less in July than a month earlier, in accordance with the seasonal trend, but continued to exceed year ago volumes. Wholesale trade was well above last July.

"Principally because of the summer furniture markets, new orders booked in July by district furniture factories rose sharply over those for June, and both new business and shipments were well above volumes for the corresponding 1939 month."

Schaller said July building contracts awarded in the district were in the largest volume for the month since 1929. Activity at paper mills was at a faster pace than a year earlier, he reported.

Total employment in the district's industries was 4 per cent less in July than in June, Schaller said, and pay rolls declined 7 per cent. Small counterseasonal gains in employment and wage payments were recorded for the metal group, and nondurable goods manufacturers added 4 per cent more workers and increased pay rolls 3 per cent. Employment in the durable goods industries was reported to be 16 per cent ahead of a year ago, with pay rolls showing a gain of 24 per cent.

EBASCO DECISION DELAYED; BOARD SHIFT SUGGESTED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission today deferred for 60 days a request of Ebasco Services, Inc., for approval as a subsidiary service company under the public utility holding company act. The SEC objected to interlocking directors of Ebasco and its parent, Electric Bond and Share company, being paid by both companies.

The commission said this made effective regulation impossible, and suggested that either of the two following steps be taken:

1. That the officers and employés who now hold positions in both companies sever their relations with either of the companies.

2. That Bond and Share undertake to pay the entire compensation of the common officers and employés.

"We have, in the past, permitted interlocking officers of the holding company and subsidiary service company in a number of instances where cost allocation was affected thereby," the commission said. "We believe, however, that we were in error in permitting those situations to continue."

GASOLINE PRICE WAR SPREADS IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Aug. 27 [Special].—Retail gasoline interests today estimated that nearly half of this city's 6,000 filling stations and garages had embarked on a cutthroat gas price war.

The price war was attributed to invalidation of the city's year old price posting law early this month, on the ground that it involved an unreasonable restraint of competition. Other factors, according to Sol A. Herzog, counsel for the Garage and Gasoline Station Operators Council of New York, are the retailers' fear of anti-trust suits if they attempt to support price levels.

The fight has carried prices down to as low as eight gallons for $1.05 in some sections.

Shoe Producer to Enter Low Price Field, Expand Plant

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP).—The A. E. Nettleton company announced today it would enter a "lower price" shoe field this fall for the first time in its 61 year history, and that it was expanding its plant to double output.

Hercules to Break Ground at Once for Powder Plant

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 27 (AP).—Hercules Powder company announced today it will break ground this week for construction of a $1,000,000 plant at Parlin, N. J., which it will operate for New Jersey Powder company.

ROOSEVELT PONDERS REAPPOINTMENT OF LABOR BOARD'S HEAD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt said today he still was considering whether to reappoint J. Warren Madden as chairman of the labor board. Madden's five year term expired last midnight leaving only two members, Edwin S. Smith and William Leiserson, to conduct the board's affairs.

J. Warren Madden.

Meanwhile several house members renewed their efforts to abolish the board's research division headed by David Saposs, whom they have accused of radical tendencies. The congressmen comprising the labor subcommittee of the appropriations committee, appeared before the deficiency subcommittee to urge that specific language ordering the board to eliminate the division be written into a $150,000 appropriation requested by the board for printing and binding.

August Ore Shipments on Lakes Near Record

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27 (AP).—On the basis of actual shipments for the first 22 days this month, vessel movements of Lake Superior iron ore for August are expected to exceed 10,500,000 gross tons. This would be the largest monthly movement since the all-time record of 10,811,381 tons was established in August, 1937.

LEO T. CROWLEY TO LEAVE FDIC FOR UTILITY JOB

1 per cent to 1-14 of 1 per cent of their total deposits.

"It now appears likely that congress will pass this legislation shortly and when this is done I feel that I can move out of the agency."

Crowley said that in the case of the larger banks in the big cities the legislation provides that if the banks take out deposit insurance on interbank deposits they will pay the proposed 1-14th of 1 per cent assessment. However, if they elect to eliminate interbank deposits from the bank deposits assessable they will continue to pay the 1-12th of 1 per cent rate. He estimated that the legislation, if passed, would save some of the larger Chicago banks 20 to 25 per cent on their assessments.

"My interest is to place Standard Gas in a stronger financial position," Crowley continued. "The first thing we must do to accomplish this is to reduce the company's $72,000,000 debt. Our proposal for the exchange of debentures for shares of new common stock of the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company is a step in this direction. Eventually the holding company must divest itself of all its western subsidiaries. We cannot go on indefinitely with a $72,000,000 debt burden and delinquency in dividends on the preferred stock.

"We want to bring back the head offices of Standard Gas from New York to Chicago. The place for the headquarters is right here in Chicago. But this cannot be done in justice to our stockholders until the matter of the personal property taxes as applied in Cook county is settled definitely by court action."

Crowley said that Lynch has been made chairman of the finance committee of the Philadelphia company, a subsidiary which in turn controls utility operating subsidiaries in the Pittsburgh area, and a member of the board of directors of San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric. Lynch will make his headquarters in Chicago.

Joe Ozanic Wins Skirmish in Battle to Keep Mine Job

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP).—The Illinois district convention of the Progressive Mine Workers of America voted today in favor of an election to fill international offices of the union, but sidestepped a demand for the immediate ouster of Joe Ozanic, international president.

Joe Ozanic.

Delegates to the state convention adopted a resolution urging district officers to confer as soon as possible with President William Green of the American Federation of Labor and attempt to arrange the election.

The action was interpreted as a victory for Ozanic, who earlier had made a 90 minute plea for support of the international organization and charged the "pro-C.I.O National Labor Relations board" had curbed P.M.W.A. expansion in coal fields outside Illinois.

Immediate removal of Ozanic and Claude Pearcy, international union secretary-treasurer, had been advocated in a resolution introduced by the Collinsville local union, No. 41. The officers have served since 1938 by appointment of Green and the A. F. of L. executive council. The local proposed that state officers take over international union affairs pending an election.

This resolution, however, did not reach a vote after the convention approved unanimously a substitute offered by John Richard of Taylorville, chairman of the convention resolutions committee.

His resolution directed "the district officers and President William Green to get together as soon as possible for the purpose of making arrangements whereby the rank and file of the P. M. W. A. will have the right to select by a vote their international officers."

The convention defeated a proposed amendment, by Delegate Joseph Barkoski of Collinsville, to insist that the international union election be held within six months.

By adopting a resolution presented by the Gillespie local union, No. 1, the convention went on record as opposed to the Burke-Wadsworth military conscription bill before congress.

STATE, NATIONAL OIL PRODUCTION LOWER FOR WEEK

The flow of crude oil from wells in Illinois dwindled last week, holding to a downward trend that has prevailed in recent weeks, the Oil and Gas Journal reported yesterday. The plublication also said that national production of oil was smaller than in the preceding week.

Illinois wells averaged 381,300 barrels a day, a drop of 11,400 barrels as compared with the daily average for the week ended Aug. 14, the journal estimated. The largest weekly production for the state was 518,224 barrels in the last week of June. The decline since then has been attributed to a slackening of the yield from wells in the deep Devonian formation.

BOOST MICHIGAN PRICES.

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., Aug. 27 (AP).—Michigan crude oil producers today were implementing price increases that ranged from 5 to 10 cents a barrel, and at least in some cases boosted the level to a two year high.

The price in the southwestern Michigan field except Van Buren county, where no change has yet been posted, was advanced to $1.18 to keep pace with a previously announced increase in central Michigan which brought prices in varying sections of that field to levels ranging from $1.07 to $1.12.

Gasoline Rates Reduced.

New York, Aug. 27 (AP).—The Socony-Vacuum Oil company today announced reductions of .1 to .3 cent a gallon in posted prices of gasoline at bulk plants thruout New York and New England, effective tomorrow.

The Corporation and its subsidiaries intend to continue in business of the general character outlined in the offering prospectus and, from time to time, may develop, produce and sell other and new products.

Drs. Camille and Henry Dreyfus were active in the organization of the Corporation (in 1918 under the laws of Delaware) and of British Celanese Limited and Canadian Celanese Limited, and reference is made to the offering prospectus for information concerning common directors and officers of the Corporation and such companies and the relationships of the Drs. Dreyfus to the Corporation and such companies.

DEBENTURES: The 3% Debentures are not to be secured by any lien (except under certain circumstances) and are to be issued under an Indenture, dated August 1, 1940, between the Corporation and City Bank Farmers Trust Company, as Trustee. The Indenture is not to authorize the issuance of any additional securities thereunder. The creation of unsecured indebtedness by the Corporation is not to be restricted by the Indenture, except that the Corporation is to covenant not to have outstanding at any one time, except under certain conditions, secured or unsecured funded debt (as defined) in excess of the sum of (a) the 3% Debentures then outstanding, (b) the then unpaid face amount of the 1¾% Bank Loans, and (c) $5,000,000 of additional funded debt. Reference is made to the offering prospectus as to covenants in the Indenture with respect to indebtedness of wholly-owned subsidiaries, and as to certain restrictions on dividends and on distribution of assets by the Corporation.

SINKING FUND AND REDEMPTION: The Corporation is to covenant that (subject to the credit referred to below) it will, semi-annually from August 1, 1941 to February 1, 1955, retire Debentures through the Sinking Fund in the following principal amounts: the first nine semi-annual installments to be of $100,000 each; the remaining semi-annual installments to range from $600,000 to $1,100,000 each; such retirements being sufficient in the aggregate to retire $16,400,000 of the Debentures prior to maturity. The Corporation is to be entitled to a credit, in respect of any Sinking Fund obligation, for Debentures theretofore redeemed (other than through the Sinking Fund) and not previously credited. Retirements for the Sinking Fund may be effected by the deposit by the Corporation of Debentures (theretofore acquired by it otherwise than through redemption) or by redemption of Debentures at their principal amount plus accrued interest.

The Debentures are also to be redeemable (otherwise than through operation of the Sinking Fund) as a whole or in part at any time at the following percentages of the principal amount thereof plus accrued interest: 101% to August 1, 1945; 100½% thereafter to August 1, 1950; and 100% thereafter and prior to maturity.

UNDERWRITING: Subject to certain terms and conditions, the underwriters named in the offering prospectus (including the undersigned) have agreed severally to purchase the 3% Debentures from the Corporation, not later than the eighth full business day after the effective date of the registration statement, at 95¾%, or a total of $23,937,500, plus accrued interest. The offering price of such Debentures to the public is 98%, or a total of $24,500,000, plus accrued interest. The underwriting discount is 2¼%, or a total of $562,500 (not including $40,000 to be paid by the Corporation in reimbursement of certain of the expenses of the underwriters).

plus accrued interest from August 1, 1940, to the date of delivery

The offer of these Debentures is made only by the offering prospectus and is subject to the terms of offering set forth therein, and to approval of legal proceedings by Messrs. Wright, Gordon, Zachry & Parlin, counsel for the underwriters, and by Messrs. Shearman & Sterling, counsel for the Corporation. It is expected that the Debentures in temporary form will be ready for delivery on or about August 29, 1940, at the office of Dillon, Read & Co., New York, against payment therefor in New York funds.

TO FACILITATE THE OFFERING, IT IS INTENDED TO STABILIZE THE PRICE OF THE 3% DEBENTURES, DUE AUGUST 1, 1955. THIS STATEMENT IS NOT AN ASSURANCE THAT THE PRICE OF THE ABOVE SECURITY WILL BE STABILIZED OR THAT THE STABILIZING, IF COMMENCED, MAY NOT BE DISCONTINUED AT ANY TIME.

Further information, in particular financial statements, is contained in the registration statement on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission, and in the offering prospectus which must be furnished to each purchaser and is obtainable from only such of the undersigned as are qualified to act as dealers in securities in this state.

7 MONTH INCOME PAYMENTS RISE TWO BILLIONS

Reach Peak for Period Since 1930.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 [Special].—An increase of more than 2 billion dollars in income payments to individuals in the first seven months this year over the corresponding 1939 period was reported today by the department of commerce.

After allowing for seasonal influences, the department said, this indicated payments at an annual rate of 73 billions against a revised total of $70,070,000,000 for 1939.

The payments made thru July this year amounted to $41,600,000,000, against $39,578,000,000 a year earlier, and exceeded payments made in any corresponding period since 1930, the department said.

July Total 6 Billions.

Income payments in July totaled $6,070,000,000, compared against $6,252,000,000 in June this year and $5,736,000,000, in July, 1939. The July decline was seasonal, the report said. After allowance for these seasonal influences, the adjusted index of income payments advanced from 88.7 in June to 89.0 for July [1929 equals 100].

The income index has shown a slightly rising trend during recent months but has so far recovered only a part of its losses during the first quarter of this year, and continues below the level of 90.3 recorded during January, the peak month of the recovery movement, the report said.

Industry's Rise Offset.

The rise in industrial activity during the spring and early summer has been largely offset so far by a sharp reduction in the cash income of farm operators and a marked decline in work-relief earnings, according to the report. After eliminating the effect of the decline in farm income, the index of nonagricultural income has risen from 88.7 in April to 90.8 for July. During July this index reached the highest level since June, 1930.

Pay rolls in July aggregated $3,750,000,000, compared to $3,864,000,000 in June and $3,565,000,000 in July, 1939. The July drop in pay rolls was less than expected, and the department's seasonally adjusted index of salaries and wages rose slightly from 87.7 in June to 88.1 in July, when it was within 1 per cent of the 1939 high of 88.9 recorded last December.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN ASKS BIG BOOST IN HOUSING FUND

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt urged again today that congress pass the long-pending bill increasing by $800,000,000 the borrowing power of the United States Housing authority.

He told his press conference that the government wanted as much private capital in the slum clearance and low-cost housing work as it could get, but that where it was not available the government would have to build its own quarters for national defense.

Senator Wagner [D., N. Y.] said after a White House conference that President Roosevelt favored his proposed amendment to the 5 billion dollar defense bill earmarking $100,000,000 for housing projects.

Day by Day on the Farm

Hog-Tight Fence.

Aug. 27, 1940.

A NEW hog-tight fence was built thru an alfalfa field at the Du Page county farm last week. It consists of two smooth wires fastened to insulators on steel posts. Farmers used to think it took a lot more than two strands of wire to turn hogs, but that was before the days of electric fences, the kind that keep farm animals in bounds by giving them a harmless shock when they touch the wire.

Electric fences have been in common use at the farm for three years, but this was the first one built to turn hogs as well as cattle. The fences ordinarily are made with only one wire. The reason for using two wires instead of one with this fence is that both hogs and beef steers are to be pastured in the field and it is difficult to place only one wire at the right height for both. If the wire is high enough to keep cattle from stepping over it, the hogs are likely to walk under without touching it.

Uses Dry Cell.

The bottom wire of the new fence is 14 inches from the ground, the top one 30 inches. The wires are charged by a six volt dry cell battery. The entire control outfit, battery and all, can be carried easily in one hand.

Building electric fences has become a routine job with the farm workers and they can build them in a hurry. When using steel posts the men wire insulators to the posts, drive the posts in the ground, string the wires on the insulators, hook up the electric controler, and the fence is ready for use. The only difference when using wood posts is that the insulators are spiked to the posts with nails. The fences are easy to take down and move.

One of the simplest features of an electric fence is the gate used with it. This was illustrated the other day as one of the farm workers casually walked around with two of the gates in his pocket. Both were full sized electric fence gates and both were in the same pocket. The pocket easily would have held several more.

Picture the wooden handle of an old fashioned water bucket, with a wire thru the hole in the center, and you just about have a gate for an electric fence. The wire has an eye hook at one end of the handle and is twisted at the other end to form a short coil spring with an eye hook.

It Weighs an Ounce.

The gate is installed at a post in the fence, each end being hooked to a loop in the wire. The spring holds the wire taut. To open one of these gates a worker merely takes hold of the gate, or handle, unhooks the wire, and lays it down or pulls it back out of the way. This leaves an opening in the fence the entire distance between two posts. To close the gate he picks up the handle and hooks the wire again. The wooden handle keeps him from touching the wire and getting a shock. A full sized electric fence gate weighs slightly more than one ounce and is said to be sag proof.

The alfalfa that is being pastured is part of a field where the stand is too thin to leave for a hay crop next year. This portion of the field will be plowed up after it has been grazed for a few weeks.

A. & P. SYSTEM WINS ROUND IN CHAIN TAX FIGHT

Court Bars Levy on Stores in Columbus, Ga.

Columbus, Ga., Aug. 27 [Special].—Chain stores today won another important skirmish in their fight to prevent the imposition of special municipal taxes when Superior Judge W. E. Thomas of Valdosta, in a decision filed here, granted a permanent injunction against the collection of Columbus' special chain store license tax scaling up to $400 per store.

The granting of the injunction followed a special hearing held here before Judge Thomas Aug. 19 in the case brought against the city commissioners by the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company.

Tax Cut from $1,200.

On four particular grounds Judge Thomas held that the city could not collect the tax which had been scaled down from a maximum of $1,200 per store to a maximum of $400 per store after the state Supreme court last year had invalidated the larger tax.

The grounds upon which the injunction was granted follow:

1. The ordinance violates the rule long recognized in this state that municipal ordinances must be reasonable.

2. The ordinance violates the fully established rule in this state that the power of a municipality to classify a business for taxation does not authorize the municipality to classify and tax a business and then to attempt to classify and tax separately that which in its nature is a mere incident of the business so taxed and which could not exist independently of the business so taxed.

Uniformity Rule Cited.

3. The ordinance violates the uniformity clause of the state constitution.

4. The power of municipal corporations to classify for taxation does authorize a municipality in this state to take as the basis for classification taxpayers' businesses operated outside the municipality and thruout the United States.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, plaintiff in the case in which the interests of all chain stores were involved, also was the plaintiff in the previous case in which the state Supreme court had held that the proposed tax was "unreasonable, arbitrary, discriminatory, and confiscatory."

EXCAVATORS.

What does Bucyrus-Erie make? I would like some information about its capital setup, profit record, and dividends. Where is its main office?—G. D.

Answer: Bucyrus-Erie company is the world's largest manufacturer of excavating machinery and tools used in general construction, mining, irrigation, dredging, and levee building. The company's headquarters is in South Milwaukee, Wis.

Capitalization of the company is composed of 58,320 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value and 1,225,727 shares of $5 par common stock.

The company's business varies with activity in heavy construction projects. Consolidated net income, earnings per common share, and dividends per common share in recent years compared as follows:

1935	$156,429	....	....
1937	1,892,543	1.20	0.75
1938	677,953	0.20	....
1939	1,775,307	1.10	0.50

Net income in the first six months of 1940 rose to $1,100,271, equal to 73 cents a common share after provision for the preferred stock. In the first half of 1939 net income was $679,487, or 38 cents a common share. A dividend of 25 cents a common share was paid July 1. Regular dividends have been disbursed on the preferred stock.

SEASONED STOCKS.

When stock brokers talk about "seasoned stocks" to what to they refer?—B. H.

Answer: Stock issued by a company of long standing and prominence and with a favorable financial history is often termed "seasoned." The price of such a stock is said to be less sensitive to adverse developments of a temporary nature than are so-called unseasoned stocks. The term "seasoned" necessarily is applied loosely because no fine distinction between seasoned and unseasoned stocks can be drawn.

DEFUNCT.

Do you know whether the Southern Oil and Refining company is out of business? Do you furnish reports on small oil and mining firms?—E. M.

Answer: The secretary of state of Colorado reports that the Southern Oil and Refining company was formed in 1917 and declared inoperative in 1931. Reports on small oil and mining companies are supplied by this department.

SOCIAL SECURITY.

When is the government to start paying old age and survivors benefits?—F. S.

Answer: Benefits are payable after Jan. 1, 1940. It has been estimated that the social security board will pay out 114 million dollars in benefits this year.

CLASS 1 RAILS EARN ABOUT 11 MILLION IN JULY

Largest for That Month Since 1937.

Net income of class 1 railroads in the United States in July was approximately 11 million dollars, Dow-Jones & Co. estimated yesterday. Reports from 44 carriers indicated that the railroads earned more in July than in any month so far this year and that July income would be the best for that month since 1937 when earnings reached $18,500,000.

Dow-Jones said that better showing was made in face of substantially increased outlays for maintenance and larger transportation expenditures.

Northern Pacific Gain.

Northern Pacific reported a larger net operating income in July and for the seven months. July income was $744,462 against $482,720 last year, and for the seven months was $5,146,540, compared with $2,176,131 in 1939.

Net operating income of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois was less than half of that in July of last year, totaling $24,732 against $55,994. Net operating income for the first seven months of 1940 totaled $59,828, compared with $36,725 in the corresponding 1939 period.

Monon reported a net operating income of $75,376 in July after having a net operating deficit of $11,240 a year earlier. Its seven months net operating income increased to $600,491 from a deficit of $331,355 a year ago.

CATTLE AND HOGS REACH HIGHEST PRICES OF YEAR

Cattle and hog prices yesterday rose thruout the United States to new highs for the year. The first $8.00 hogs appeared at Pittsburgh, marking the highest price paid in this country since last September. Chicago led the rise in cattle, the top reaching $13.15, highest since May of 1939 and equal to the highest August price in three years.

Meat prices continued to rise, with demand stimulated by light supplies in Chicago and rising costs of meat animals to processors. Many cuts reached new highs for 1940.

Buyers scrambled for the limited supply of hogs available. Chicago packers ran into brisk eastern competition. Soon after a 10 to 15 cents higher opening, buyers offered 25 cents higher rates, and at the close of trading bought some heavy butchers as much as 30 to 40 cents above Monday's rates. The $7.65 top was highest since Sept. 27. Prices averaged $6.80.

The $13.15 cattle top was paid for a shipment of prime steers that averaged 1,350 pounds. Most steers sold from $9.50 to $12.65. Prices ranged from steady to 25 cents higher for the day. Advances of 15 to 25 cents carried heifers to a peak of $11.90, the highest for this class since January, 1939. Beef cows were steady to strong. Calves were steady.
